The highest bridge in the world is the one recently completed in East Africa, over the Zambesi River. It forms an important link in the Cape to Cairo Railroad. The bridge, which is of the cantilever type, is 120 feet above the river at low water and crosses over the gorge at Victoria Falls. It is constructed in three spans, aggregating 900 feet, and has a width of 30 feet.

The highest point in United States territory is Mount McKinley, in Alaska, which is 20,464 feet in height.

Idaho Joins.

Fraser, Idaho, Nov. 27.—(Special.)—Mrs. Martha J. Lee has given for publication the following statement concerning Dodd's Kidney Pills:

"I was down with Rheumatism three times," she says, "and each time Dodd's Kidney Pills helped me. The last time they cured me, and now I am able to get around and do all my work, though I am fifty-eight, and I can walk to Sunday School every Sunday. Before I took Dodd's Kidney Pills I was so bad I could use neither hand nor foot. I shall keep Dodd's Pills on hand all the time."

Rheumatism is caused by Uric Acid crystallizing in the muscles. Healthy kidneys remove all Uric Acid from the blood. Diseased Kidneys cannot remove this acid, which collects in the blood and poisons every vein and artery. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Rheumatism by curing the Kidneys; by healing and strengthening them, so that they can rid the blood of all impurities.

"There is one peculiar thing about dogs," remarked a well known local fancier and huntsman, says the Houston Post, "and that is you never saw one pant and wag his tail at the same time. A dog is not capable of a double emotion. He can't growl and wag his tail at the same time, for it is impossible for him to be mad at one end and glad at the other."

Some of the Eastern newspapers have been frightened out of such wits as they had because the president of some woman's club in Chicago opened the season the other day with the terse declaration: "Women now own the earth." There's nothing in that to frighten anybody. The word "now" is redundant. They have always owned it and "all that therein is"—including the men.

College professors to the contrary notwithstanding, the time has not yet come when the self-made man is no longer to be a factor in affairs. He cannot be self-made, in the common acceptance of the term, unless he has inherent ability, a capacity for work, a practical and accurate judgment. With these characteristics he is bound to succeed, even though he has never delved into the classics nor studied integral calculus. Possessing these things, the world will recognize his worth and accord him a seat among the mighty. He cannot, in the very nature of things, be a weakling. Ambition, enthusiasm and forcefulness will compel him to push forward into the front rank, and there he will hold his own.

At last a clear white light has been thrown upon the coal situation. "The consumer has been getting his coal too cheap," says Francis I. Robbins, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The greed and avariciousness of the consumer are inevitable obstacles in the way of trust benevolence. If the consumer would stop his grumbling and pay whatever price was demanded industrial peace would soon be an accomplished fact. If the consumer would hold his wagging tongue and settle gracefully with the cashier there need be no trouble in the coal regions. The companies could hoist the price indefinitely, the increase profits could be used in fighting the unions, the trust could declare stock dividends every spring and there would be real inducements for friends of man to go into the coal business. Of course, "the consumer has been getting his coal too cheap."

Ever since Doctor Osler quoted from some authority in effect that most men over 45 years of age ought to be chloroformed, there has been a discussion of the age limit of efficiency. The latest contribution to this discussion has been made by the Rev. Richard P. Williams of Washington, D. C., who holds that so long as men are unequally endowed there can be no hard and fast line for discrimination. There must be a time in the life of every man when his efficiency decreases, but that time can never be uniform. That Mr. Williams has laid down fundamental principles regarding the age limit will not be disputed by any one at all conversant with the subject. And there may be added thereto another principle, that the success of men must not be judged by their accumulation of wealth at any given time, as an exponent of efficiency; because the accumulation of wealth is efficiency in only one direction, while ability in others may be much more marked and important so far as real human interests are concerned. The man who makes money generally does so by the employment of the efficiency of others—skill in trades, ingenuity in device, ability to adapt and to execute, in any one of which he himself may be an utter failure. A man's success in life is not always measured by dollars and cents. And there is another principle important in this matter, and that is, a man's greatest skill may not always find the opportunity it requires for greatest success. Adverse circumstances, unfavorable conditions, obstacles and misfortunes may so surround him that he is unable to demonstrate the efficiency of which he is capable before reaching any stated age. After he is 40 years of age even he may not find the proper opportunity, although it is probable that he will some time if he continue to persevere. It must be remembered that some of the greatest men in this world have failed to achieve that which made them great, until after they passed 45 years of age.

