The Poison of the Cobra. The bite of the terrible cobra of India s looked upon as meaning certain death. It is not surprising that experiments to determine the nature of this awful poison should attract wide attention when they are made in a scientific manner entitling their results to be accepted with confidence. Such experiments have recently been conducted by Mr. A. A. Kanthack. a concentrated solution of it withstanding the effects of boiling for an hour or two before entirely losing its poisonous action. A weak solution could be rendered innocuous by being boiled from 20 minutes to half an hour. But of course this can give no comfort to any victim of a cobra bite, since the venom, once injected into his blood, could by no possibility be subjected to such a process of boiling. Ammonia and chlorine water also proved capable of destroying the poison if applied to it for a considerable time in strong solutions, and carbolic acid considerably delayed its poisonous action. Some hope had been raised that doses of strychnia might prove a means of cure, but the experiments showed that there was no foundation for this hope, So far, then, a cure for the bite of the Youth's Companion.

A Sewer Gas Destroyer. Some of the English towns and cities have introduced a device for ventilating sewers-a Bunsen gas burner operating to heat to a high temperature a series of cast iron cones over the surfaces of which the sewer gases have to pass on their way out to the atmosphere, which by such contact are entirely destroyed. In order to obviate all danger of explosion caused by leakage, this new safety furnace consists of a series of cylindrical rings or segments, each mechanically fitted. An intermediate ring divides the combustion chamber from the vertical air passages formed between the inner and outer ring of the furnace. The heat of the furnace is conveyed to the outer ring by means of thick cast iron webs that form tiers of air channels through which the uprising sewer air passes, and the burner is supplied with district court of Lincoln county, Nebraska, the prayer and object of which are to foreclose a cerair taken from the outside of the "de-

A Stilt Race In France. A French scientific journal gives particulars of a stilt race (course d'echassiers) at Bordeaux, in which Aime Martin, a young man under 20, beat the record by covering 440 kilometers (about 275 miles) in 76 hours and 35 minutes. His stilts were about 6 feet long and weighed over 16 pounds. His bare feet were not injured by the friction, and he suffered no inconvenience. Fined a Dead Man.

Down in southwestern Texas, just about midway between Houston in the east and El Paso in the west, and very near to the Rio Grande, the Southern Pacific railway has built over the Pecos river the highest bridge in the United States. Just before this bridge was finished one of the workmen fell from it and was of course killed. The county judge was brought from Langtry, the town nearest to the bridge, to hold a "crowner's 'quest." The judge arrived with a great concourse of people, all anxious to serve on the jury. Proceedings were begun by examining the body of the dead man. Upon this were found a loaded revolver and $40 in cash.

Perceiving this, the judge said: "There ain't nothing to do about this case, gentlemen of the jury. The man's dead, and it's perfectly plain how he met his death. But what I want to know is, what was he doing with that gun? That's against the laws of Texas, He ain't here to explain, but because a man takes it into his head to put on wings and mount to the skies is no reason why the great state of Texas should be defrauded. Law is law and justice is justice. I fine him $40 for carrying a deadly weapon." It is needless to say that the fine was
