MR. CLEVELAND IN WASHINGTON.

The Ex-President to appear before the Supreme Court to-day. The Capital Expenses—Mrs. Harrison's Plans—Editor's Health—Bishop Hurt.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—"Do you know that gold is the most unwise of all the different kinds of money now in circulation?" said a prominent banker to a representative of the United Press.

"Why so?" was asked. "Because it is not bankable without scrutiny." "How is that?" "Simply this—take a greenback, a silver certificate, a gold certificate or a national bank note, and place it in your pocket. A few days ago a gentleman brought to our bank upwards of $3,000 in gold of different denominations and was provoked because we would not receive it forthwith...

SLAVERY IN NEW YORK.

A South Sea Island Girl Escapes from Bondage Near the Metropolis.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—About a week ago there came to Detroit a colored girl, whose appearance indicated that she was a South Sea Islander. She was scarcely able to speak, knowing a little of the language of a 3-year-old child. From what she could tell it was understood that she had been kept in slavery in a large farm a few miles from New York, and had been subjected to an awful course of treatment, being whipped for every trivial offense.

SOLON THE WISE AND COURAGEOUS KING.

There lived in Athens some six hundred years before the birth of Christ a very wise and generous man named Solon. He was a rich merchant as well as a great scholar, and on account of his wisdom is considered as being the most noted of the Seven Wise Men of Greece.

There lived in Lydia, a country in Asia Minor, a very rich and noble man named Croesus, who invited Solon to visit him. When Solon had beheld all the beauty and splendor of the palace he was asked by Croesus if ever he had known a happier man than he.

The answer was, "Yes, an honest man, who had good children, and died bravely in battle for his country." The king was disappointed, and asked if he knew any other man more happy than he. Solon answered that he had known two loving brothers who were kind to their mother, and had died a tranquil death while providing for her.

Croesus was afterwards conquered by Cyrus king of Persia and he was burned to death. When on the funeral pyre he cried out in agony, "O Solon! O Solon! King Cyrus asked why he called on Solon, and why he called on me, and what Solon had said. Cyrus freed Croesus and honored him as long as he lived. This Solon was the means of saving one king's life and of instructing another—School Visitor.

Smoking Pipes in England. The Duke of Portland, who is an inveterate pipe smoker, puffs at his pipe while he sits at the Episcopal court necessary for the Duke of Richmond and the Duke of Devonshire.

The Biggest Apple Tree. The largest apple tree in New England is in the town of Cheshire, Conn., standing in Mr. Delos Hotehicks' door yard. Its age can be traced by a small indentation on the trunk of the tree, which is 140 years at least, and it may be 20 or 25 years older. It is at the present time of symmetrical shape; the trunk is nearly 14 feet in diameter at its base.

Some Old Manuscripts. To the student of old manuscripts there is nothing so astonishing as the materials upon which they were written. The great Mohammed, the founder of the Mussulman religion, wrote on palm leaves, and the brilliant passages of the Koran upon the slender blades of sheep wool he was a poor herdsman.

New Labels for Trunks, portmanteaus, etc., are now rendered unsightly by the repeated pasting on of labels. All this may be avoided by a simple and effective English invention, which consists of a box of foot flexible board on which are placed, one on top of the other, twelve narrow strips of fresh lath, thus avoiding the old or direct surfaces have simply to be torn off as used, and a fresh one is substituted in their stead until the "tablet" is exhausted.

As Through in a Dream. Stewart Anderson, aged 37, got up from the supper table at Menard, Mo., and unconscious of surroundings, without hat, shoes or vest, wandered about forty miles through a dense forest, until he himself was lying beside a haystack. He is a man of good intellect. He says that everything he did during the eleven hours his mind was deranged seemed like a dream.—Cincinnati Pioneer Press.

War Veterans—I want to get a good lawyer to take hold of my pension case. Can you tell me where I can find one? Friend—No, I cannot. I can recommend you to several celebrated and successful ones, however.—Munsey's Weekly.

The most summy looking girls on the seashore dress in white India silk, with an abundance of white and round waist; white shoes and a white wrap complete the outfit.

Miss Carolan, of San Francisco, is described as a "sunny haired girl with a Dresden shepherdess complexion." She is immensely rich and extremely charitable.

Rev. Sarah Gorham, of Boston, the first licensed woman preacher of the African Methodist Episcopal church, has resigned her pastorate and gone to Ethiopia.

Gloves with thirty-two buttons are being worn in Paris for full dress, those with eighteen buttons being considered fit only for demi-toilet.

GOOD-BY.

Be kind, dear love, and never say "Good-bye!" But always when we're parting—"Till tomorrow." So shall my lips forget to frame a sigh. And Hope smile fondly in the face of sorrow.

For if, indeed, it be but little space and moment that we have, do not say, "Good-bye!" 'Till the hours to haste their lagging pace. If Memory linger still on thoughts of greeting, Or should our life diverge through weary days And dreary nights, the changing seasons bring.

