Directors of the World's Fair They Thought He Was Crazy-A Description of the Wheel as It Stands in Midway Plaisance.

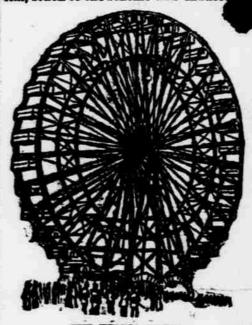

World's FAIR, June 28.- [Special.] -There is nothing in the World's Columbian exposition that compares in genuine ovelty and sensationalism with the great vertical wheel which stands in the very center of Midway plaisance. In these let-ters I long ago predicted that this giant structure would be the chief sensation of the World's fair, just as the Eiffel tower was the chief sensation of the Paris exposition, and my prediction has been verified. Though the wheel has been in operation to the public but a few days, vast crowds of people constantly surround it watching its movements, and thousands more pay their half dollar apiece for the privilege of going around upon it.

Considered from the engineering standpoint as well as from that of popular interest this is a greater marvel than the Eiffel tower, which earned a great reputation for its builder and a small fortune for its owners. Whereas the Eiffel tower was simply a bridge a thousand feet long erected upon a strong foundation and placed on end, a simple construction likes couple of Chicago's tall steel buildings revolution has been made. It is an indecribable sensation that stood one upon the other and resting upon through such a vast orbit in a bird cage, a tall foundation of sufficient strength to that of swinging in a circle far out over hold them, the vertical wheel is a bridge the plaisance in one direction, then turn-825 feet long, 30 feet wide and constructed of steel, twisted into a circle and hung upon an axle round which it revolves by means of the force given it by powerful steam engines. The Eiffel tower involved the plaisance in one direction, then turning in the other direction, and still higher, and finally beginning the descent from such a great hight. People wonder what would happen if the pinions which hold the cars through their roofs should break, or refuse to revolve. They wonder how no new engineering principle, and when no new engineering principle, and when they would get down if the machinery finished was a thing dead and lifeless. The should break and the engineer be unable grace, the indescribable charm possessed by a vast body in action.

What the genesis of the vertical wheel vas in the brain of its inventor is an interesting thought. Undoubtedly it had its origin in the horizontal merry-go-round, and that started in the whirligig which when I tell you a trip upon it is worth takcountry boys used to make with a post | ing. Would the thin rods be sufficient to crutches and been able to walk as well as sustain not only the enormous weight of the structure and that of the 2,000 passence of the wind as well? Engineer Ferris says the whom is strong. General Weaver, who has been gineer Ferris says the wheel is strong some of them men of eminence in their profession, say the same thing. Therefore the public seems content to take it for The populists may be willing to granted that the wheel is not only the

to the loading platforms. Thus the loading goes on, six cars at a time; and thus, also, the passengers make their ascent and their acquaintance with the mysteries of the wheel on the installment plan, by slow degrees. You will see that in the process of taking on passengers (providing there are people enough to fill all the cars, as one entire revolution. By this time the occupants of the coaches have become somewhat accustomed to their novel situation. They have ceased to think of possible danger and are occupied with the beauty of the panorama which lies far be-

Now comes the most interesting feature of the trip. The wheel is set in motion at scribable sensation, that of revolving or refuse to revolve. They wonder how wheel, on the other hand, has movement, to further revolve the wheel, thus leaving them dangling in mid air. While they are thinking of these things the movement ceases, then starts up again, and finally it becomes their turn to step out on the wooden platform and down again to mother earth. I have no desire to advertise the wheel feet of concrete. They are calculated to hundred and fifty miles an hour. Motion is imparted to the mass by means of huge cogs in which a link belt fits. If anything should break and it be desirable to stop the machinery there is a powerful brake operated by compressed air. The axle the other, 140 feet in the air, is the greatest il to turn so as to preserve the center of

It of a bicycle wheel, as I have said, but depends from the steel ower half of the wheel simply the mighty axle, and this apports the upper half by is the whole thing in a nut wheel, though apparently As construction, has just enough ity to make this method of support ble, and yet not enough elasticity to produce any appreciable trembling or slipoing effect.

