Handmade harness in stock at Edwards & Bradford Lbr. Co.

See R. E. Bucher for the Queen incubator and brooder. The prices are right.

W. F. Keeling got in a car load of flour, bran and shorts Wednesday, from the Aurora mills.

Eddie Maxwell, who has been attending the Beatrice business college, returned home last Friday.

J. S. Hadlock came up from St. Joe Tuesday morning to see his mother who has been sick so long.

James B. O'Hara, jr., is now an advertising and bill distributor and solicits all work of that kind.

Harry Hoover, who has been at Johnson and Wymore for a week or two, returned home Tuesday.

Nelson Hadlock started for St. Paul, Minn., Wednesday, where he expects to go to work in a barber shop.

Hard coal and soft coal—several grades—various prices—for sale by the Edwards & Bradford Lbr. Co.

Just received, a complete line of window shades at Edwards & Bradford Lbr. Co.

Miss Minnie May went to Lincoln Monday to buy more millinery goods—and for what other purpose we know not.

Saturday morning was the coldest morning of the winter, the thermometer registering about ten degrees below zero.

Perry Rowen came down from Lincoln last Saturday to spend a few days at home. Perry is attending the Lincoln business college.

O. F. Harlan and Ben Parker, members of the Auburn Music Co. of South Auburn, were in Nemaha Wednesday on business.

Mrs. Florence Jarvis and children, who have been visiting at Wabash, Nebr., this winter, returned home last Friday afternoon.

W. H. Barker can now furnish the people with never-slip horseshoes—something that has never before been handled here. Try them.

Richard F. Neal says he will not be a candidate for the republican nomination for congress this year. One experience of the kind is enough for him.

Ned Maxwell, who has been visiting at home for about three weeks, returned to Lincoln Tuesday to resume his studies at the Lincoln business college.

A surprise party was given Eddie Maxwell Saturday night. A large number of young people were present and heartily enjoyed themselves until a late hour.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Maxwell and Walter S. Maxwell returned from Colorado Friday of last week. They liked the country where they were and may locate there later.

Mrs. Ann Maxwell's friends will be pleased to learn that she is rapidly recovering from her attack of pneumonia and is now able to be up. She is at the home of a friend at Sterling, Ill.

Will and Jas. H. Clark came in from Smith county, Kansas, last Saturday and visited their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clark, and other relatives until Thursday, when they started for home.

Mrs. Theo Hill went to St. Joe Tuesday night to buy her stock of spring millinery and notions. She expects to have her millinery opening as soon as she can get in her new building.

Clyde Kinton started for Billings, Montana, Monday. He will visit there awhile and will then probably go to Washington, and may remain some time if he likes it and strikes some thing to do.

Earle Steuteville, Sherm May, Elmer Allen and a few others had an egg banquet at the Edwards & Bradford store Tuesday night—trying the Monarch ranges. They say they cook eggs just as well as they do biscuits.

Mrs. John Watson writes us that they did not go to San Diego as expected, as she was taken with a severe attack of lumbago. She is now much better. They were yet at the home of O. K. Fisher, in Santa Barbara, California.

If Earle Steuteville could agree to furnish a good cook with each Monarch range he sells he would have no trouble in selling a number of them in this vicinity. We believe Earle would keep one himself if he could get one with that kind of an attachment.

Elmer E. Allen and W. H. Barker are the retiring members of the village board of trustees. Both say they are not candidates for reelection, but we believe they would accept if elected. They have made excellent members of the board, and are deserving of the honor of a reelection if it can be considered an honor.

The Chamberlain bank wrecking case was to have been heard in the district court at Auburn this week, but by motion of Chamberlain's attorneys the case was put off and court adjourned until May 7. While we believe in giving every person on trial a fair trial, we do not believe in these persistent and repeated postponements—especially when the accused has had as long time to prepare as has Chamberlain. The jury—mostly farmers—will be taken away from their spring work just when they can least be spared. It is an outrage on them.

Twenty-four members of Bena lodge No 166, Order of Rebekahs, of Nemaha went to Shubert Saturday night and assisted in organizing a lodge of Rebekahs at that place. Sixteen of them went down on the freight, getting back about four o'clock the next morning. The following were those going: Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Dressler, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Rowen, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Yackley, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Seid, Misses Minnie May, Anna Knapp, Dora Clark, May Kerker, Lela Argabright, Maggie Hacker, Messrs. Marshall Webb, Ole Roberts, Frank Dressler, Earle Steuteville, and C. B. Colerick, the latter being a visiting member.

A free cooking exhibition has been in progress at the Edwards & Bradford store this week to advertise the Monarch malleable range. Hot coffee and biscuits are served daily, and they are fine all right. Mrs. Joe Bunker and Miss Anna Knapp are the cooks and they are good ones, too. We believe Earle would like to have an exhibition of this kind going on all the time and he wouldn't care particularly whether there were many to help eat or not. They say that the first day he ate only once—beginning as soon as the first biscuits were out of the oven and eating until the last ones were gone, about 10 o'clock at night. He says it won't do to let the biscuits get cold, and he tries to prevent it by eating all that are not called for as soon as they are cooked. Sherm May has to wait on the customers.

J. H. VANDERSLICE

The Advertiser editor started out as a weather prophet Thursday of last week. He made a positive prediction that the stormy period was over and that the snow would be gone by Sunday night. But when Sunday night came it was still storming and there was more snow on the ground than ever. So the aforesaid editor has retired as a weather prophet. Where he made his mistake was in not having a lot of qualifying assertions in it as do the other weather prophets. Then he could have pointed with pride to the fulfillment of his predictions, regardless of how the weather was.

H. R. Howe says he wants it distinctly understood that he is not a candidate for the legislature or for any other office this year. He says some men are in politics for the money there is in it and others say they are in it for the fun, but in his short experience he has got neither fun nor money out of it, so he has retired, and is willing to let others get all the glory they can out of it. He is sensible, but it is seldom that a man that has once got a taste for politics ever retires permanently. Perhaps Herb is an exception.

The Annual Inter-High School Debate at Falls City last Friday evening, "Resolved, That all the property of deceased persons in excess of $100,000 valuation should become the property of the state" was decided in favor of the negative. Clyde Baldwin, the representative of the Stella school, was on the affirmative, and although the negative won in the decision, Mr. Baldwin secured first place as to single argument. Miss Edith Hill of Shubert closed the negative and won second place. She and the Rulo representatives were the youngest of the debaters, being only eighth and ninth grade pupils fourteen years of age. Mr. Baldwin and Miss Hill received the greatest applause aside from the Falls City representative, who did not receive even fourth place, that going to Verdon, and Humboldt winning third place.—Stella Psees.
