Two Hundred Thousand Dollars From all Sources for Missions in 1888.

POTTER, NEB., March 16th, 1888. During the last fifty years the grand question which has absorbed the best minds and hearts in the Church of God is, How to bear the message of life to the whole human race as soon as practicable? Home Missions and Foreign Missions are but two gigantic arms of our still more gigantic work—a world's evangelization.

Because the movement is of God it cannot be stopped. The waves will be swept back, and the tide is fast rising. The very roar of the sea is God's voice of thunder calling his people to leave no human soul to live and die without the Gospel.—A. T. Pierson.

My duty is to have published in the various newspapers in my district, articles on the subject of Christian Mission and give the reading public information on general missionary work, and seek to arouse an interest in the grand work of saving our race. The missionary enterprise is the most enabling and beneficent work that ever engaged the thought or aspirations of man. Consequently it demands attention and investigation wherever the missionary has gone and his message is received, and the gospel of Jesus embraced. Statements have become more numerous and just, merchants more honest, masters more human, servants more faithful, husbands more affectionate, wives more tender and chaste, and children more filial; the drunkard, sober; the stingy, liberal; the suspicious, confiding; the stoical, social; the sad, joyous; the desponding, hopeful; the passionate, patient; the thief, honest; the hard hearted, tender; the blasphemous, a person of clean lips; the unclean, clean; the miserable happy; and the sinner a saint.

The family has been blessed where prayer was never offered, praises to God never sang, love was a stranger and God forgotten. Now prayer is heard, the praises to God are sung, peace prevails at the domestic hearth, and love binds the household.

"O! things have passed away, and all things have become new." Nations have also felt the benign influence of the gospel of Jesus, and rejoiced in its transforming power.

Wherever the Bible is most read and its precepts followed there we find constitutional government, there are free schools and means for educating the masses, there are progressive science, improved mechanics, steam power, telegraphs, telephones, farming machinery, railroads, there are systematic reliefs for the mendicant, the blind, the deaf and dumb, the insane and every charitable religion. And these can be found nowhere else.

Woman elevated to her legitimate sphere, and motherhood respected and cherished; society dwells securely, each "Sitting under his own vine and figtree," and all because the spirit and genius of the gospel of Jesus has effected his potential and transforming influence.

Hence to be associated with Christian missions, is to be associated with a system whose influences always and forever designs the highest culture, and happiness of the human family.

The Methodist Episcopal church last year contributed to the cause of mission by collection only, $1,000,000. This year we hope to raise by the same method the sum of $1,200,000.

This is fast becoming a missionary age, "more doors of access are constantly being opened, more missionary organizations formed, more laborers sent forth, more new translations of the Bible made and more copies scattered, more converts to Christianity, and more evangelizing agencies set in motion." Thank God!

"The day is breaking. We are living, we are dwelling In a grand and awful time! In an age on ages telling; To be living is sublime. Hark! the waking up of nations—Gog and Magog to the fray! Hark! What soundeth! 'Tis creation's Groaning for the latter day."

Yes, the time is hastening. God is rolling on the ages with awful sweep and force. He is crowding a whole century of opportunities into a day. He is bringing the world together, so that the Church may compass, know it, traverse it, a hundred-fold quicker and better than in former generations. Competent engineering authorities assure us that in five years we shall be able to go around the world in forty days, and go in comfort and with all the security of our modern civilization! And are not such facts the voice of God speaking out of the cloud to His people to go forward?—Missionary Review.

The visit of Livingston to England in 1856, after his memorable walk from Lorado to Quillemane, from the shores of the Atlantic to those of the Indian Ocean, gave a fresh impetus to the cause of Foreign Missions in this country. The great object he aimed to enforce upon the public mind was the elevation of the natives of Africa; to him "the end of the geographical feat was the beginning of the missionary enterprise." The London Missionary Society redoubled their generous exertions, resolved to extend their labors by establishing Missions among the Matabele and the Makololo.—Robert Moffat.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Adam Forepaugh will erect a brick and iron circus pavilion in Philadelphia. He will use it two months in the year.

Mme. Mianle Hauk has recovered from the effects of the serious accident which befell her recently at Geneva and has resumed work on the stage.

Senator Palmer, of Michigan, has the reputation of being the finest linguist in the upper house of congress. He can make a speech in English, French or Spanish.

President Cleveland reads French readily. Garfield was the only President who ever made a speech in a foreign language. He could make a fluent oration in German.

Jay Gould paid 900,000 for his country house in the Hudson, and it is said to cost him $400 a day or nearly $150,000 a year. It embraces almost a square mile of land, ninety-six acres of which is lawn.

An American can be an American and a state's right man, an American and a republican, an American and a democrat; but denied if he can be an American and a freetrader, says the San Antonio Express, (dem.)

There are two hundred private railroad cars in the United States, representing a value of nearly $5,000,000. They are worth anywhere from $1,000 to $60,000 each, the most luxurious probably being that owned by George M. Pullman.

A New York school boy is considered fortunate in having won $15,000 from a street railway company for the loss of an arm. A good arm on a healthy body will reach farther than that amount of money, large as it appears to be.

Two Chinese applied for naturalization and were granted their first papers in the criminal court yesterday, March 12. This was wrong. The naturalization of Chinese is contrary to the plain language of the statute, and it has also been held to be illegal by a Federal Judge.

The Minnesota man who organized the Mankota Gas Company should go east and seek a larger sphere where trusts are appreciated. It is thought that the assets of the company will reach $20,000; its capital stock was $80,000, and its bonded and floating indebtedness aggregated $55,000.

One of the wrinkles among fashionable women the coming summer will be to carry telescopes. Many strong telescopes made so they can be carried in a small compass, have been purchased, to be used at seaside resorts and in traveling. It has been in vogue abroad for some time, but is just being introduced here.

The check which university education has recently received in Russia may be judged from the diminution in the number of students at the St. Petersburg University. Whereas there were on Jan. 1st, 1886, 2,889, and on the same day in 1887, 2,627 students, on Jan 1st, 1888, there was no more than 2,053 names enrolled on the lists of the colleges.

Typhoid fever in 1887 killed from two to four times more people in the country districts in New York state than in the cities in proportion to the death rate of each. The ratio of cases—and a typhoid fever from which a patient gets well often entails consequences from which the victim never recovers—would be still greater if there was a record of them. The Massachusetts returns give the same experience, and if we had any vital statistics in this state worth anything, they would show that this deadly disease does its worst and most frequent work on farms.

A Frisky Wolf. When a Nebraska engineer has a story to tell it is a big one. One of them is just now asserting that a large gray wolf jumped on the track ahead of his engine and kept up a gait of forty-five miles an hour for twenty-two. Then having furnished the engineer something to lie about his wolfship jumped into a thicket.

A Narrow Escape. A "quilting bee" given by Mrs. Ruhe at her home near Wallace, was brought to a sudden termination with what might have been a serious accident Wednesday afternoon. Seven of the ladies had eaten dinner and resumed their quilting. The remainder of the guests and the family were taking their turn at the vands when Charley Ruhe came in from a hunting trip. Some one told him to hurry up if he wanted any dinner, and of course he hurried. Just about that time the gun he was setting down exploded, the shot passing through the door and scattering among the women. Owing to its force being broken by the door, no serious injuries were inflicted, although all the ladies in the room were struck by glancing shot.—Wallace Herald.
