

Muskogee, I. T. Oct. 22.—To the Editor of The State Journal: During the presidential campaign in 1896, I sent you a two column article which appeared in your paper, my views upon the political situation at that time. In this article I mentioned the hard times brought upon the country by the democratic party and their failure to run successfully the business of the country. I also predicted what would become of the country if William Jennings Bryan should be elected to the presidency of the United States. I also predicted and stated what prosperity would follow to the farmer and business man if he would cast his vote for McKinley and the republican party. I have this article before me at this writing, and every item I mentioned at that time has become true one hundred fold. At the writing of that article under democratic rule the farmer was compelled to give you two bushels of wheat, one bushel of corn, one bushel of oats, all for one dollar. Today the same farmer can sell his one bushel of wheat for one dollar, one bushel of corn for thirty-five cents, and one bushel of oats for twenty-five cents. In other words, the farmer receives now under republican rule $2.00 cash for what he received only one dollar in 1896. His farm has risen in value nearly 50 per cent; his stock 25 per cent; he has paid off the mortgage on his home; his family is better dressed; he has money in the bank; receives his mail every day at the door, and can sit in his parlor and talk to all his neighbors and the towns in the surrounding country without moving from his chair, and his happiness is complete. The old house has been replaced by a new one, a commodious barn has been erected where the old stable was standing, and some of them are riding in an automobile to church in place of walking to let the old horse rest over Sunday.

Railroads have put on extra trains to carry passengers, freight and traffic; new road beds and new equipment have been made and furnished by most every railroad on the continent, railroad stocks have risen from fifty to two hundred per cent, dividends have increased in all financial and mercantile institutions, labor is at work, and factories run to their fullest capacity, commerce and clearances have doubled in figures to the credit side, and the stone which Bryan told us of which he threw up in the air has not yet come down, and the price of wheat on account of the gold standard, did not come down but has gone up, and is still going up,—and this all under the gold standard that Bryan told us would surely ruin this country if it was adopted. In short, Mr. Bryan's predictions have all been proven a failure, and the promises of McKinley and his party have become a permanent fixture and therefore is as solid as the rock of ages. And yet in the face of all these facts, Bryan thinks that he ought to, and would like to represent the great state of Nebraska in the upper house of congress. I do not believe, nor do I think, the voters of Nebraska will send a legislature to Lincoln this fall to elect him to that position.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equalled. Joe Golobick, of Colusa, Cal., writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me, though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters, and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney Troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Keeling, druggist.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Roberts met with quite an accident at Auburn Thursday afternoon. As they were driving from the court house to the north side the neckyoke came down and the horses ran away. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts were thrown out and sustained various bruises and minor injuries, and Mrs. Roberts had one shoulder dislocated and Mr. Roberts one ankle hurt. The carriage was badly torn to pieces and the horses considerably scratched up. It is hoped Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will soon recover from their injuries.

The address of Congressman Elmer J. Burkett at the opera house Thursday afternoon was a splendid one and was thoroughly enjoyed by those who heard it—especially the republicans. There was a good attendance in spite of the fact that farmers are busy gathering corn. He showed up the difference between the republican and democratic parties in good style and also explained the revenue law and showed how much better it was than the old one. Congressman Burkett is deservedly very popular in Nemaha.

Uncle Henry Clark was 76 years old Wednesday and his children undertook to give him a surprise on this occasion by arranging to gather in for dinner and a visit, but Uncle Henry found out all about it beforehand. Thirty or forty were present, nearly every one relatives—children, grandchildren, sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, a sister, sister-in-law, nephews and neices, etc.—The Advertiser editor being fortunate to be one of those not related invited to be present. The dinner was a fine one and was heartily enjoyed by all. Little Margaret Schell, the six-year-old granddaughter of Mrs. Mary E. Clark, gave a recitation in Tagalog, learned while she was in the Philippine Islands with her parents, who are teachers there. Mr. Clark was presented with a handsome easy armchair by his children and with a number of other presents. He says the chair will be a great comfort to him if he should live to be old. We hope Uncle Henry will live to celebrate many more birthdays—and that the editor will always be invited to assist.

SCHOOL NOTES

The sixth grade are making an intensive study of parts of Longfellow's Evangeline.

Do not get impatient if you do not advance as rapidly as you think you should. Growth requires time.

Primary pupils are showing a great interest in autumn leaves, seeds and that phase of nature study work.

The eighth grade are studying Longfellow's Hiawatha. Some shake their heads over some of the stories of Hiawatha's strength and swiftness.

