HA! HA! THE BEST OF ALL! It did not take five years to discover that the Jewel Gasoline Stove was the only safe gasoline stove made, but in 1887, the first year it was introduced in North Platte, FORTY-SIX were sold, more than was sold of all others combined. We have them with either drop tank or the pneumatic, and in the language of the poet, "no pump to get out of order or gas forced through the room," but can prove that less gas escapes from it than any stove made and can show it has many points of superiority over all others and prove to you that the Jewel is The Best Stove Made. L. STRICKLER.

County Commissioners Jas. Belton and Major Walker, accompanied by Surveyor I. A. Fort, were in Wallace Thursday.

The gentlemen were examining the country with the intention of laying out a more direct road from Wallace to North Platte. By the present route forty-five miles must be travelled, but Mr. Fort is satisfied that the road he has mapped out will lessen that distance by at least ten miles. It is the intention to petition for a tri-weekly mail service between the towns as soon as the road is made ready for travel. The commissioners realize that a little empire is developing down here that is deserving of more attention than has formerly been given it, and as Mr. Belton remarked, "You are getting so strong down here that it is necessary we should humo' you to keep you from dividing the county." The fact is this gentleman is never tarry in inaugurating any improvement in the way of roads or other matters through the county, and for this reason his popularity in the country products is great. His term expires this fall, and we hope to see him a candidate for re-election. Major Walker is an old Indian fighter, and entertained a number of our citizens with interesting reminiscences of the numerous expeditions he made early in the '70s after hostile Sioux. He is as familiar with the topography of our country as the oldest settler, and the Medicine, Willow and Blackwood valleys are his old stamping grounds. Mr. Fort also became acquainted with this section in the early days. Because of his knowledge of the country the commissioners have selected him to aid them in planning roads and to assist in appraising school lands. He is prominently identified with temperance work in this county, and is engaged just now in a laudable effort to get temperance men to make their influence felt in politics. He expects to return to Wallace soon, and try to effect an organization that will utilize the strong temperance sentiment here for the advancement of the cause.—Wallace Herald.

The city in located about midway between the North and South Platte rivers, the two streams coming together about three miles below. At present the South Platte is as dry as the desert of Sahara, the water being all drawn off by Colorado farmers for irrigation. But the North Platte is full of pure, mountain spring water and will likely remain so for all time.

North Platte claims a population of 3,000. The city is substantially built. Unlike many of the western towns its business houses are nearly all built of brick. The people take no little pride in keeping their premises in a neat and tidy manner. Beautiful lawns adorn nearly all the residence property. A complete system of waterworks has been put in within the past six months. Electric lights, gas and all the modern improvements give North Platte the appearance of a city of no mean pretensions. Several hundred people are employed in the Union Pacific machine shops and round house. This is the end of a division of the Union Pacific railroad, and it gives North Platte a great advantage over other towns in this portion of Nebraska. The citizens are looking forward to the time when North Platte shall be the next great city west of Omaha. Recent improvements would indicate that the citizens of this "city of the plains" are wideawake, progressive and enterprising. A creamery operated by the North Platte Creamery company, with a capacity of 2,000 pounds of butter daily, has recently been built on the bank of the North Platte, just north of town, and the manager informed us that he had demands far in excess of his supply, but that the farmers have taken an active interest in this industry and would engage more extensively in the dairy industry by the time another year rolls around. Cream is shipped in from all neighboring towns and the success of the enterprise is already assured.

An extensive flouring mill is another industry that is of great importance, not only to the city, but to the surrounding country. Its capacity is about to be doubled to meet increasing business. The Platte valley, in which this city is located, is about eight miles wide and in this for many miles up and down the valley are located some of the largest and best ranches in Nebraska. These ranches contain from two to five thousand acres each and are nearly all fenced and well improved.

Two miles to the northwest is the famous W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) ranch. This is still run by Cody, yet of recent years he has spent but little time there. On either side of the Platte valley there is a range of sand hills extending back some twelve or fifteen miles to a rich and productive country. Even the sand hills, so called, are being taken up and cultivated successfully.

The crops in the immediate vicinity of North Platte are of the very best. Wheat has yielded well this year. Corn promises a big crop. Hay is the principal crop owing to the thousands of heads of cattle and horses pastured in the Platte valley. The ranches have heretofore occupied pretty much all the best lands, but in recent years the small farmer is finding his way into this country and it will not be many years before the ranches will give way to the tiller of the soil on a smaller scale.

Twenty-five miles above North Platte the river was tapped by a small sized canal for the purpose of irrigating the valley. A great abundance of water was obtained and thousands of acres are now being watered in this way, yet the rainfall seems to be increasing yearly and irrigation will not be required to raise good crops. Splendid crops have been raised this year without irrigation and the latter is no longer considered a necessity to successful agriculture. We are indebted to Major Stevens of THE TRIBUNE, Mr. Grimes and Captain Frank Baker, for courteous attention during our day's visit at North Platte.

Children and a pistol invariably provide a funeral. The two children of a farmer near Holdrege toyed with a pistol, one of them securing a hole through his lungs. As a matter of convenience the family arsenal should contain a supply of coffins. A beautiful marble shaft now marks the graves of the Westphalen children who perished in Dodge county during the great blizzard of last January. It is a tribute of admirers to heroism and an offering of sympathy to the sorrowing mother. The scores of children and parents who contributed their mite to the monument fund will be gratified to know that the trust was faithfully executed. Four of the six tramps who were smothered to death near Yutan station on the Union Pacific road Thursday morning by the upsetting of a car of shelled corn in which they were riding have been recognized as follows: John C. Taylor, cigar-maker from Louisville, Ky., Chas. Sparks, of Wymore, where he has a better living; Earl R. Talbot, residence unknown, but recognized by letter found upon him addressed to Columbus, Neb.; Geo. R. Stokes, cigar-maker, of Coldwater, Mich. Woman's Relief. "Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal," whether arising from physical, mental or moral sources. The promises and consolations of the gospel furnish abundant remedies for all spiritual or mental woes, and the Creator has stored, in the kingdom of Nature, remedies for every physical ailment. For ages these remedies were allowed to lie dormant, through the ignorance of mankind as to their uses, and for ages more but little attention was given to remedies for the peculiar afflictions of woman, who was looked upon and treated as a slave by lordly, and then brutal man, and her suffering regarded with beastly indifference. In later times, science and Christian philanthropy have come to her relief, devising remedies for her peculiar weaknesses, which have been combined in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a remedy that cures the pains, aches, nausea, displacements, wasting and debilitating afflictions to which she is constantly exposed. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturer, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrappers, and faithfully carried out for many years.

The deficit in the postoffice department during the last fiscal year was $4,986,913. Of this deficit, thirteen southern states furnished $4,012,393 and thirty-two northern and western states furnished $886,520. It is evident enough when we find our mail facilities curtailed, that we are skimped for the benefit of the section that furnishes five-sixths of this deficit. The commercial cities of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago are forced to send their mails to South America and the West Indies on old wooden sail ships to save money to pay the deficit of $4,000,000 and upwards in these thirteen states. And the government makes a great profit out of them over and above the expenses of carrying their mail. If ample mail facilities were accorded the sections that have to pay the fiddler no one would complain of the southern deficit. But that is where the shoe pinches.—State Journal.
