BEST FOR SHIRTS.
THE FOOTER & GAMBELL CO., CHICAGO.

An employment agent in Portland, Ore., claims that he shall land nearly 1,000 Japanese in this country next month. Portland railway officials don't think he will do it. Of the incoming of the Japanese as laborers the Oregonian says: "There is a diversity of opinion as to the desirability of inducing Japanese immigration to this country. Some people, influenced by the accounts of Japanese valor on the battle field, think they would prefer a Jap to a European as a naturalized citizen, while others are of a very contrary opinion. The Jap has never shown the indefatigability in the pursuit of work that he shows in this country principally to get an education. The Portland colony contains some bright Japanese and not a few very good imitations of the modern 'Wallie Boy.' Of the working class the majority are connected in some way with restaurants. The importation of Japanese labor to the Pacific coast is not looked upon favorably by laboring men, and the subject is beginning to be a most fruitful one for labor orators."

Miss Kate Field asserts that the abstemious prohibitionist is a walking distillery in disguise. "The great Creator understood His work," she declares, "and let us accept the situation. In human stomachs undigested food ferments and alcohol results. Every dyspeptic is a walking distillery. Total abstainers eat great quantities of sweets, they ferment, and the prohibitionists themselves form a grand cordon of illicit distilleries." The importance of the discovery is not to be passed over lightly, in view of the depleted condition of the school fund. Hitherto the walking distilleries have escaped taxation and dodged the regulation license. Tap them at once and encourage home industry.—Journal.

SIGNALS FROM MOVING TRAINS.

An Automatic Electric System Which Has Been Tested in Germany.
The frequency of railway accidents during last year would appear to have acted as a stimulus to inventors in the field of railway signaling, for an unprecedented number of warning devices have been patented within the last few months. One of these, which is regarded as especially worthy of attention, has been successfully tested on some of the military lines in Germany. The system is automatic and is actuated by electricity. The circuits are so contrived that two trains traveling on the same track, whether in the same or opposite direction, are warned of each other's position by the ringing of a bell on each locomotive, while at the same time the two drivers (engineers) are brought into telephonic communication. The same thing occurs if one of the trains be stationary, so that if there is any breakdown on the line in front the driver receives notice.

The breaking away of a bar or cars from the rear of a train is also notified, both to the driver and to the station which the train has just passed through, and the distances at which all these warnings are given and received can be varied in such a manner as to provide either long or short "blocks," according to the requirements of the traffic. In fact, the system seems to have provided effectively against all ordinary contingencies, and its employment should greatly reduce the risks of railway travel. The German government experts speak highly of the apparatus in their official report.

Among other experiments a train entering a station was warned of an obstacle on the line: two locomotives approaching each other on the same track were warned by two trains proceeding in the same direction, the second at greater speed than the first, were enabled to give each other automatic notice of their respective speed and position, and a train which was entering a station received warning that points were in a wrong position. In every case notice was given in ample time to prevent danger and to render a collision impossible.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

THE SMOKING CHAMPIONSHIP.

Herr Knopf of Berlin Ready to Meet All Comers For 500 Cigars a Side.
A smoking match was given recently by the Giftmued Smoking Club in its rooms in Mautentfer, Berlin. The prize was a solid silver cigar case and 200 cigars. The entrance fee was $1, and the conditions were that the contestants should smoke only the cigars provided at the expense of the club and should remain in plain view of the referee as long as they were competing for the prize. No constant being allowed to take for drink or medicine during the match.

The prize was to be given to the contestant who smoked down to one inch butts the largest number of cigars in two hours. There were 17 entries. Herr Knopf, who smoked without pause from start to finish, was declared winner. He reduced 10 large cigars to ashes in the allotted time, while his closest competitor smoked but 7 1/2. At the end of the first hour 10 smokers retired from the match and left the room. Some of them were so overcome that others three were pale and perspiring profusely when the referee called "Time."

Knopf felt well and professed his willingness to begin at once another two hour match, but his challenge found no takers. He says that he is ready to smoke against anybody in Berlin for 500 cigars a side, the length of the contest to be fixed by mutual consent between 1 1/2 and 5 hours.—Berlin Tagblatt.