The intermediate pupils in their geography museum have brought to light a curious specimen. Each grain is enveloped in a shuck similar to the chaff or husk about a wheat grain and the whole ear (if such you would call it) resembles a huge head of beardless wheat.

Every child should have work, physical work, to do at home and enough of it to keep him busy. Especially should this be so after they get far enough along to be in the intermediate or high school. By observation it has been found that those pupils who work hardest at home are the best and strongest pupil in school. Pupils come to school that they may learn to do things. If they have no chance to apply this learning in the doing the teaching is vain. We do not know a thing thoroughly until we can apply the knowledge of it in doing something.

"In all large towns children of wealthy parents have theater and card parties. * * * Their talk is of flirtation and engagements—a feeble parody of the doing of their elders." The above is a quotation from one of our leading and most reliable magazines. Wonder if such is not the case to a limited degree in some of the smaller places? Who is the cause of this state of affairs? The children? I think not. Some fond mother gets up a surprise on her son or daughter. The children must go, act well, and that is according to old people's notions of children's conduct. They are encouraged to finding a partner which leads to further imitation of young men and women and what is the result? Petty, doll-daddy love affairs, disgusting to onlookers however real to the actors and always seriously interfering with school work. The children can not be blamed so long as parents allow or encourage such.

Mayor Freeman and a part of his police force disagreed this week. Chief of Police Will Jones handed in his star and John R. Hall who was taking the place of Grant Clark also quit the force before Mr. Clark returned. The mayor can sympathize with the Czar of Russia and his troubles.

Some excitement was created upon our streets last Saturday evening by a couple of unknown persons trying to hold up W. L. Bousfield in his feed store. About seven o'clock as Mr. Bousfield was locking the back door of his store a couple of fellows entered the front door and turned off the electric lights. Mr. Bousfield at once threw his pocket book and watch into the oat bin. A scuffle followed in which Bousfield received a few scratches and a lick under the ribs that laid him out. The robbers finding nothing in his pockets worth having skipped out and are still at large.

The directors of the Auburn Gold Mining Company seem to have faith in their mining claims in the Black Hills as on Monday of this week they purchased a $12,000 pumping plant to be delivered at their mine on March first next.

This plant is guaranteed to pump 110 gallons of water on their placer ground every minute. This plant will force enough water on their placer mines to hydraulic one thousand yards of earth per day and as all the tests made this summer prove that the dirt will yield one dollar of gold nuggets per yard, the directors feel confident that the mines will soon pay for the machinery and then have a good sum left to start a bank account.

We have enough white pine drop siding to build an entire village, and grooved roofing to cover it with. Edwards & Bradford Lbr. Co.

The ladies aid society of the Christian church gave Mrs. John R. Russell a pleasant surprise party Thursday. Twenty of the ladies were present, and that they had a pleasant time is expressing it very mildly. They had a fine dinner and a good time all around.

The republican rally at Nemaha Wednesday night was well attended. The opera house was filled with people who gave close attention to what was said. Herbert R. Howe and Hon. V. P. Peabody, candidates for representatives were the first speakers, followed by Hon. Ellis E. Good, candidate for senator. Judge Stull then made a talk, followed by Dr. S. W. McGrew. Chas. O. French, candidate for county attorney, made the closing speech. The speeches were all good, but on account of many speakers being present none of them spoke at great length.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Oct. 22.

The body of Marion Gallant, one of the three Gallant boys who were drowned in the Missouri river while on a hunting trip last March was found in the river near Brownville Thursday afternoon. Coroner Karstens of this city was at once notified, but as it was out of this county he notified the families of the drowned men and the lodge of which the men were members.

Yesterday J. S. Gallant, father of the three men, and Mrs. Marion Gallant, accompanied by M. W. Neipart and Ira Golden, representing the Ancient Order of United Workmen and Ben Hur lodges of which the drowned men were members went to Brownville and positively identified the body as that of Marion Gallant. The father and wife identified the clothes he wore and a carpenter's rule found in one pocket, and a bunch of keys in another pocket are exact duplicates of the keys to the Cumberland Presbyterian church, of which Marion Gallant was janitor at the time of his death and which keys he was known to have with him. The coroner of Nemaha county held an inquest and the body was brought to this city last evening. Marion Gallant had $2,000 insurance in the Ancient Order of United Workmen, which, on account of the absence of direct proof of death has never been paid. He left a wife and three children in straightened circumstances and the finding and identification of his body will now secure to them the amount of the policy.

Robbed the Grave

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to take Electric Bitters; to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed at Keeling's drug store.
