We Learned a Great Truth.

It is said of John Wesley that he once said to Mistress Wesley, "Why do you tell that child the same thing over and over again?" "John Wesley, because once telling is not enough." It is for the same reason that you are told again and again that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cures colds and grip; that it counteracts any tendency of these diseases to result in pneumonia, and that it is pleasant and safe to take. The effort of some would-be leaders to create a presidential boon for Mark Hanna because of the great republican victory in Ohio will not win. The people are for Roosevelt and will see that he is nominated and elected. Hanna is all right and would make a good president but the people do not want a change. Hanna knows it and is not a candidate.

Earle Gilbert has bought the Birl Hoover house and seven lots. This is a fine place. The yard is full of old shade trees and the large brick house is one of the best and most comfortable in Nemaha. It will make a fine home. The bargain was made some time ago, but on account of a defect in the title which had to be cleared up the exchange was not made until this week.

Prof. V. C. Bridges closed his musical convention with a class rehearsal and concert at the Christian church Saturday night. The concert was fine and was appreciated by the large audience. Eighteen members of Prof. Bridges' class of Brownville came down to attend the concert and by invitation assisted in the class rehearsal. Those who attended the convention will undoubtedly be greatly benefited by the week's instruction.

The reports of the rural mail carrier regarding the condition of the roads after the rain of the past few days is an argument for "good roads" that cannot be successfully combated. Some day we will wake up and realize how much good roads mean in dollars and cents saved that are now thrown away and then we will go systematically about it to get them. But when? How much experience with bad roads is necessary to prove the desirability of good roads?—Neb. City Tribune.

The following challenge was published in the Shubert Citizen last week. This is a chance for Neal McIntyre and other good cornhuskers in Nemaha.

Henry Shaw and Bud O'dell want us to say that they have a team of horses and $25 00 in money that they will forfeit to the two men that can husk and crib more bushels of corn a day than they can. The men accepting this challenge to put up a like forfeit in case they fail to make good their acceptance. Who needs the team and money?

A recent action of the Grand lodge of Odd Fellows revives some history in Odd Fellowship in Nemaha. About eight years ago, on account of difficulties, dissensions and divisions in the membership it was voted to surrender the charter of the old lodge. Then the two divisions of the old lodge each endeavored to get a charter for a new lodge. The winners to commemorate this victory, named the new lodge Victory lodge. At the time of the surrender of the charter all property and monies belonging to the lodge was turned over to the grand lodge. When the new lodge was organized the property was returned but the money was kept. Some efforts in the past have been made to recover this money, amounting to over $300, but without result. At the recent session of the grand lodge W. F. Keeling, J. I. Dressler and R. I. Smith did some effective work, and after their return home received word that the money would be returned. An order for the amount has been received. The Odd Fellows will hold a grand jubilee soon in honor of the event.

Forty-four years ago this month Dr. W. W. Keeling bought of J. B. Hoover the quarter section of land the doctor now owns, about eight miles southwest of Nemaha. He paid $650 for the quarter, mostly for the improvements. It ran along for several years. In the meantime the doctor had moved back to Indiana, and had not thought about the land and in fact he had forgotten he owned it, when he got notice of delinquent taxes on it and that it was about to be sold. He hesitated a little about paying the tax, as he did not think this country would amount to anything, but finally sent on the amount. The doctor has been offered $75 an acre for this land but refused it. Quite an increase on the amount invested.

