

Lincoln, Nebr., Jan. 22.—Chief Game Warden Carter, in his biennial report shows that the net cost to the state of the fish and game department for the last two years has been only $5,980,500 a very low expenditure when the benefits derived from the department are considered. The department has planted in the streams of Nebraska during the last two years 18,956,000 pike, 346,000 rainbow trout, 292,000 brook trout, and more than 1,000,000 croppies, carp, black bass and catfish. Ornamental fish, gold, silver and pearl to the number of 5,309 have been raised and distributed by the department. More than $3,000 in excess of expenditures has been in, and the deficiency is charged to the maintenance of the fish hatcheries. During the biennium 13 arrests for violations of the game laws have been made and 142 convictions have resulted.

It is thought that the report will do much in the legislature toward obtaining a more stringent fish and game law, and securing the passage of the bill now pending for the extension of the powers of the fish and game commission.

SUDDEN DEATH OF F. H. D. HUNT

F. H. D. Hunt was found dead in the road this side of St. Deroin Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Hunt had been to St. Deroin and started to walk home. W. H. Lemon walked with him as far as the latter's home. This was the last seen of Mr. Hunt until his body was found in the road. The coroner was notified and came down that evening and held an inquest. The cause of his death was found to be apoplexy.

Frank Hunt was one of our old settlers, having lived in St. Deroin precinct for many years. He always took an active part in all public matters, social, political and otherwise, and was a leader in that part of the county. He had a wide acquaintance and a host of friends.

We understand the funeral services will be held at Shubert today.

Miss Lorence Munson, an elocutionist and impersonator, will give an entertainment at the opera house Saturday night, Jan. 28, under the auspices of the Rebekah lodge. Miss Munson comes highly recommended. "A natural entertainer." "An excellent elocutionist." "A master in her chosen profession." "I most heartily commend her to public favor." These are some of the recommendations from newspapers, college presidents, lecture committees, etc.

Nemaha county paid into the state treasury last week the sum of $6049.91, being the last payment on the sum of $24,447.75 which was turned into the state exchequer by this county during the year 1904. Mr. Dirks was the fifteenth treasurer to make his final settlement—all the others being from western counties where the revenue is mostly derived from school lands and the books are easily and quickly kept, while our county is one of the heaviest payers and the treasurer is compelled to keep thirty-seven different funds and the school and road funds are again divided into eighty-two and fifty-six different accounts. The treasurer during 1904 collected $144,819.79 county tax.—Republican.

The February Woman's Home Companion is packed with good things from cover to cover. A unique feature is a double-page drawing showing How Uncle Sam is Spending Hundreds of Millions of Dollars to Make Washington the Most Beautiful Capitol in the World. Other features are: Ice Yachting—The New Sport for Women, and The International Sunday-School Invasion of the Holy Land. The fiction includes stories by Louis Tracy, G. T. Evans, Madge L. Axford and Frederick Smith. Mrs. Lincoln gives her twelve favorite recipes. There are helpful articles on valentine parties, new ideas in fashions for men and women, and a number of contributions from women on How I Earned My Own Support. Published by The Crowell Publishing Company, Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

The Lincoln News says: Representative Cassell introduced a series of measures in the house Wednesday which are desired to impose a graduated inheritance tax on Nebraska estates, for the purpose of establishing a fund for the construction of permanent roads in the various counties of the state, the money to be expended by county boards in the construction of permanently metalled roadbeds from nine to twelve feet in width. The measure will impose a tax of $2 per $100 or estates over $10,000 when they go to persons related in the first degree such as sons and daughters. The tax is increased as the relationship becomes more distant, the maximum tax being $8 per $100.

The bill is designed to supply the state with permanent roadways in a different manner from that now in vogue. The county board is given charge of the fund which is to be raised and that body is required to let contracts for the improvement of the roads at public bidding, none of the money to be expended within the corporate limits of any city or town. Under the terms of one of the bills which are to form the basis for the new system, the roads must be at least twenty-five feet wide and the metalled strip must have a place in the middle making a dirt road on either side. The material to be used in the construction of the roads is not specified, but it is provided that it must be of approved quality.

