GENERAL NEWS. The last Bender sensation was not entirely barren of results after all. "If I have not captured Mrs. Bender," says Mrs. McCann, "I have succeeded in bringing from Michigan the ugliest woman ever seen in Kansas."

A curly walnut log was sold by a Burch, Logan county, W. Va., man for $3,000. D. Williamson, of Indianapolis, being the purchaser. At this rate a man with a good-sized pile of curly walnut logs could spend the winter in comparative comfort.

Mrs. Booth, of London, wife of the Salvation Army general, is slowly dying of cancer, and physicians this week have declared the end very near. She bears her pain with the utmost patience and fortitude, and bravely attempts to comfort those who mourn about her.

The late proprietors of the Omaha Republican sunk about $40,000 before they got it off, and the new owner is said to be worth $100,000, which he will proceed to drop as fast as possible. Mr. Hitchcock is reported to be losing about $5,000 per month in the World-Herald. There seems to be a poor field in Omaha for newspapers. -Seward Reporter.

Maurice Dupont, a young millionaire of a highly-respected family in Delaware, has just married the most beautiful and fascinating barmaid in Queenstown, and the friends of the family are very much exercised over the matter. If he had been a wealthy young woman and married some old rooster with a title, it would have been different.

Boston is doing well with her project to erect statues to three great war heroes. Designs and models for bronzos statues of heroic size of General Grant, General Sheridan, and Admiral Farragut have been handed in by the sub-committee on statues, and the time for presenting designs closed. The committee will shortly meet and award the contract.

George Francis Train is held in Boston for examination as to his mental soundness. He refuses to submit to a medical examination on the ground that "Inuitics don't employ doctors or lawyers." The old man may be crazy, but he'll have bushels of fun with the doctors who try to prove it.

A gentleman who died recently near Berlin desired to have his tombstone decorated by the following legends: "I believe in one Saviour - in him everybody must believe, of whatever religion he may be - and his Death, for he releases us from all our troubles." This has been done, and now the parish authorities have requested the heirs to remove the gravestone.

It is told that Senator Vest was once playing poker when he had on a new and particularly handsome flannel "cutting" shirt. He had been losing steadily, and his chips were nearly gone, when one of the other players remarked: "That's a mighty handsome shirt you're wearing, Vest." "That settles it," exclaimed the statesman, jumping up; "Blessed if I'm going to play in a game when they cast lots for a fellow's garments."

It is possible that lower telegraph rates will be brought about without the necessity of control of the lines by the government. The Long Distance Telephone company announces that by the first of January it will have lines completed from New York to Chicago, Denver and San Francisco. The Bell telephone people are confident that in two years they will drive telegraphy entirely out. And that is the reason, they say, that Jay Gould has stopped making improvements on the Western Union plant.

A young Englishman who landed in New York a few days ago has started out to "beat his way" across America and around the world in the space of four months without cash output. From San Francisco he will show himself away or work his passage to New Zealand, thence ship for some Chinese port, and journey through the Balkan Pass to Russia, thence to Germany, down to the English Channel to England, and ship from there to New York City. If the railway officials observe his proclamation and have him "spotted," he is liable to lengthen his schedule of running time. He may get marooned at some way station for a fortnight.

We grumble at a hotel or on board ship is not exactly what we desire, but few have any idea of the provisions needed on one of the American liners. The passengers on the Royal mail steamship Umbria, on one of her voyages from New York to Liverpool, consumed the following: Nine thousand five hundred pounds of beef, 400 pounds of mutton, 900 pounds of lamb, 256 pounds of veal, 150 pounds of pork, 140 pounds of pickled legs of pork, 600 pounds of corned tongues, 700 pounds of corned beef, 2,000 pounds of fresh fish, twenty pounds of calves, feet, eighteen pounds of calves' heads, 450 fowls, 250 spring chickens, 120 ducks, 50 turkeys, 50 geese, 500 squabs, 300 tins of sardines, 300 plovers, 175 pounds of sausages, 1,200 pounds of ham, 500 pounds of bacon, 10,000 eggs, 2,000 quarts of milk, 700 pounds of butter, 410 pounds of coffee, 87 pounds of rice, 300 pounds of sugar, 100 jars of jam and jelly, 20 barrels of pickles, 60 bottles of sauce, 20 barrels of apples, 14 boxes of lemons, 18 boxes of oranges, 6 tons of potatoes, 24 barrels of flour. -Pall Mall Gazette.

At a wedding which took place recently at Chislehurst, England, the officiating clergyman left out the words "With this ring I thee wed," etc. The omission was not referred to until the bride party were assembled at breakfast, and then the party repaired once more to the church, where the service was performed a second time.

Some Boston men, learning of a adult man skeleton in Australia who weighed but thirty-four pounds, combined in speculation to bring him to this country for exhibition. They gave him $500 bonus and a third interest in the receipts, and put him on shipboard for England. Sea air, change of food, etc., began to fatten him, and when he arrived in London he weighed 134 pounds.

The latest development of the advertising art comes from Paris, where an enterprising publisher has employed a large corps of sandwich men to advertise a book by walking down the boulevards and reading it with rapt attention. An inquisitive gentleman, anxious to know how far this would have an educational effect upon the readers, except up behind one who seemed more apt than all the others and found that he was reading the book upside down.

