The fact is quite prob- who served in the army were not, as of Mr. Fairhurst last week, paying able that he would prefer the stars and bars to the stars and stripes.

CASPER E. YOST, of Omaha, is making an effort to secure the Republican nomination for state treasurer. Mr. Yost is an active worker in the party, having been chairman of the state central committee for four years, being thus well known throughout the state. He is an excellent man, but the western counties having a candidate, they will go down favorable to Mr. Sutherland of this city. The western part of the state has never been represented on a state ticket. It now asks for such representation and presenting a gentleman of unexceptionable character it believes its claims are entitled to recogniwe have some rights and that those rights should be respected.

E. B. must certainly be aware of the facts. It is impossible to determine exactly the relative number of democrats and republicans in the Union army, but a tolerable close estimate may be made from the soldier vote in 1864 when McClellan was a candidate. He was the democratic soldier's idol and certainly called out the full vote of his party. This question is vote of his party.
