COWBOY RACE ENDED.

John Berry the First to Arrive at the World's Fair Grounds.

ALBRIGHT CAME IN SECOND.

The Contest Effected Its Purpose in Contrasting the Possibilities in the Horse When Humanely Treated to the Brutal Austro-German Race.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, June 27.—The last stage of the great cowboy race from Chadron, Neb., was entered upon when John Berry left De Kalb, Ill., 60 miles west of here on "Poison," the horse that he came through all the way with. Interest in the finale was manifested at an early hour, when a crowd of curious ones gathered at the Sixty-third street entrance of Buffalo Bill's Wild West show, which, according to the stipulation of the contest, was made the terminus of the ride. One of the earliest arrivals was Mr. John G. Short, president of the Illinois Humane society, who came on behalf of the society to see the condition of the animals as they arrived. One of the conditions, in fact the prime condition of the offer of $800 made by Buffalo Bill to the winner, was that the horses should show that they had not been pressed beyond their capacity to do good work. He was shortly followed by Major Burke, president of the show, who was at De Kalb to witness the departure of the contestants upon the last stage of their journey. Colonel Cody and Nat Salisbury were also present in the former's tent on the ground, naturally deeply interested in the result of the struggle. In addition to these were numerous attaches of the show, their friends and cowboys, who felt an interest in the contest and who, while they waited, discussed the chances of the four riders who remained to cover the full distance of the race.

John Berry the Winner. The patience of the watchers was not put to much of a test, for at 9:25 Berry dashed up to the entrance amidst a shout of huzzas, and dismounted in front of the tent in which the gentlemen named were seated. The rider, as might be supposed, was thoroughly fatigued, and remained in conversation with the others only a few moments while he was congratulated on his safe accomplishment of the arduous task. Piloted by Major Burke, the weary hero of the hour was taken to the private dining tent on the grounds, and after a breakfast of fried chicken, coffee and biscuits, he retired to his room. Berry left De Kalb at 10 o'clock, and covered the 60 miles in 11 hours and 30 minutes. "Poison" was examined by a veterinary surgeon, and found to be in excellent condition.

Emmet Albright Second. The next arrival at 11:30 created more excitement even than that of Berry's. It was Emmet Albright, with whom originated the idea of the contest, who came in on "Outlaw." He "shed" in a smart gallop, which he had maintained for the last 27 of the 1,000 miles covered, and dismounted at the sidewalk. Leading his faithful animal, Albright walked through the gates to the tents, and was informed that his horse's entrance would not do, as he must finish on horseback. So remounting, when every movement gave him the most exquisite pain, he faced about, returned to the sidewalk, and then rode through at the same fast gallop, rearing up his horse in the most approved cowboy style. This occupied two minutes and his time of arrival is given as 11:35. The 60 miles from DeKalb was covered by him in 8 hours and 35 minutes. Albright was the only one of the boys to bring in the two horses with which he started in the race. Ontlaw and Joe Bush. He was accompanied by his brother-in-law, E. W. Wisheart, who joined him at Fort Dodge, Ia. Mr. Albright was not in as good condition physically as his horses, both of which were represented to be prime and fit for anything. Outlaw, as Major Burke graphically related, endeavored to kick everything within reach after he arrived at the stable. Albright said to a reporter: "I have been able to keep only seven meals in my stomach since starting and since reaching the ground have been vomiting. For five nights I have not slept, except as I nodded while on horseback, but I feel pretty well now and think I am in the something. I shall be able to sleep. I left DeKalb at 2 o'clock a. m., two hours after Smith and Gillespie. I don't know what has become of them. I did not see them at any time on the way, but they have taken another route. I came by another road."

Horses in Good Condition. Mr. Albright did not look at all worn out by his ride and was able to partake of a breakfast similar to that furnished to Mr. Berry. He thinks he is entitled to the prize, Berry having made the race under protest. Major Burke was asked regarding this. He said the protest was based upon a technicality. "It was agreed among the boys," said the major, "that none should claim in advance the stopping places along the route. Berry, having some ability in that line, at the request of the committee, did part of their clerical work and the other boys in the race protest against it. But it is a question for the future and subordinate. The principal thing is that their horses should come in good shape, and that the race has been one of honest endurance and skill."