Coal Cutting Machinery.
British miners are just now distributed by the numerous introduction of coal-cutting machinery on a large scale. The men regard the scheme with great suspicion, fearing its effects will be to reduce wages and decrease the number of men employed. They also prefer to use their beloved pick, as their forefathers used it, and work in the way they are accustomed to, even though it be, as reformers say, a constrained and unnatural method. Inventors say that the British coalminers as well as the colliers are difficult to convert in this matter. Coal-cutting machines are being sent out to all parts of the world, and the foreign demand exceeds the ability to supply it, although they reduce the cost of getting coal from 1 to 3 shillings a ton compared with the hand pick. The latest machines combine compressed air and electrical principles, and each cut one yard per minute in medium hard coal.—Newcastle Letter.

Billingsgate Market.
The glory of Billingsgate is fading away. It seems that owing to the heavy corporation tolls the trade of Billingsgate is passing to Shadwell, where the tolls are only half those charged by the corporation and there are no tolls. The tolls of Billingsgate amount to about $25,000 per annum. The rental charged for stalls at Billingsgate used to be about 2 cents a foot; now they are 16 cents, and the tenants complain of being crushed and driven out of the market. It is said the corporation has spent $500,000 on a cellar under the market, which is nothing but a white elephant.—London Standard.

Built a Tomb For Suicide.
A rich foreigner who settled in Marseilles a few years ago had made elaborate preparations for dying by his own hand whenever he decided that the moment had come. He built a vault, which could be hermetically sealed, in a corner of his garden, furnished with a reclining chair, two large candelabra and two pans filled with charcoal, ready to light. He entered the vault frequently, but not until a fortnight ago did he close the door and light the charcoal. He was found dead in the chair.—Marseilles Correspondent.

London's New Underground Road.
London will soon have an extensive addition to the underground railroad system. A line is to run north from Charing Cross to Euston and Hampstead. There will also be another east and west line, to cost $20,000,000.

Tricycles may be had for hire, like cabs, in Milan. An attendant goes with the machine to propel it. The fare depends on the distance traveled—not the time consumed.

A Boy's $500 Copybook.
The express agent at Ogdenburg lost a book of money orders that had been signed by the officers of the company. All that it required was to fill out the amount, and they would be honored at any bank. For a time consternation reigned. A search was instituted, but it was of no avail. Finally it was learned that a small boy was seen with a book similar to the one lost, and on going to his school desk the order book was found, the boy having used it to work examples on. It was worth $500.—Utica Press.

EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY.

An Old Point Comfort Belle Who Had Her Self Possession and Spirit Along.
"The most self possessed woman I ever saw is just now one of the belles down at Old Point Comfort," said Arthur Spalding of Bridgeport. "She is a perfect Juno as to figure, and half the manly beauty of the place have been turned by her, and the other half would give all their hopes of the hereafter to be called as she calls her spunk—Sweetheart. The young lady has played no favorites among her admirers, however, and an examination of her card at any of the dances would show a list of names as different as those on the register yonder.

"The other day she went up for her usual promenade on the ramparts of the fort, and as usual, was accompanied by her aunt, who is her chaperon, one of her rigid rules being to allow no man to escort her when she takes her morning constitutional. By some aggravating cause she lost an article which is an important part of the feminine apparel. It happened that a bright young devil of an army officer came along and picked it up. He crossed the narrow strip of blue silk, admired the artistic workmanship of the gold contraptions on either end of it, and upon closer examination deciphered those initials that agreed with those borne by the charming creature who was swaying along the path 100 yards in front of him. With characteristic honesty he hurried after her, and catching up handed out the article, with a bow of consummate grace, saying, 'Miss B., pardon me, but I believe this property is yours.'

"She thanked him with a cordiality that made him almost start, and turning to her aunt remarked with apparently unconscious naivete: 'Sweetheart is such a careless fellow. Come here, you rascal.' Then, as the spunk responded to her call, she fastened the dainty creature around his neck, and bowing sweetly to the officer passed on, with the wondering animal scampering in front of her. If her pet had been a toy terrier, she would have been lost. It is scarcely necessary to add that when Sweetheart returned to the hotel he was not sporting a blue silk collar with gold clasps on it."—Washington Star.