And if—oh, saddest chance—God's pitying hand should wide as life and death our paths divide, What doest thou think could mend the broken strands Than thus to wait and wait—forever! Mary E. Blake in Boston Pilot.

A Growing Industrial Union. The Buffalo (N. Y.) Women's Educational and Industrial union hopes to extend its work. The report of the late annual meeting says: "More room is already required for the various departments. A hall must be built on our vacant lot for lectures, coterie meetings and receptions. In the high school basement there must be ample room for the college of domestic training which we expect to establish. The old building must be adapted to the new, and some much needed changes must be made.

A Gigantic Effort. A gratifying indication that women of wealth and position are interested in securing equal opportunities for their sex is the movement on the part of women to secure higher education. In the trustees of the Johns Hopkins university on condition that women be admitted as students this fall, on the same terms and with the same privileges as men.

Chambermaids at Chautauqua. The chambermaids here are a feature that I find peculiarly embarrassing. One of the most interesting young women who works for wages merely as a summer man. The one who takes charge of my room is as pretty as a picture, and so ladylike that I want to offer her a chair and entertain her when she comes to do up my room. She said: "I did the work somewhat arduous. There are twenty-five rooms in my charge, but even so, it is a relief from the strain of constant study at the high school. My sisters with me here, and she is really benefited by the exercise. She has just finished her college course—graduated last spring."—Chautauqua Letter.

An Old Time Story. In the midst of our enjoyment some one called, and who should it be but Mrs. Kate Chase, late Mrs. Sprague, who was visiting the general. After the usual salutations I took her by the hand to do up my room, and she said: "I did the work somewhat arduous. There are twenty-five rooms in my charge, but even so, it is a relief from the strain of constant study at the high school. My sisters with me here, and she is really benefited by the exercise. She has just finished her college course—graduated last spring."—Chautauqua Letter.

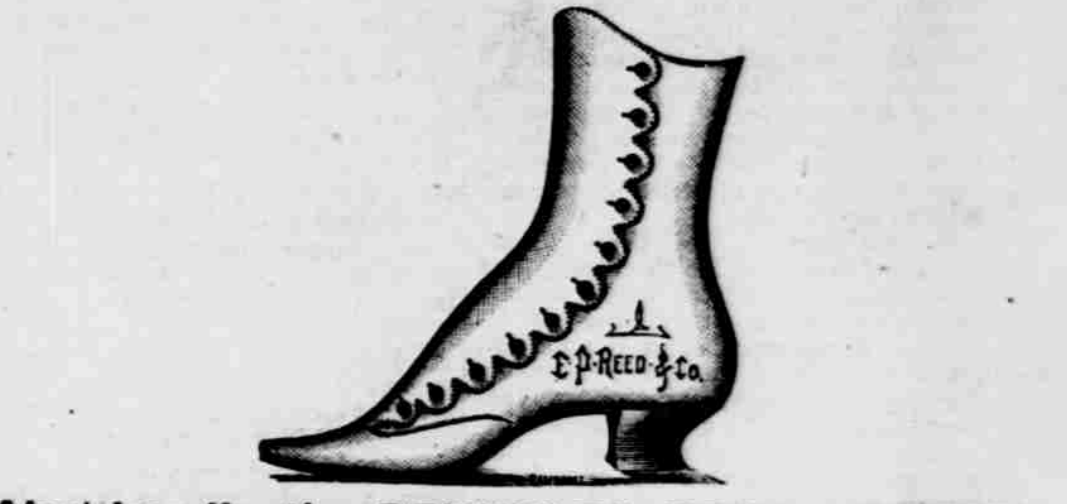

A Belle of Three Cities. Miss Mary Leiter, of Chicago, better known as the belle of Washington and Newport last winter and summer respectively, has made the greatest special success in London the past season, having enjoyed the enviable distinction of being taken up by the Princess as well as the Prince of Wales. She is of svelte figure, and her beauty is of a pronounced brunette type, with low brows and classic features. She is always groomed in perfect taste. Her refined, quiet, graceful manner and perfect savoir faire probably attracted the princess even more than her beauty and wealth.—Boston Globe.

Providing for a Faithful Employee. The York Manufacturing company, of Saco, has shown its appreciation of a faithful employee in a pleasing manner recently. Fannie Hutchins, now 63 years old, has been in the employ of the company for a little more than forty years, and the corporation has honorably made provisions for her in her old age by securing her admission to the Wardwell Old Ladies' home. The company paid her $100 entrance fee, furnished her room and provided for her with some new clothing.—Lewiston Journal.

Here is a beautiful lesson in humility that the beautiful princess has given the world. The Princess Helen Connaught has been left a property of $100,000 by her late husband, Prince Alexander. She has decided to devote the whole of her yearly income to charities. She has entered the children's hospital "Carterite," Jassy, as nurse. She goes through all the duties and follows the same regime as the ordinary nurses.