A surprise was given A. L. F. Thompson on his 52nd birthday last Sunday, November 8. To say he was surprised would be expressing it mildly. He had gone to Mt. Pleasant to attend sabbath school and as it was quite late when he came back all were there. He had not thought of such a thing so it made it all the more pleasant for him and those who surprised him. There was a large crowd but not more than half came on account of bad roads. It was almost 5 o'clock when the last table sat down to eat. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. Tee following were present: Messrs and Mesdames James A. Stephenson, Argabright, Russell, Crane, Wm Hawxby, Roberts, George Dye, L. H. Morris, John Stokes, Wm Hacker, Ben Skeen, Charlie Dye, Harry Russell, Harve Smith, Mesdames Henry Field, J. C. John Watson recently got some samples of the Wonder Forage plant from his brother-in-law, Briggs Flack, of Germantown, California. Mr. Watson brought one seed head of the plant to this office which measures 10 1/4 inches in length. The following description is taken from the Orland Register:

Briggs Flack has raised some of the Wonder Forage plant on the Dixon Bank land southeast of Orland this season, and sample stalks may be seen in this office. He has written for the Register the following more detailed information concerning it, which should be carefully read by our stockmen readers.

The Wonder Forage Plant is the most productive hay or fodder plant known. It grows from twelve to fourteen feet high and ripens a heavy crop of seed one hundred days from sowing. When mown down when five or six feet in height for hay it will grow again so quickly that three to five mowings can be secured in a season. One pound of seed sown broadcast covers an acre, or in drills twelve to eighteen inches apart, dropping seed six inches apart.

The broad, dark green leaves very closely resemble corn, and surpass in nutritious value any other forage plant. It is greatly relished by all kinds of stock when it is green or cured. For seed purposes it should be planted three feet apart each way and cultivated. There will be forty stalks to each plant and twenty seed heads, which are from twelve to twenty-four inches long and covered with seed. Besides a heavy crop of fodder it will yield 3000 pounds of seed per acre, unequalled for poultry food, and will ripen in any latitude that will ripen corn.

A Surgical Operation

is always dangerous—do not submit to the surgeon's knife until you have tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It will cure you when everything else fails—it has done this in thousands of cases. Here is one of them. I suffered from bleeding and protruding piles for twenty years. Was treated by different specialists and used many remedies but obtained no relief until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Two boxes of this salve cured me eighteen months ago and I have not had a touch of the piles since.—H. A. Tisdale, Sumner, S. C. ### THE EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS.

The session that begins to day was called for the purpose of expediting the adoption of the reciprocity treaty with Cuba. Before the call was issued efforts were made to prevent it on the grounds that it was unnecessary, and it is now the subject of criticism for the same reason. But if an absolute necessity does not exist there are certainly no lack of arguments to prove that the course pursued by the president was a desirable one.

It should be remembered that if open position to a reciprocity arrangement is perceptibly weaker than it was a year ago this is largely due to the determination of the president to act exactly as he has acted. If he is finally successful it will be because he has made such an aggressive fight, and the motives that have governed him deserve the heartiest recommendation.

Cuba was made to believe at the time of the incorporation of the Platt amendment in her constitution that she should receive the most generous treatment from this country in the way of tariff concessions. The government has gone to the limit with fine words, and the congressional part of it was willing enough to let persuasion do the work. Then when there was no retreat for the Cubans certain members of congress attempted to prevent a fulfillment of pledges. A bitter struggle ensued, which resulted in the extraordinary session of the Senate last spring, and the senate decided to accept the treaty only on condition that it should receive the approval of Congress.

The condition was imposed ostensibly because it was demanded by the reciprocity clause of the Dingley law, though certain leaders of the Senate had declared previously that its enforcement was not essential to the validity of the treaty. But there is now no necessity for going into the question of construction. The chief points to be considered are that delay followed delay, that in consequence the president announced his purpose to call the extra session, and that a belief in his sincerity was an important factor in the adjustment of other questions between the two governments which were happily settled during the summer.

It would appear, therefore, that considerations of good faith made the call imperative. Furthermore, whether it was indispensable or not in order to make the approval of the treaty certain, it is clear that it will expediate a business that has been too long delayed, and also that the emphasis that is thus placed upon the subject will be of real value in conciliating Cuban opinions and strengthening the friendly relations between the two countries.—Chicago Record-Herald.