Now the World's fair directors are glad they changed their minds and decided to recognize this genius. Not only have they thereby secured the greatest sensation of the fair, but without a dollar of outlay on their part have made certain of an enormous revenue. The exposition gets one half the earnings of the wheel, and it is estimated the total receipts will average something like $10,000 a day during the remainder of the summer. The cost of the wheel, complete, was about $250,000. Engineer Ferris is likely to reap a rich reward for his boldness and enterprise.

How to Select Good Help. One of the most astute business men in New York city, who has through his own efforts built up an enormous establishment, and who gives employment to hundreds of men, some of them at very large salaries, told me he had very little to those whose sales aggregate less than difficulty in finding the right kind of $2,500 a year, was agreed upon by the men for any department of his work. 1 excise board on Tuesday. Its adoption is a salutary, practicable and preper was surprised to learn this and asked him what was the secret of his success. "I have men to whom I pay as much Ice In the Government Buildings. One gets a vivid notion of the magnitude of the departments from the vast quantities of ice and coal which are required to quench the thirst of the 23,000 clerks and keep them warm. The treasury consumes a ton and a half of ice daily, taking an average the year round. An equal quantity is used in the war, state and navy building. But the department of the interior is the great derourer of ice. Including the pension office, it gobbles up from five to six tons every 24 hours.

The quantities utilized are variable. Each department makes its own contract for ice, bids being advertised for annually. No definite amount to be provided is agreed upon. The contractor gets as much for supplying all the frozen water required, whatever it may be. All the departments, together with their brancha Race Reporter." We are glad to be able to state that, warned by the fate of the Nares expedition, Dr. Nansen has determined to carry with him an ample supply of concentrated lime juice in his arctic expedition.

Notwithstanding the angry feelings which were aroused some years ago by our demonstration that the failure of the Nares expedition was largely due to the neglect of the lime juice ration and the consequent outbreak of scurvy in the exploring party which was aiming at the north pole, it is now an accepted axiom that the "north pole will never be reached without lime juice," so that the concentration of that requisite to economize space and carriage will be a matter of great importance.—British Medical Journal.

A Tempest Over Rocking Chairs. Boston is much stirred over the refusal of the commissioners of public institutions to accept a present of rocking chairs for the aged and infirm pauper women at Rainsford island. A fund of bought and shipped to the island, but the commissioners would not let the old women have them, and they remain on the wharf. The mayor of Boston, who requesting them to accept the chairs. The commissioners still refused, and referred the matter to the common council. The common council voted unanimously in favor of accepting the chairs, and the aldermen concurred with only

Strong pressure was, however, brought to bear upon the council and aldermen by the commissioners. Some of the aldermen were taken down the harbor to Rainsford island and came back reporting that there was already one rocking chair for every three women, and more chairs would be a needless luxury. The result was that the council and aldermen were induced to reconsider their vote and refer the whole matter to the committee on public institutions. which means shelving it indefinitely.

The insolent and unreasonable beharior of the commissioners is understood to be due to a grudge against Mrs. Alice N. Lincoln, who was active in raising the money for the rocking chairs, and who has groused the ire of the commissioners by previous efforts to better the man's Journal.

His Pronunciation Fatal. One of the cormorants who, with broad wings aslant, are sweeping the political sea just now in quest of food walked into the office of a western correspondent last night and said, "I am from California, and I am after an office."

"Sit down," said the newspaper man; "glad to do anything for a Californian. What part of the state are you from?" "I," he said, "am from San Joes." "What?"

"San Joes." "My friend," said the entertainer, "1 pity you. The name of that town is San Hosay. Yearly Income of Paris Theaters. The Paris Temps says that the income of the 52 theaters of the French capital, including the circuses and panorama, was last year 22,533,316 francs, 1,000,006 francs less than the income for 1891. The list is led by the Grand Opera House, whose receipts amounted to 3,068,467 francs. Next to the opera house are the Comedie Francaise, with 1,978,525 francs; the Opera Comique, with 1,763,081; Varieties, with 1,135,018, and Bouffes Parisiennes, with 1,130,551 francs. The income of the Hypodrome was 1,582,380 francs.

Proud In His Poverty. There is a movement on foot to relieve the home of the late General Kirby Smith of a mortgage that rested upon it at the time of his death.
