THE anti-cigarette bill did not pass in the late session of the legislature. It was killed in the senate. There was no argument whatever in favor of keeping the poisonous things on sale, but that honorable body was evidently a little afraid that it could be interpreted as a step toward the prohibition of something else and consequently they killed the measure.—Call.

WITH the railroad rates in the foreground, the fear of a visitation of the cholera in the background, and excessive hotel rates in all the intermediate space, the average citizen does not derive much satisfaction from a contemplation of the World's fair picture, at the present time. But fares must come down, the cholera can be shut out, and the Chicago robbers will be subdued in due time. The fair is too great an enterprise to be held back by even these influences.—Journal.

THE explanation that is made by the hilarious twenty thousand majority that so triumphantly elected Carter Harrison mayor of Chicago the other day, is that the fair has cost the city a great deal of money, and it must have an unobstructed chance to get the money back out of the rural rooster that visits the city to see the exhibition. Everything that takes in money must therefore be allowed to run day and night and Sunday all summer long. Harrison is the man to see that it is done.

A PARTY of Nebraska statesmen are now doing the sights of Colorado and Utah. It is headed by the Hon. (accout) Thomas Majors and the Dishonorable Walt Seely. It is safe to say that no senator who opposed the railroad bill in the recent session is with the junketeers. The chances are that the men who are steering this party levied on a Pullman car and politely held the railroads up for transportation. It must be comforting to the railway men to know that the time may not be far distant when state legislators must pay their railroad fare or stay at home.—Bee.

A NEW French company has been organized for the avowed purpose of rehabilitating and carrying to its completion the Panama canal scheme. It is proposed to raise $40,000,000. Count Keratry of Paris has arrived in New York and will afford Americans an opportunity to get in on the ground floor. However feasible the completion of the Panama canal may appear, it is to be apprehended that the count will find American capitalists rather cold. The recollections of the "Mississippi Bubble" and the exposure of the Panama scandal staring them in the face are not calculated to impress capital in any country with special confidence in the economy of French schemes.

IT MUST seem more or less irksome for a man who has been putting in a few months making laws for the people and drawing a salary of $5 per diem and mileage, to go back on the lonely farm, change his Sunday clothes for a blue denim blouse and overalls of the same texture, and pile out every morning before daylight to feed and curry the horses, slop the flogs, gather the eggs and milk ten cows before breakfast, work in the field all day with eyes and ears blown full of dust worth $35 per acre, and then walk a mile at night to run in debt for two bushels of seed potatoes. All this must certainly seem, as we suggested, a trifle irksome.—State Journal.
