Mrs. J. W. Colerick recently had a freak chicken hatch. It had four legs, but only one was of any use. This one was where the leg ought to grow. A second one started from under one wing, and the other two were on the back of the chicken. It was quite a curiosity.

Lightning struck John Webber's granary last Saturday night, damaging both ends of it. Fortunately there was little wheat in it and the damage was small. However, the granary had a narrow escape from being blown up, as the bolt went within six inches of three quart jars full of gunpowder that was in the building. This is the second time the granary has been struck with lightning, the other time during the storm on the night of the 15th.

At a late hour on Sunday night Ray Cohoe, an 18 year old lad who works for Bert Moody, was met near the corner of Jas. Guillatt's place, by two men in a buggy. There is no clue.—Granger.

The county assessor and county clerk are much disgusted with the howl the state board of equalization has been making because Mr. Maxwell failed to add the five per cent increase to the assessment this year. Some of the state officials were consulted on the question as to the necessity of returning this increase this year and they, at that time, were unanimous in saying that it was not to be added.

Deputy Clerk Wright said Wednesday that Mr. Bennett of the auditor's office plainly said that it must not be put on the assessment rolls and Mr. Maxwell said that was the way he understood it.—Republican.

Judge Kelliger, who was in Beatrice last week tells us that he was present at a trial in that city when the prisoner at the bar was accused of being an habitual drunkard, and the court which consisted of the "board of insane commissioners" as they are quite generally called. The evidence was convincing and despite the piteous pleas of the prisoner that he would "shaker-off" and never drink any more of the vile compound, he was sentenced to a term of three months in the insane hospital at Lincoln. It remains to be seen just what will result from this and like proceedings. The Granger is hopeful that by the enforcing of this law the wrongs and the misery incident to the excessive use of intoxicating drinks will be lessened.—Granger.

W. P. Freeman, secretary of the Auburn Commercial club, is in receipt of a communication from the department at Washington, D. C., which positively assures the construction across the Little Nemaha valley east of Auburn this season of an "object lesson road." The road building expert with the necessary machinery for the construction of the road will be here in a few days. The Auburn Commercial club took this matter up with the department over a year ago and it is by reason of this persistent effort that they have the assurance of the first "object lesson" road in the state. A. N. Johnson, highway engineer, of the United States office of public roads, Washington, D. C., will have the supervision of the work. As we understand it, the town of Auburn pays one-half the expense and the county one-half, the government furnishing the machinery and experts free of cost.

A Sunday school convention will be held at the park in Nemaha on Sunday, August 6. The convention will begin at ten o'clock. There will be no Sunday school held at either of the churches, according to the plans of the convention officers, but the whole day will be taken up with papers and discussions on Sunday school work. Our citizens are requested to be present and to take their dinners and have a picnic dinner in the park. The Sunday schools at Nemaha, Brownville and Howe and the country schools in this section of the county are expected to be present. L. L. Coryell of Auburn president of the county Sunday school association, and other Sunday school workers will be present and take an active part in the convention, which will undoubtedly be of great benefit to all Sunday school workers.

The fight between the north and south sides in Auburn continues with unabated fury. The last exhibit of the feeling between these two factions occurred over the Campbell Bros. circus. The advance agent leased ground for the circus on the north side, where these performances have always been held. This did not suit the southsiders, so they raised a purse and concocted plans to defeat this. Sunday morning a committee was at the B. & M. depot at 6 o'clock waiting for the show train. When it got there the members of the committee were on the train before it stopped, representing advantages of the south side. Finally terms were made with the circus proprietors, the southsiders paying the lease of the grounds on the north side and furnishing grounds free at the center, and the circus then camped on the new grounds, just west of the Gilmore-Armstrong store. The northsiders were hot but could do nothing except kick. Now the correspondent to the Lincoln News claims the southsiders got the circus to come there just to injure the chautauqua.

Congressman-elect E. M. Pollard of Nehawka and Miss Gertrude Waterman of Omaha will be married Thursday at 1 o'clock at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Pollard will go immediately to their splendid farm home at Nehawka where they will reside until November 1. They will then go to Washington. Miss Waterman was a student at the state university last year and is well known in Lincoln and Omaha.—Neb. City Tribune.

Millions of small insects descended on Lincoln Saturday night and for a time almost made it necessary to suspend business in some of the stores. The bugs swarmed about arc lights and electric signs until both were almost covered with them. Merchants and clerks left their places behind the counter and sought protection in dark corners which the insect did not penetrate. At one place brooms were saturated with kerosene and held under the arc lights in front of the building and a large number of bugs killed. Even this did not seem to make any difference in the number that were still flying about in the air. The pests were noticeable immediately after a storm cloud passed to the south of the city.—Lincoln Journal.