During all of the agitation concerning life insurance nothing has developed justifying the policyholder in failing to keep his contract in force. The policy is his property, increasing in value steadily as it nears maturity, and for him to be misled into letting it go by default is merely to incur a needless loss. There has been no assertion in any quarter that the standard companies are not solvent and that all policies are not certain to be met whenever due, and they have all been so met and paid without question right through the present upheaval. The much-belabored Equitable has disbursed an average of over $700,000 a week, or some $28,000,000 altogether, in death, endowment and other payments to beneficiaries in the nine months since the outbreak occurred at the beginning of the year 1905, and the other companies have been doing the same in their rightful proportion. There is no call for a man to sacrifice his policy—to sell it at any established cash surrender rate or other figure at a loss to himself. He has only to keep it alive and he or his family must receive its face value when it falls due. All the scandals and revelations in the case of individual companies need not make him fear he is to lose what is made certain by his contract, the payment of the same at maturity. No matter what duties the press may have in turning the sunlight of publicity upon every phase of the insurance situation, it has the equally important one of allaying unnecessary anxiety on the part of policyholders regarding the safety of their agreements, and this it has not wavered in doing. There has been no challenge from any reputable source as to the solvency of the standard organizations. A man insured in any of them is sure of the money for himself or his family if he continues to maintain his share of the agreement. He is entitled to a full agreed return for what he has already paid in and should not invalidate it, partly or in whole, by letting it prematurely die. A live policy is good when due for whatever it calls for. A lapsed policy represents only a needless loss to the insured.

CONVINCING EVIDENCE

That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Will Cure Rheumatism.

"People can cure themselves of a good many common ailments at a very small cost if they go about it the right way," said Mr. Hoar, recently. "For instance, I have just cured myself of a very painful disease. I might have begun to treat it sooner, that's all the mistake I made in the matter. But I found the root of the difficulty and I picked out the right remedy without the aid of a doctor."

"It was really all in my blood. I first felt a twinge in my left foot and ankle in the middle of last January, following exposure to cold. I realized I had rheumatism and I knew that really comes from bad blood. Cold simply develops it. Then my hands and feet were cold and clammy even in hot weather, and numb a great part of the time. I concluded that my blood was thin and poor and the circulation sluggish."

"After a time my feet and ankles swelled so badly that I could only tie my shoes half way up. My legs swelled terribly and I could walk only a short distance before giving out completely."

"When I read of the cures of all kinds of blood diseases, that had been effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I was convinced that they were just the remedy for my case, and so it proved. I could see that they were benefiting me before I had quite used up the first box. The improvement was decidedly marked after I had taken two boxes. Three more boxes restored my hands and feet and legs to natural size and feeling and then I stopped taking medicine and have since been perfectly well."

Mr. F. Le Roy Hoar lives at No. 182 Constitution street, Bristol, R. I. Any one can get convincing evidence that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anemia, rheumatism, erysipelas and other serious diseases of the blood by simply writing to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A Happy Combination.

A happy combination of just the right proportion of each of the roots of several indigenous, or native, medicinal plants, or rather of the active medicinal principles skillfully extracted therefrom by the use of chemically pure glycerine of just the right strength, constitutes Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of weak, invalid, "run-down," overworked women. Many years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength, is a far better solvent and preservative of the medicinal principles found in our indigenous, or native, medicinal plants than is alcohol. Believing, as he does, that the use of alcohol, even in small portions, if long continued, works great harm to the human system, he determined not to employ this commonly used agent in making his medicines, but to use pure, double-refined glycerine instead. Now, glycerine is not only perfectly harmless, but possesses intrinsic medicinal properties, being a most valuable demulcent, solvent, nutritive and anti-ferment. Since they are non-alcoholic, Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines belong to a class all by themselves. They are neither patent nor secret medicines. Their ingredients are printed, in plain English, on each bottle wrapper.

With Dr. Pierce's medicines you don't have to pin your faith wholly to what their manufacturer says of their curative potency as with other medicines. Dr. Pierce's medicines have a record of nearly forty years of cures behind them, embracing many hundreds of thousands of bad cases restored to health and happiness.