President John G. Short, of the Illinois Humane society, who was seated in the tent, said: "Berry and Albright's horses are in splendid condition. I have no complaint to make of them. The horses appeared fresh and strong and were turned out to grass immediately. If the others are in as good condition as these are the society will have no complaint to make."

Colonel Cody had just returned from inspecting the horses. He told those in the tent that the horses could not be in better condition. "They are out there now kicking up their heels as though they had not been out of stables for months," said the handsome ex-captain. "They are as sound as a dollar and not a bit tired."

BIG DECLINE IN SILVER

FORCED TO QUIT ON COINAGE.

No Other Course Left For the Indian Government to Pursue—Its Action Meeting With Favor in Calcutta. Rupee Paper Strong.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—One effect of the action of the government of India in stopping free coinage of silver has been to renew the demand for an extra session of congress, and this view of the situation was presented to Secretary Casside by many of his congressional callers and by numerous telegrams from all sections of the country. Before going to the cabinet meeting, Secretary Carlisle received a cablegram from London announcing a further decline in the price of silver to 35 cents. At this price a silver dollar is worth 58 1/2 cents.

Forced to Quit on Silver. SINGAPORE, June 27.—In explaining to the India council the bill providing for the stoppage of the free coinage of silver and other monetary measures, the adoption of which was announced Monday, the Marquis of Lansdowne, viceroy of India, said he hoped that the government would not be criticised for disposing of the important question in this manner. The key note of the scheme was rather to prevent a further fall in exchange and to keep the value of the rupee. The fixing of provisional exchange at 4d provided automatic means of preventing the closing of the mints and the violent disturbance of exchange rates. The rate of exchange has been fixed high enough to relieve the government of the most pressing necessities. There should be no mistake, the viceroy said, about the facts. It was not proposed to substitute gold for silver currency. No attempt would be made at present to fix a legal tender price for gold. While the ratio of value was mentioned, it was only provisional. In conclusion, the viceroy expressed the government's sense of the gravity of the step it was about to take. Personally, he believed in the local agreement in regard to the testing of the use of mileage books over its line. The St. Louis stated that if the agreement was not signed by all the roads which had signed the Western Passenger association it would be likely to be withdrawn from the association in order to protect its own interests.

ROAD AGENTS TRAPPED

A Brace of Bandits Betrayed by a Pal and Captured.

NIPPED A TRAIN ROBBERY.

They Were Well Provided With Revolvers, Masks and Giant Powder—Gathered In by Omaha Detectives Just in Time.

OMAHA, June 27.—An attempt to rob the Missouri Pacific express, which leaves this city for St. Louis at 10 p. m., was foiled by a quarrel among the robbers which caused one of them to give the others away.

Last Wednesday a man named Bennington told a couple of Omaha detectives that two men named Charles McClure and Allen Squires, with whom he pretended to be in league, had a plan to rob the express coming Saturday night at West Side, a small station on the western edge of the city, where an unsuccessful attempt at robbery was made several weeks ago.

At the request of the detectives Bennington contrived to have the officers see his pals, a point and time having been agreed on the following day. While the officers were somewhat suspicious of the story they reported the matter to Chief Seavey who detailed five men to board the train when it left Omaha Saturday night and be prepared to meet the robbers should an attempt be made. West Side was passed without event and the officers left the train at South Omaha.

The same detectives were again seen by Bennington, who said that the robbery was not attempted Saturday night because the men were afraid that officers got on the train at Fortieth and Leavenworth streets, a short distance north of West Side. Bennington further said that the robbery would be again attempted and said that the meeting place of the robbers would be at the lake in Hanson park and that the officers would find himself, McClure and Squires there soon after 8 o'clock.

Detectives Savage, Dempsey, Hayes and Hubson went to the lake at the time set and found the three men lying on the grass. McClure and Squires pulled revolvers, but concluded not to use them when they discovered that the officers were ready for this. On the men were found three good revolvers and two flash guns. In searching them a sack was found containing under Squires' coat which contained four fuses, three masks, two packages of dynamite and a bottle of benzine.

The police here do not know who the men are, but McClure has a fresh bullet wound in the left arm and of certain statements he made it is supposed he, and perhaps the others, were implicated in the attempt to rob Kansas City and Council Bluffs train near Council Bluffs about a week ago. McClure is short and heavy set and has a sandy mustache and hair. Squires is tall, lean and lank with a dark complexion and looks every inch a tough.