At the present time the statute provides for the imposition of a slight inheritance tax, but it is very small as compared with that which Mr. Cassell proposes to impose. In justification for the measure which proposes to contribute the money to the road fund of the county it is claimed that the construction of good roadways will have much to do in increasing the value of Nebraska farm lands. The distribution of the money and the location of the roads which are to be improved is left to the county boards, but that is considered the most feasible method of determining where the expenditure is to be made.

We will send the Advertiser, the weekly Lincoln State Journal, the Iowa Homestead, the Farm Gazette and the Homemaker, all one year for only $1.50. The regular price of these papers is $3.25.

It has developed that Harmon Ray was not so incompetent as some thought he was when he deeded his farms in this county to his brother-in-law, as at the same time the brother-in-law deeded the land to Mr. Ray's children. Mr. Ray had often remarked that he did not propose to have lawyers settle his business for him.

On Tuesday night Ted Fox and Jim Anderson saw two tramps break into the Prospect school house, just south of town.

They notified Sheriff Lawrence, who went out and arrested the men. When he found them they had broken into the coal shed, stolen a quantity of fuel and built up a roaring fire.

They were brought to town and placed in the county jail and on Wednesday afternoon appeared before County Judge McCarty and plead guilty to the charge of trespass. They were fined $50.

The two fellows are hard characters and have the appearance of criminals. They gave the names of Fred Wilson and James Burns, and claimed their homes are in Minneapolis, Minn.

A charge of burglary has also been preferred against the men and they have been given two days in which to answer.

The patrons of the Prospect school have been bothered for a long time by tramps converting the building into a lodging house. Sometimes the fellows do not leave until the teacher arrives.

A stop will be put to the practice. Wilson and Burns are now in the county jail, awaiting trial for the serious charges preferred against them.—Auburn Herald.

SCHOOL NOTES

The tenth grade are arranging a program to be given in the immediate future. They promise something good.

Have we all the school spirit? Are we willing to do something that is another's duty when it is for the good of the school.

'Tis better to seek to see new beauties in old or familiar things about us than to whine for a chance to see old beauties in some new far off land.

Most of the tenth and some of the ninth grade pupils went to Auburn Monday to attend the funeral of a former schoolmate, Miss Hazel Anderson.

Remember the teacher's meeting at school house Saturday. It is called a teacher's meeting but that doesn't mean it is for teachers only. Come for you are welcome.

Through our diligent use and complete mastery of the old we discover the new. Columbus was simply seeking a path to the other side of the old world when he found the new.

Still sickness claims some of our pupils. Yet we can't complain. While other schools have had to close for diphtheria or been almost deprived of pupils by scarlet fever, ours has passed through measles and smallpox both with a good average attendance.

There are two classes of learners in life as well as in school. One learns (some) because he has to work (would not work without a "boss"); and the other has to learn (much) because he works (without being watched.) Indefatigable effort counts for much more than the "have to" kind.

Teachers Reading Circle will meet with Mr. Sanders Friday evening Jan. 27. Lesson is the second and third chapters of Geographic Influences. Leader is Clifford Hendricks, who is to conduct the circle on the plan of a class recitation. All teachers are especially invited to be present.

Just received a copy of the Second Biennial Report of the Nebraska Library Commission. In looking over its statistics we find Bruck has received four of these traveling libraries and a rural school district of that section of county has received three, that Richardson county spent over $1700 last year on school libraries, and that there are only thirty six public libraries in the state. When we stop to think that our school hasn't any library what so ever we wonder why. Other schools no larger than ours have libraries ranging all the way from one hundred to eight or nine hundred volumes. "Let us be up and doing."

"A childless neighborhood is worse than a childless home, and the community that neglect to provide adequately for the education of its children deserves to be childless till last man dies unattended, unmourned, and unburied." So says a prominent editor and educator. Think what it would mean, how lonesome and unlikable your home or your community would be without children, dear friends, when if, ever you are tempted to wish there were no children. If such a condition were to exist there are none that would not sacrifice much, even to half their possessions to have it changed back.

Fraud Exposed

A few counterfeiters have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, and other medicines, thereby defrauding the public. This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit, through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing disease, for over 35 years. A sure protection, to you, is our name on the wrapper. Look for it, on all Dr. King's, or Bucklen's remedies, as all others are mere imitations. H. E.
