There are two young women in Brook-lyn who have laid out for themselves a most unusual line of duty, and who have your folks?"

Of all the family they two alone are endowed with the gift of song, Mary having a strong, clear soprano and Liz-zie a contralto of wonderful strength and beauty. To them the gift seemed to be divinely given, and they decided even while children that it must be used for some good end, some purpose.

For a time they sang in churches, receiving large salaries for their services, but this seemed a selfish use of their beautiful voices, and even against the wishes of their parents they began on Easter Sunday, ten years ago, to sing in Raymond Street jail at Chaplain Bass' morning services, and from that time their talents have been devoted entirely to this work. When we were visiting Mills, every day Kramer, the burglar, occupied an adjoining cell and used to hang a blanket up to his door that he might not see us, and we were very careful never to look toward his cell. One day, however, Mills told us that Kramer wanted to speak to us, and we noticed then that there was no screen at the bars of his cell. He asked us to sing some favorite hymn of his, and from that time seemed very friendly. He afterward was sentenced to two years and a half in the penitentiary, and while there sent for us to come to see him. He was a desperate man, and had broken out of every prison in which he had ever been confined and had won for himself the sobriquet of 'Bolts and Bars.'"

The Tail Is Weak. There is no reason to believe that Mr. Stevenson will strengthen the ticket in the sense of bringing to it electoral votes, as Mr. Grav might have done. Indiana was Democratic in 1884, and in 1888 Harrison's plurality was only 2,348 in a total vote of 536,949. But Illinois gave 25,122 Republican plurality in 1884, and 22,195 in 1888, with a total vote in the latter year of 747,676. The chances that the Democrats might carry Illinois with a popular local candidate are much less than that they might carry Indiana by the aid of a state favorite.-Philadelphia Ledger.

Embarrassing Effort of Two Young So ciety People to Attend a Wedding. Not long ago a prominent young society lady of a neighboring city was stopping with friends in this city at one of the leading hotels. There is nothing particularly strange in this, except the fact that she was here led to an extremely unusual and amusing incident. Stop-ping at the same hotel was a society gen-tleman of large acquaintance. Not long ago it happened that two wedding recep-tions, both in high society, occurred on the same evening. That evening, as he left the dining room of the hotel, the gentleman who figures in this story met the young lady above referred to, and after an exchange of courtesies asked her if she was to attend the wedding reception. She replied that such was her in-tention. He then asked if he should call for her and received an affirmative an-

Promptly at 9 o'clock a carriage rolled up to the hotel entrance, a young man alighted, was whisked up to the first floor parlors in the elevator and in a few minutes came down with the young lady, attired in a bewitching costume, upon his arm. The carriage then sped away to the northward and in a very short time halted before a large residence in a fashionable part of the city, from the windows of which many lights

In the interior of the cocoanut shell, at its very bottom, lives a female demon. So narrow is the space into which she is crowded that she is obliged to sit forever with knee and chin touching. Her name is "The Very Beginning," and from her are sprung numerous spirits. They inhabit five different floors, into which the great cocoanut is divided. From certain of these spirits mankind is descended. The islanders, regarding themselves as the only real men and women, were formerly accustomed to regard strangers as evil spirits in the guise of humanity, whom they killed when they could, offering them as sacrifices.-Exchange.

The Growth of Seaweed. Seaweeds vary surprisingly in their habits of life. Some species grow altogether beneath the water, attaching themselves below the lowest tide level others frequent heights where they are left dry at every retreating tide, while others yet are found in situations where they are scarcely ever covered by water. Whereas most of them attach themselves to rocks or solid bottom, keeping to the shallows, there are exceptions to the rule, among which the most remarkable is the "sergasso," or "gulf weed." which floats on the surface of the ocean. A JUDICIAL KINDERGARTEN.

B. Hayes, there was a judge named Redman, who presided over a big territory which kept him racing from Santa Cruz to Salinas and San Luis Obispo. The Spanish population was the chief race to be found in that district, and Redman knew but two words in the anguage, which were 'No tiende,' and was put to the necessity of employing a court interpreter, who attended him in his rapid tour of the big circuit. It happened that a murderer was to be sentenced in Monterey and that an important trial must be attended miles away on the same day. Redman's interpreter had gone off to a fandango in the wilds somewhere and couldn't be found when court was opened, and Red-man was in a fury of impatience. At last, when he could endure the delay no onger, he said to the man below in the

The man finally comprehended and arose stiffly in his seat.

"Prisoner at the bar, it is the senten of this court that you be taken from the place whence you came on Friday, the 27th day of June next, be hanged by the neck until you are dead, and may God have mercy on your soul. Now, do you savey that?"

The poor prisoner shook his head in a bewildered fashion and could only cry, "No tiende, no tiende."

"Is there anybody present in this court who can translate that awful sentence to this prisoner?" demanded the judge of the half a dozen of officials and spectators in the room. They were all in the same boat as the prisoner and could only shake their heads mournfully.
