Educational Notes.

R. H. LANGFORD, Co. Supt., EDITOR.

Teachers and those interested in school work will pardon the non-appearance of the notes during the last three or four weeks. What with the institute and what with a rush of other business, the editor found it simply impossible to keep the work up to the ordinary standard, and his motto is, "Better nothing than work poorly done."

The Institute has come and gone, the teachers and those in attendance have returned to their homes and their schools, and it is left for us to calculate the expense incurred, the benefits derived, and after comparison conclude whether the one is commensurate with the other. The subject has been carefully pondered, and the conclusion reached that the Normal, with all its defects, has benefited those who attended to such an extent that the intrinsic value has not been estimated. Teachers, is it not true?

Just as soon as the Superintendent can get abreast with his work, a full report of the finances of the Institute will be published and a statement of receipts and expenditures made, so that all parties can assure themselves that all money has been properly appropriated and everything in connection with the Institute conducted in a way to satisfy the most exacting. Teachers will not become impatient if they do not receive their school journal for a few weeks.

The examination conducted the last two days of the Institute passed off very pleasantly, and most of the applicants succeeded in securing certificates. Many of them had good points to dispose of, however, and a few failed to reach the minimum average. The Superintendent wishes to say to all the teachers that careful study is necessary and extra preparation for the exam is the only way to succeed. Lays a good foundation and build a solid and beautiful structure thereon.

Many of the teachers went home from the Institute and entered into the active work of the school-room. Fresh from a thorough drill, with new and better ideas established in the mind, they should be able to produce much better results, but this cannot be accomplished unless the teachers put energy, mind, soul and heart into the great work. The great lack of many teachers is a want of determination to carry to a successful conclusion the work which devolves upon them.

The following is a quotation from the examination papers of an applicant for a certificate: "I wish to thank you for the light of glory circle a supposed mark round the earth equator lined running through the earth tropics boundaries of frigid zone on the North and South horizon extent of night. The earth revolves and revolves as seasons the other days and nights yes the moon affects it." Had this young man attended the Institute he would have learned that it would be useless for him to apply for a certificate or he would never have done the work of which the above is a sample.

Under existing circumstances, it is due Prof. E. W. Hunt of the State University who so ably conducted the classes of the Lincoln County Institute in reading and grammar, to say that while in the last named study, at least many ideas were advanced entirely new to the majority of teachers, he had succeeded, through his radical views, untiring energy, thorough knowledge of the subject, pointed questions, sharp criticisms and practical applications, in imparting to the minds of those who were so fortunate as to have the benefit of his instruction, a thirst for knowledge and a desire to learn, know and appreciate the extent, clearness and beauty of the English language, which they never before possessed. He has given them the nucleus around which they can lay a foundation upon which can be erected a thorough understanding of the language and a knowledge of its proper use, and has done so in a teacher who has not had the advantage of a classical education. He has succeeded in establishing an independence of thought and a reliance, not on the words of the text book, but on careful investigation and the logical conclusions deduced based upon the clear judgment of the student. Had the worth of Mr. Hunt's instruction, had he estimated and had he to receive its value in money, it would be simply impossible to repay him; but happily for a reasonable sum we can secure the services of so able and talented an instructor. Notwithstanding the statements in the text book, and the teachers do appreciate Mr. Hunt's superior instruction and all their actions are a standing contradiction to the statements of any nin-com poop who has said that they did not appreciate his work or admire his methods. When the time rolls around, we shall require your services again, Bro. Hunt, and if money and friendly feeling will secure them, you may consider yourself engaged.

Parties presenting themselves for examination to teach in this County should remember that the Superintendent has nothing to gain through their failure, and that it would be much more pleasant for him, if all of the applicants were successful, but they must accord to him the right to judge of their qualifications, and whenever they endeavor to usurp the authority vested in him, then he is no longer needed, and the office should be abolished immediately. There are persons who are so filled with their own importance that they never consider it possible for them to fail. There are usually the ones who know the least, and when tested, fall far short of the requirements necessary to procure a certificate.

There is a financial difference between District 4 and 48 which arose under the following circumstances. When No. 48 was detached from No. 4, the officers of the two districts failed to file in the office of the county treasurer the necessary papers showing the territory in No. 48, and the taxes which should have been credited to the new district. As a result of their neglect it is said quite a sum was collected and placed to the credit of the old district and from which the old district has received benefit. There are those persons who, either through ignorance or malice, we cannot believe the latter, are making public statements to the effect that the Superintendent has it in his power to force No. 4 to pay over this money, but through prejudice he refuses to act. Such statements are utterly devoid of truth and the person from whom they emanate is either very ignorant or has little regard for truth and verity. The Superintendent has no power to compel the payment of this money, and the best legal talent in the county acquiesce in this opinion. We have a very poor opinion of the man who eats your bread and butter, and then exerts himself to do you an injury.

The County Superintendent invites the teachers of the county to correspond with him. He is generally very busy, but never too busy to be interested in the teachers and their work, and he will always be delighted to hear from them—to sympathize with them in trouble and rejoice in their success. There should be perfect candor and freedom between the Superintendent and the teacher. The latter should be a source of support and strength to the Superintendent, and he should be able to aid and direct the teacher in her arduous duties. "United we stand, divided we fall." We shall not fail for we are striving to assist each other.

September has already demonstrated its pacific power as a sealer, and the Illinois miners and the operators have reached an agreement to resume work.

A Nevada convict having served out his term has been the job of killing the witnesses against him. He evidently thinks he belongs to "the triangle."

A Virginia capitalist by the name of Harlow claims to have a mortgage of $100,000 against the White House at Washington. It appears to have run out long enough to take care of itself.

