This week commences the wheat harvest in Lincoln county, and while the yield will not be what it was last year, the total crop will probably be larger on account of the improved acreage. From what we can learn from farmers living in the various precincts, the yield for the county will probably average from twelve to fifteen bushels per acre.

The case of the First National Bank against Richards & Co., contractors, in which the plaintiff sued for $10,000 damages and the defendants brought in a counter-claim of $24,000 for extra money due, was brought to a close Friday afternoon. The case was warmly contested by the attorneys on both sides.

Carl Hodges, a young boy of fifteen and a stranger in town, stole a bicycle from young Woodland on Tuesday last week and going to Gothsburg stole the wheel to Geo. Roberts for $5. Sheriff Baker returned with the thief Thursday morning and he was placed in jail in the wharf, turned over to his owner. On Saturday Hodges was taken to the reform school at Kearney.

Elise, a little village school on the B. & M., has a ball team that so far this season has not suffered defeat, and this state of affairs has naturally enlarged the craniums of the members thereof. They now want to organize a club that "can play ball." We understand the manager of the North Platte aggregation sent down a jill-edged invitation for a Sunday game, but it appears the Elsie players are all truly good boys and refused to play on the Sabbath. The arrangement will probably be made for a week day game in the near future.

About all the claims against the county have been allowed, clerk Stoddard is about through drawing the warrants and as soon as they receive the signature of Chairman Murphy they will be issued to the parties to whom they are drawn. The warrants were drawn by Mr. Murphy Monday, dated at Colorado Springs, Col., in which he stated that he was under a physician's care, and could not come down at present. This is unfortunate, as those having claim against the county are very anxious to get the amounts due them. Just what steps will be taken is not definitely known at present, but it is believed that some arrangements can be made whereby the warrants will be issued within the next week or ten days.

An informal but pleasant banquet was tendered Judge Holcomb at the Vienna restaurant Friday evening by the members of the Lincoln county bar, the court officers and a few others. While the party surrounded the banquet table short speeches were made by Messrs. Kennedy, of Omaha; Holcomb, Gantt, Wilcox, Grimes, French, Rhea and others, and only the best of fellowship prevailed during the evening. Judge Holcomb has been making a number of opinions from the members of the Lincoln county bar and the court officers, and the banquet was but a fitting expression of the esteem in which he is held by them.

There are some peculiar instances of vicarious escape in this life and one comes from Birdwood precinct. On Thursday night when lightning struck the house of John Coker in that precinct and badly attended one end of the building. The fire entered the room occupied by Mrs. Coker as a sleeping apartment and demolished the bed, but fortunately had no occupants, as Mr. and Mrs. Coker had left the same day for a visit with their daughter near Hershey. Previous to the storm, however, one of the Coker boys and a hired man had been sleeping in the bed struck, but the room escaped as the fire did not get to the bed clothing and went to another part of the house. They had not been out of the bed thirty minutes when the lightning struck and demolished nearly everything in the room. The men undoubtedly owe their escape to getting out of the bed.

Picnics are very numerous these warm days for the people seem to have a desire to get out of town, to reach some shady retreat where the gentle breezes still continue to blow regardless of the heat that is in the air. I think, however, that the word picnic is sometimes misused and other words could be properly substituted for it. It makes no difference whether you go boating, bathing or fishing or whether you eat ice cream, drink lemonade or beer, it is all a picnic. But it is not a picnic if it is not enjoyed by the participants and if some members of the party do become sweltered it is still a picnic.

On the west end of the track known as the "McGinnis" just back of the room, a house stands an old coach that has a history. It was built at Wilmington, Del., early in the sixties and was operated on the R. R. It was one of the finest private cars in the country at that time, being properly partitioned and upholstered throughout. At the death of President Lincoln it was sent to Washington from Washington to try his burial place and it has since been considered a relic. The U. P. company obtained possession of it for a good many years it remained in Omaha under cover on what was known as the "Lincoln track." For the past six or eight years it has been used on the Julesburg branch, at Orchard, Col. for a section house, and some time ago it was brought here to remain here until it goes to the world's fair. The marbles on it now are "Colorado Central R. R. Work Train."
