Wm. E. Smiley went to Lincoln Wednesday.

The brick work on Mrs. Hill's millinery building is completed.

Will F. Sanders came in from De Witt Thursday afternoon to act as best man at the wedding of his uncle, Carl E. Sanders.

Rev. J. W. Sapp, who is holding a protracted meeting at Exeter, Nebr., came in Thursday afternoon to perform the marriage ceremony of Carl E. Sanders and Miss Ellen R. Shiveley.

The Methodists have been making a special effort for some time to raise money for the Methodist hospital building at Omaha. Recently Dr. Jonas, an eminent surgeon of that city, promised a donation of $30,000 if an additional $60,000 was raised by March 1st. An active campaign was entered upon and the entire amount was raised and several hundred dollars additional. The foundation and part of the walls have been laid and it is now thought the entire building will be completed within a year. It will be a fine structure. Nearly $50 was sent from Nemaha last week.

Mrs. Ad Harris gave a carpet rag sewing and quilting bee, at her handsome home near McCandless, on Wednesday, inviting in about twenty-five of her lady friends. Besides sewing 21 pounds of carpet rag and doing quilting, the ladies found time for sociability in various ways. Among the other good things was instrumental music on the piano, singing of the old sacred songs by the guests, piano and violin duets, etc. But it was at the dinner table spread with all the good things to eat of the season, and cooked with that deliciousness for which the hostess is so famous that the rapid work was done. To the ladies present it was, indeed, a day of pleasure, made so by the kind thoughtfulness of Mrs. Harris. As an entertainer she has few equals, and the day spent with her will be long remembered by those present.—Shubert Citizen.

SANDERS-SHIVELEY

Married—At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Susan I. Shiveley, Nemaha, Nebraska, Thursday, March 8, 1906, at 8 o'clock p. m., by Rev. J. W. Sapp, Mr. Carl E. Sanders and Miss Ellen R. Shiveley.

Promptly at 8 o'clock Miss Grace Peabody played a wedding march and the bride and groom, accompanied by Will F. Sanders and Miss Alice Peabody, entered the parlor. Rev. Sapp in a few words pronounced the ceremony that made them husband and wife. After congratulations from those present supper was served. Only the relatives and a very few intimate friends were present.

The groom is principal of the Nemaha schools. He has lived all his life in this county, and for the past seven years has taught in the public schools of the county. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Susan I. Shiveley and for several years has lived in Nemaha.

Many handsome presents were received by the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanders will go to housekeeping at once in the house recently purchased by the groom, and which he has furnished ready for the homecoming.

May richest blessings be their portion through life.

The editor of the Advertiser went to Auburn Wednesday to attend a meeting or conference or convention of the prohibitionists. The posters and programs invited "every one who is opposed to the protection of the saloon by the law of the state and nation" to attend. As we are emphatically opposed to the protection aforesaid and to the saloon with or without protection, we felt that we were invited. The published program said the session would begin at 10:30 with music by A. B. Huckins, followed by addresses by J. D. Graves and Rev. Marsh, each address to be followed by free discussions. We got to the hall about 11 o'clock, and found Bros Huckins and Graves present, also Messrs. Emerson and Taylor, two of the speakers for the afternoon, and Mr. Frazier, the county chairman. These composed the entire audience. After waiting awhile and only five more coming in, the chairman adjourned the meeting until the afternoon. We were not able to be present at the other sessions, but understand a small number was present in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Gilbert started for Chicago Thursday afternoon to buy goods for the new store.

In an old bookcase the other day we found a copy of Pettingall's newspaper directory for 1878. It shows then there were only 111 daily, weekly and monthly publications in Nebraska. Of this total there were but seven dailies and eight monthlies. Today there are 611 papers and periodicals.

Of the 111 of twenty-eight years ago there now remain alive and under their old names but twenty-nine, and only one, the Pawnee City Republican is owned by the same men as in 1878.

In Nemaha county there were listed only two papers as follows:

"Brownville, Nebraska Advertiser; Thursdays, republicans, Fairbrother & Hacker, publishers.

Brownville, Nemaha County Granger; Fridays, independent; George B. Moore, publisher."—Republican.

At the time mentioned in the foregoing article the editor of this paper was working in the Granger office at Brownville. He learned the "art preservative" in that office and worked there for eight years, beginning in 1872. At that time it was the Brownville Democrat with Whitehead & Porter as editors and publishers. J. D. Calhoun had sold out shortly before this to these gentlemen who were both Kentuckians. In 1874, we believe, the name was changed to the Granger, George B. Moore being the proprietor, and became the organ of the grange of which Church Howe was the head. Church at that time was running the independent party.

Perforated pencil tablets at the postoffice.

Roy M. Knapp and Miss Nellie Graham were married at the home of J. L. Graham near Hardy, Nebraska, Wednesday, February 23, 1906. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Knapp, and moved with his parents from here to Jewell county, Kansas, a couple of years ago. The Press extends congratulations and best wishes.—Stella Press.

The groom is a nephew of M. W. Knapp of Nemaha.

Four prospect holes on the lands of the Pirate Coal company near Falls City shows that the coal varies in thickness from four to five feet over a large enough extent of territory to pay to undertake to mine. The work of sinking the shaft is being pushed and before long coal will be brought to surface and a demonstration of its quality and other properties will be made. The lead find is not believed to be sufficient in extent to be of much value.—Auburn Republican.

Believing that the essential characteristics which have made the Japanese people what they are today are a consequence of the training received in the home, The Housekeeper, Minneapolis, Minn., has sent Marion Bonsall, the associate editor, to Japan to study the home life of that nation. That Miss Bonsall is capable of producing a surprising and most valuable series of articles is shown by her work in Utah. The articles on "The Tragedy of the Mormon Woman" have created widespread interest and the thousands of letters received by The Housekeeper are taken as a forecast of increased interest among the readers.

How much money does the average farmer of Nemaha county make out of a season's work? We do not mean how much net profit is left at the end of the season, throwing in the labor of the farmer and his sons in the fields and of his wife and daughter in the house and poultry yard, but how much profit results after all labor is included at a fair value and a reasonable return allowed on the capital invested in land improvements, implements, etc. Farm bookkeeping should be simple, but it is important. All such questions as these are discussed in The Iowa Homestead, of Des Moines, Iowa, a farm paper which we most heartily recommend to the farmers of this vicinity and for which the Advertiser is glad to receive and forward subscriptions at a reasonable combination clubbing rate. The Iowa Homestead has departments covering every interest of the farm and employs a large corps of able contributors. The leading experiment station workers and best farm writers of Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma write for it.
