WELLFLEET.
Mr. Brahman has purchased a new self binder and a number of other farming implements. This looks as though he was driving the cart before the horses. In my opinion he should have waited to see how the crop will turn out.
W. C. Elder took a four day lay-over in North Platte last week and while there added a new wagon to his outfit.
The Davis Hotel was opened the other day and a dance given in the evening. There was a large party and lots of fun.
Joseph Wolaver, Miss Annie McCosha and Mrs. Wm. McConahay of North Platte visited J. T. Labille and family this week.
A boy lit his pipe on a load of hay near Elder's place, the hay caught fire and he barely had time to unhitch the horses and save them and himself. The prairie caught fire from the burning hay and it required hard work and a long time to put it out. This should be a lesson to our smokers.
Wm. McCounahay, of North Platte, purchased a fine lot of Holstein cattle the other day and has placed them on J. T. Labille's farm.
A dance was held at the residence of George Ferguson on the 24th. Quite a large crowd was present and a pleasant time is reported by those attending.
J. A. Young has locked horns with the B. & M. to recover damages for cattle and horses killed on the track. Stay with them Mr. Young.
J. H. Nance is visiting John Labille. They had not seen each other for twenty years, although Mr. Nance has been living in the neighborhood of Wallace for the past three years.

DEAR EDS.—After a period of silence we will give you a few items.
Osmer Marly, aged thirty years, died with consumption on the first inst. The remains were taken to Iowa by the brothers of the deceased, Oscar and Forest Marly. For four months the deceased was patient sufferer.
Moses Brooks has been quite unwell, but is better and is out attending to his business.
There is six inches of snow and the young folks are taking the advantage of it in the way of sleigh riding.
Our literary has had a vacation of three weeks. It will open again Saturday next.
There has been some plowing and tree setting done during the past warm weather.
Ed. Murphy has been to Cheyenne for the past week selling hay.
Wm. Beatty sold twenty five fat steers for upwards of fifty-one dollars each. He thinks he done well by feeding.
We have two schools in our district both of which are doing finely.
We notice a sulky plow standing at the residence of one of our good neighbors. We think he means to raise something, or at least try to raise something, the coming season.
We have as good soil here for corn as can be found in this or any other state. There was corn planted here the 5th day of last June which made good solid corn and went twenty-eight bushels to the acre. There are hundreds of acres of vacant land lying in the hills and many a homesteader could secure a good farm. Parties hunting homesteads will pass Lincoln county and go from one to two hundred miles further west to find land when by spending a little time they could find good homesteads among the hills of Lincoln county as can be found further west.

booming North Platte is soon to be issued from that town and without a doubt a few correspondences from Wallace of the above stripe will be liberally paid for. The fact is our lumber yards carry as large a stock in season as those at any other town doing the same amount of business. As very little building is done in the winter it would be folly to carry a large stock. As well might a restaurateur lay in a stock of ice cream for winter use or an implement dealer lay in a stock of plows in the fall. People can come right along to Wallace and be treated as white as anywhere.—Wallace Herald.
Nothing; not even any of the lumber which our yards have been carrying in stock this winter, but judging by the way the Herald bristles up one would naturally suppose that its editor had been fed on lumber this winter, and his digestive organs being of a weak nature have failed to digest all of the knots and therefore he is of the opinion that our yards are well stocked with lumber. We have interviewed the managers several times and find it is no fault of theirs as they have shown us orders which were sent out the early part of December and which have not been filled yet. Our merchants carry a full stock of goods; our bankers have the best of facilities which has been proven by the loans they have made, where others have failed to get the money. We know of a number of men who have come here after lumber who had money to pay for the same and who have since gone to North Platte and Paxton after it, and as a natural consequence would do considerable trading at these points which would come here had our lumber yards carried such stock of lumber in proportion to stock of dry goods, groceries, etc., which our merchants carry. Is it justice to our merchants and bankers to tolerate such complaints? Answer this ye consumer of knot-holes. The Herald is off again when it says an 'edition booming North Platte is soon to be issued from that town.' There is talk of an edition being issued from North Platte booming this county, and should Agricola have anything to do with it, Wallace and vicinity will have her share of the boom. Again, Agricola is not unknown to the Herald as Agricola made himself known to the Herald editor as well as to three-fourths of the business men of the town. Oh, yes, come right along to Wallace and you will be treated white, just as white as you were ever treated in this wide world and you will find as agreeable managers and clerks as ever weighed out a pound of coffee, measured off a yard of calico, sold a load of coal or figured up a bill of lumber.
AGRICOLA.

Frontier County.
From the Curtis Record.
Frontier county boasts of a citizen who is nearly a centenarian. His name is James Moffat, and he lives about five miles south of Curtis. In three years more he will have completed his one hundredth birthday, and is still able to walk a mile without becoming fatigued. During the active period of his life he was a minister of the gospel. He was born in the year 1791, fifteen years after the United Colonies declared themselves free and independent of Great Britain. During the eventful course of his life he has witnessed the wars of 1812, the Mexican war and the civil war. He was born in the time when stage coaches were the only means of conveyance, when the steamboat was unknown, and the railroad was a thing unheard of. Since that time he has witnessed the arrival of all these, together with the telegraph, telephone and the innumerable and countless inventions and improvements in the way of machinery. The thoughts of what this man has seen, leads one to compare the present age with that in which the morning of his life was spent, and to cause those who are in the active period of their lives to appreciate more fully the advantages which the present age of thought and progress affords.
Considerable sport was afforded the railroad boys by the awkwardness exhibited by the "scab" in charge of the engine Tuesday night. The thing was evidently too big for him to handle easily, as he could not stop it within several feet of where he desired to. When he got to the water tank he stopped too quick, and when he attempted to pull up he ran by, and it was only by the efforts of the fireman that he avoided running the spout from the tank into the top of the first coach.
The B. & M. has abandoned the work on the proposed new branch from Culbertson to Holyoke and is shipping the rails, ties and other supplies intended for its completion along its various lines for repairing purposes. Thus the main prop is knocked out from under Holyoke's anticipated spring boom.
On the trial of Darius Brown, last Thursday, for the sale of liquors, on Sunday, the accused was proven guilty and fined $100 and costs of trial. Attorney Starr, of Indianapolis, appeared for the defense and County Attorney Stewart prosecuted. Other cases against the same party will be tried at the April term of the district court. It is generally believed that Brown has been selling without government license. If this proves true, it is likely to go very hard with him. Uncle Sam is never very lenient with violators of the revenue laws.—Stockville Faber.
