Bathing on the Beach at Newport. The creme de la creme are at Newport. The nobility have established a new bathing place called Bailey's beach, at the end of Bellevue avenue, in the heart of the millionaires' quarter. It is only about 300 yards in length, but that small space the cottagers think they can hold against the assaults of the common herd. No buses or horse cars are allowed to land passengers there during the morning hours. A bathing house has been built, with a granite partico. In this are little retreats 9 feet by 12, each of which bears the initials of the gentleman who owns it. A stranger could no more buy or hire one of these bathing houses than he could engage a front seat in the bal-cony of heaven. Fifteen of the houses belong to the Vanderbilt family; others to the Astors, the Stuyvesant Fishes. the De Forrests and their clan. The hours for bathing are from 11 the morning until 1. At 11 three guards make their appearance; one patrols the beach; two others in a lifeboat cruise 100 yards out. It is their business to rescue swimmers who run danger of drowning. Three young ladies, Miss Clews and the two Misses Pierson, put their patience sorely to the test. When Miss Clews' head appears, the guards take out their oars as a matter of course and head for the open sea. When the bathing begins, if a stranger makes his appearance on the beach, men and matrons follow him with such sad, reproscaful glances that he wonders what he has done now and sneaks out of the sacred preserve in a cisco Argonaut. One Eye and One Lung.

On I, a venerable New York Chin who pronounces his name "One Eve," has made a vacancy in one of the best famwill sell ilies of Baltimore by complaining against William Kuhn before United States Commissioner Shields. Even first families resort to laundries, it seems, and when Mr. Kuhn called for his goods at 60 Third avenue and failed to produce the ticket which was supposed to be their equivalent, there was considerable trou-ble, which he promptly pacified with a counterfeit $5 bill

The $4.13 which he received in change completely wrecked Mr. On I's exchequer and might have furnished Mr. Kuhn with funds for a prolonged racket had not On I and his partner, One Lung. chased him down the Bowery and had him called up before Commissioner Shields. On I may have some chance of getting justice, ashe was born on "Malch

A man who would pass a $5 counter feit on an inoffensive heathen who had helped him on the path to godliness by administering to his cleanliness would steal sheep and might even remove the copper appendant from the eyes of a de-ceased African.—New York Recorder.

Readiness to Help German

We are happy to give assurance to Germany that we shall be pleased to supply her with all the breadstuffs she may need this year. We shall ask only a fair price for them. We can also supply her with other kinds of agricultural products, quantities of them. We have some Indian meal to spare, and it can be fed to the army horses, as the kaiser has ordered. We have yet some hay left. If Germany needs fruits or wines, we have them for sale. We can supply her with the best pork and bacon in the world, besides other meats, fresh or salt, in cold storage or otherwise. This is the market to which Germany ought to come whenever she needs anything whatever it may be.

We must trust that Russia will not feel badly because we stand ready to supply Germany with food for man and beast. We stand thus ready at this time and nearly always. When once the German people and their cattle get accustomed to American products, we are sure that it will be hard to induce them to feed upon anything else.-New York

An Alderman Was Referee You have read in the yellow covered story book of the "solitary horseman who might have been seen," etc. Well, this wasn't a horseman. Last night after the fire investigation had adjourned a group of aldermen might have seen on the sidewalk on Nicollet gathered around a bright spot under an are light watching a prize fight between two beetles. one of the big, vicious looking variety that flutters around the street lamps every night and another of a smaller kind. One of the members of the council was acting as referee, and the others occupied reserved seats on an area rail. These aldermen must have relaxation from their arduous duties in these days lis Journal. Trout Killed by Disinfectants In Drains. The heavy storm which visited Sleaford on Monday thoroughly flushed the drains, and the storm water carried the carbolic acid with which the drains had been disinfected into the Slea trout preserves, killing almost every fish they contained. On Tuesday Superintendent Richdale took out 75 beauties, weighing from 1 pound to 34 pounds, and it is feared that scarcely a single trout will be left alive. - Westminster Gazette