THE WRONG JURY.

A Humorous Incident With a Touch of Pathos in a Louisville Court.
An incident at once affecting and ludicrous, which moved judge, jury, counsel and spectators to laughter and caused considerable embarrassment to two ladies, occurred the other day in the criminal division of the circuit court.

During the trial of a young white man, who was charged with a grave offense against the peace and dignity of the commonwealth, his mother and sister sat just behind him. At the conclusion of the testimony the jury retired to their room to consult and decide upon a verdict.

The second panel was then called, and the case of William Johnson, a big negro, blacker than even the proverbial ace of spades, was tried. The evidence was clear, and the jury was soon over. The jury had been out but a few minutes, and jury No. 1, which had the white youth's case, was still consulting when they returned to the courtroom.

"Have you reached a conclusion, gentlemen?" asked the judge.
"We have," said the foreman, handing the indictment, with the verdict written on the back, to Clerk Russell.
"We, the jury," read the clerk, "find the defendant guilty as charged and fix his punishment at two years and nine months."

But he got no further, for the two ladies who were awaiting the verdict in the other case, over which panel No. 1 were still deliberating, broke suddenly into shrieks and lamentations. At first all were surprised to see two nicely dressed white ladies weeping at the punishment of a negro, but it was speedily recognized that they had mistaken panel No. 2 for panel No. 1. Jerry Bate, the "round and rotund" deputy sheriff, undertook to comfort the ladies and speedily explained to them their mistake, to the great embarrassment of both himself and them.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Contagiousness of Influenza.

A St. Petersburg physician—Dr. F. Clemow—finds a mass of evidence leading to the conclusions that influenza is constantly present in many parts of Russia; that it began to prevail in epidemic form in or near the Kirghiz steppes in the autumn of 1893, the cause of its becoming epidemic being unknown; that it spread from the Kirghiz steppes in all directions, following the lines of human intercourse; that its rate of diffusion was less rapid than was at first believed and not more rapid than could be accounted for on the theory that it was spread by contagion alone, and that there is much positive evidence of the spread of influenza by contagion in Russia, even near the place of origin of the epidemic and in the earliest days of its course.

A New Way to Collect Taxes.

In a small town in the province of Saxony the local authorities have forbidden persons who have not paid taxes for three years to frequent inns and public houses, and the proprietors of these places are to be punished if they sell drink to such persons. In the inn is hung up a list of no fewer than 116 names of persons—the population numbering only 1,750—who have not paid taxes since 1891.—London News.

A Crowded Profession.
The Royal academy exhibition in London this year will contain no less than 1,600 pictures. This is a mere fraction of the vast collection of canvases sent in which the hanging committee are patiently examining. The situation is regarded as one of great discouragement by artists, who consider that it is proof of the hopeless overcrowding of their profession.

The Inventive Age finds that fifty-five cities and towns in England now destroy their garbage by burning. They use an average of ten furnaces each for that purpose. The Age further says: "The combustion of the material is used for the generation steam, by which the streets are electrically illuminated, and other cities are reported to be considering the propriety of reducing their municipal expenses by this means."

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga Tenn., says, "Shiloh's Vitalizer saved my life." I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For Dyspepsia, Liver or Kidney trouble it excels. Price 75 cents. Sold by North Platte Pharmacy.

A lot of Chicago people have organized an anti-kissing club, and the darn thing is said to be growing. Its object is the prevention of the spread of throat and lung disease. We do not believe the benefit to be derived is commensurate with the price to be paid. Sore throat and tuberculosis have no terrors for us, and if the society invades our circle, death will be shorn of another of its terrors.—York Republican.

Senator Butler, of South Carolina, who retires to make way for Tillman, is the handsomest and one of the most polished men in congress. It has been said of him that he would fan a lady or fight a duel with equal grace, and it is certain that he is the very flower of Southern chivalry—daring, vain, proud and punctilious. Altogether he is one of the last of the cavaliers.