When we get through showing our South American visitors what a wonderful country we have it would be a good idea to send a delegation of commercial tourists home with them for the purpose of acquiring accurate information as to the needs of the people whom they represent, the proper methods of preparing goods for shipment, and the terms upon which they are willing to trade with us. -St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Paul Du Chailu, the writer and traveler, is 52 years of age. He is under the average height, round-shouldered and not at all handsome. His face is strong and his forehead commanding. He has French blood in his veins, which is shown by his vivacity of manner. He has an inexhaustible fund of anecdotes and his conversational powers are great. He has done a vast amount of work, but is in fine health. His long journeys in African jungles do not seem to have injured his constitution at all.

Enoch Pratt, the millionaire, who put $1,250,000 of his wealth into establishing in Baltimore the best public library in the United States, outside of that at Boston, is now over the seventieth annual landmark of age, but is still twenty years younger in appearance. Because of his magnificent foundation of the Baltimore library he has become as well known in literary and philanthropic circles as he previously was in the business world. He is short and slight in figure, his head is usually bowed down, but when he lifts it in conversation, strong features and keen, bright eyes are shown.

Sir Edward Watkin is on behalf of the Metropolitan railway company, offered the manager of the Water railway a piece of ground near London on which to lay down a line two miles in length. We shall, therefore, soon have an opportunity to try what, if the accounts are true, must be the very queerest of motion. The carriages run on skates or slides, but between the slide and the rail is forced a film of water, which prevents all jolting, lumping and shaking, and, in fact, makes the carriages skim along as a boat goes on the sea. Then, too, the pace is 100 miles an hour.

If the new railroad is really practicable for long distances all England will be a suburb of London, and Surrey will be saved from becoming a chessboard, covered with what the auctioneers call "villa residences standing in their own three acres and a half of parklike grounds." A hundred miles an hour would make Bath as accessible as Brighton is now, while Manchester could be reached in an hour and fifty minutes. -London Spectator.

An Off Year. Tuesday election was generally speaking, a Waterloo for the Republican party in Iowa, New York Virginia and Ohio. Speaking of these states the Journal says: "New York has quite certainly flopped, but that state has not failed for the last eight or ten years to give a democratic majority of twenty to thirty thousand except in presidential years. The lazy republican voters abound in every school district of that unfortunate state, and the riff-raff of New York city holds the power in all state elections."

In Virginia the republicans have apparently met with a reverse of a paralyzing character and the bourgeois have renewed their grip on the fortunes of the Old Dominion. It is probable that the returns from the back districts will diminish by a good many thousands the alleged democratic majority, but it will do, though it be not as wide as a church door or as deep as a well. It is bad for Virginia but the country at large can stand it for another decade probably.

The democrats appear to have carried Iowa and Ohio by the skin of their teeth, local complications account for the falling off in the states. It is not probable that any material political change is indicated. Prohibition in Iowa is weakening the republicans in local election, and in Ohio there is a vast amount of discontent among the leaders over the ascendancy of the gallant Foraker to the party councils.

The fact that there was a great slump of foreign born republicans in Cincinnati to the democracy because of Foraker's determined stand in favor of closing the saloons on Sunday is not surprising, perhaps, and certainly it is not a matter of reproach to the Ohio leader that he should be sacrificed because he insisted on the enforcement of the laws of the state.

A hale old man, Mr. Jas. Wilson of Allen Springs, Ill., who is over sixty years of age, says: "I have in my time tried a great many medicines, some of excellent quality; but never before did I find any that would so completely do all that is claimed for it as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by A. F. Strietz and Dr. Longley, North Platte."

The Virginia plan this year was to freeze 'em out. In one precinct it took five hours for a colored man to get in his vote after he arrived at the polls. The election machinery was wholly in the hands of the democrats and they simply allowed the republican voters to be shoved and shouldered about until they were weary and went home without getting in their votes. It is worse for Virginia than it is for the people of the United States, and if they can stand it we can. Time finally avenges outrages upon the liberty of the ballot box, and Virginia will have to pay eventually as dearly as bankrupt Louisiana is now paying for the frauds of the past. A man who will deliberately cheat the people out of their franchise will steal the money of the tax-payers, as has been proven after many a disgraceful election, north as well as south. -Journal

Parents should be careful that their children do not contract colds during the fall or early winter months. Such colds weaken the lungs and air passages, making the child much more likely to contract other colds during the winter. It is this succession of colds that cause catarrh and bronchitis or pave the way for consumption. Should a cold be contracted, hose no time but cure it as quick as possible. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold in a few days and leave the respiratory organs sound and healthy. For sale by A. F. Strietz and Dr. Longley, North Platte.

Vice President Morton, according to a Washington letter, has determined to locate permanently in that city. He has invested $500,000 in his new hotel there, and has bought a lot of other property. He enjoys society and he finds all that he wants in the capital. It is possible that he will retain a legal residence in New York state for political purpose.

A Nashville druggist prepared a rat paint made of a preparation of phosphorus. Catching a rat he painted him with the preparation, and after dark, when the rodent gleamed like a fire ball, he turned him loose to mingle with his fellow rats. Dire consternation came upon them when he appeared, and they inconspicuously fled, the phosphorescent rat bringing up the rear.
