We feel certain that our people will raise the amount or at least a sufficient amount to induce them to come and if they do, it will be an important step towards the prosperity of Ogalalla and Kieth county .

Anent the subject, the Paxton Pilot throws some light on the project as follows: "We understand that the Enterprise asks a subsidy of $1,000 cash in about 100 choice town lots, making a grand total of about $13,000. If the required amount is raised, we believe it is the intention of the Enterprise to purchase the old Reflector plant."

The following interesting information North Platte, - Neb. the Sidney Teletgraph: The latter of the Sidney Teletgraph: The latter of the Twenty-first belong exclusively to the Twenty-first infantry and originated in 12 at Van-Paid in Capital, $50,000 regimental headquarters wer wer, under Coloral - denied without interruption for five years, when the headquarters of the Twenty-first infantry were transferred to Fort Sidney. The canteen was re-opened here and the sale of beer was authorized, thus making it in all respects what it is to-day. It will be seen that the canteen was in operation at the headquarters of the Twenty-first infantry for nearly ten years before it was recognized by the war department. Legal objections of all sorts were raised, and it is due to General Morrow to say that the answering of all such objections devolved upon him. Every objection was successfully met, and step by step the canteen won the confidence of the officers and men. The Fort Sidney son and has not, in the opinion of the Telegraph, been an injury to the town of Sidney, the larger part of the articles used in the canteen being purchased from merchants in town.