A Haytian is a tough customer. There has been a war in Hayti for about a year and it cost the belligerents $10,000,000. Four hundred lives were sacrificed. All that was left of the country was left to a Haytian who has his war paint on.

The Bee says that the fact that America pays $25,000,000 a year for baking powder shows conclusively that this is a rising nation. It might add that these figures also tend to show that no matter how small a project, if it is properly managed, never forgets to cater to the inner man.—Enterprise.

Mr. E. P. Lovejoy, a large dealer in general merchandise at Wabaska, Nevada, says: "I have tried St. Patrick's Pills and can truthfully say they are the best I have ever taken or known of used." As a rule, the pills are for the disorder of the liver they will always give perfect satisfaction. For sale by A. F. Streitz and Dr. Longley, North Platte.

The Niagara Falls Insane, Graham, has finally crowned the ambition of his life by going over the falls in a barrel and coming out alive. He was the first to go over the rapids since the whirlpool and had a very narrow escape. "No other men probably caught his feat over the falls until a neck or two is broken.

In homes where coal oil is used there is one thing that every good housewife will do, and that is to see to it that every lamp is filled and trimmed early in the day, and that every servant is warned against the use of oil to light the kitchen fire. Several horrible deaths from burning from carelessness in the use of oil have been reported recently.

Long Island Sound navigators see promise of a revival of practice, once famous on the Mississippi, of racing the best passenger boats between New York and Fall River. The rivalry is hot now between the two big palaces, the Pilgrim and the Connecticut. In the last tussle the Pilgrim, being specially prepared came out ahead.

A hale old man, Mr. Jas. Wilson of Allen Springs, Ill., who is over sixty years of age, says: "I have in my time tried a great many medicines, some of excellent quality, but never before did I find any that would so completely do all that is claimed for it as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is truly a wonderful medicine." For sale by A. F. Streitz and Dr. Longley, North Platte.

They tell a joke out west on John H. Miller, who went to New Mexico for his health on a round trip ticket, with a descriptive coupon marking him as "tall, slim, with a black moustache." By the time he was ready to return he had gained 100 pounds and grown a beard, and the coupon failed to describe him for trying to ride on somebody else's ticket. He has brought suit for $10,000 damages.

A deplorable state of affairs exists at the scene of the famous Custer fight. Gen. George B. Dandy, who has charge of all the national cemeteries and monuments, has just returned from an inspection of the site of the Custer fight. He found the place in very bad condition. Many of the bodies of the ill-fated command were buried in shallow graves. They have been exhumed and are strewn promiscuously over the ground. The battle was fought on a high, narrow ridge, consequently the slopes on either side are washed full of gullies, the graves are overrun by tourists, and something must be done to protect the field or it will be destroyed entirely. He found the Custer monument in fairly good condition, though chipped on the edges by vandals, who carried the pieces away with them as mementos.

A Vision From Boulder. Down this pleasant plain we sweep—the sentinel mountain chain always on our right; past Fort Collins, with its fine buildings and shaded streets—past many a field of waving grain and over many mountain streams, until we back slowly into Boulder. And then, O honest American citizen—who you raved about Switzerland, but never visited Colorado—behold the vision! There is a grandly impressive background of mountain heights, flushed now with a tender play of light and color; the remoter peaks snow-capped, the nearer foothills covered with verdure, and at their very feet, nestling in security, is Boulder. As far as you can see down the valley there are silvery, shining streams, tiny lakes here and there, and many a fair farm land outlined in red repose; back of all the landscape, however, before you a noble overcasting; overhead a dome as clear and blue as Italy. And this is only one of the many exquisite spots reached only by the Union Pacific Railway in Colorado.

Mothers will find Dr. Winslow's Teaching Syrup just the medicine to have in the house for the children; it will cure coughs, colds, sore throat and regulate the bowels. Try it.

Benzon, the "Jubilee Plunger," in his recently published book tells a remarkable tale of folly. On his first horse race he lost $20,000. Afterwards his losses were as high as $25,000 a week. At cards he has lost as high as $80,000 a night. Once he lost $50,000 in ten minutes, while waiting for a train.

Parents should be careful that their children do not contract colds during the fall or early winter months. Such colds weaken the lungs and air passages, making them more susceptible to colds during the winter. It is this succession of colds that causes catarrh and bronchitis or paves the way for consumption. Should a cold be contracted, loose no time but cure it as quickly as possible. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold in a few days and leave the respiratory organs strong and healthy. For sale by A. F. Streitz and Dr. Longley, North Platte.

Last Friday about noon David Peterson started down town and had just passed the residence of Mrs. W. D. Griffin when he met Johnnie Duis, a young son of J. C. Duis, en route home from his father's store to dinner. From Mrs. W. D. Griffin who happened to be looking out of the window of her home a short distance away it is learned that the two boys engaged in a playful scuffle, Johnnie playfully striking at the Peterson boy, the latter striking playfully back and was preparing for a second attempt, when Johnnie Duis, who is the larger of the two, threw his arms around David and held him firmly. The Peterson boy held in his hand an open pocket knife, with a very sharp pointed blade, and it is supposed that when Johnnie grasped him his hand was turned so that the point of the sharp blade struck his body and penetrated the base of his heart. The little Peterson boy screamed and Johnnie Duis perceiving that something was wrong carried him to Mr. Strahle's residence, only a few feet when Mrs. Strahle, who had been attracted by his cry as well as that of the Duis boy, took the little fellow and started for his home with all possible speed, but ere she reached it his little life had gone out. On the other hand Johnnie Duis stoutly protests that he did not touch the little boy until he picked him up to carry him to Mr. Strahle's, and says that he and David had some conversation concerning the knife, as they passed and he had hardly got by when David fell upon the knife with the results as stated.
