A CURE FOR DEBILITY
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills A Reliable Remedy for the Weak, Ailing and Bloodless.
When the body is weak and the blood thin it is sometimes difficult to find the cause unless a wasting illness has preceded, or the sufferer happens to be a girl on the verge of womanhood.
Obscure influences, something unhealthful in one's surroundings or work, may lead to a slow impoverishment of the blood and an enfeeblement of the whole body. When a serious stage has been reached there seems to be nothing that will account for it.
Mr. C. E. Legg, of Tipton, W. Va., has found a successful method of treating weakness and bloodlessness. He says:
"I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for weakness caused by a lingering malarial fever that began in the spring of 1896. The worst effects of this were indigestion and a bad state of my blood. I was anemic, as the doctors say. People generally would say that I didn't have blood enough, or that I didn't have the right kind of blood; mine was too thin. My kidneys and liver were out of order. I was badly annoyed by sour risings from my stomach. There was a good deal of pain, too, in my back and under my right shoulder blade."
"How long did these troubles last?"
"For over two years. For four months of that time I was under the care of a physician, but his medicine did me no good. Meanwhile I learned of the cures that had been wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."
"You owe your cure to these pills?"
"I certainly do, and I also know that they are helping others to whom I have recommended them. They have real merit and I know of nothing that would take their place."

60,000 BUNCHES OF BANANAS.
Special Train Scattered Biggest Cargo Ever in Port.
The largest cargo of bananas ever received in any port of the world reached here recently on the United Fruit Company's steamer Esparata from Port Limon, Costa Rica. It consisted of 60,000 bunches of Limon fruit, which is the largest variety of banana shipped to this country, and it filled 150 box cars. These cars, if attached to one locomotive, would have stretched a distance of a mile and a half, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat.
The work of discharging this cargo will be the greatest task the company has ever undertaken. Once the sister ship of the Esparata, the Limon, arrived with 54,000 bunches of fruit and up to that time the record was very much smaller. The Esparata broke the Limon's record by 6,000 bunches.
The Southern Pacific road ran out a special train to assist in the delivery of this fruit, which will be scattered all over the country between St. Louis and Vancouver. A portion of the cargo goes to Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Another section will go to Seattle and Vancouver and this train will run a special over the Southern Pacific straight through San Francisco and up the Pacific coast. Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, Detroit, St. Louis, Indianapolis and several smaller cities will be supplied with fruit from this one single cargo.
It took eight trains loaded with nothing but bananas to carry out the consignment and there were fifteen messengers in charge of the fruit.
When the cargo of the Esparata is compared with the shipments which were received up to a few years ago, an idea can be secured as to the wonderful growth of the importations.
When the steamers first ran in the fruit trade they carried on an average of 10,000 bunches each, just one-sixth of the Esparata's cargo. These vessels were chartered in Norway and made an average of nine miles an hour. The steamers now in the trade are magnificent ships, fast and equipped with every modern comfort for a limited number of passengers.

WILD BEAST STUDIO.
Artist Who Worked in Glass Cage at the Bronx Gardens.
Artists who go up to the zoological gardens in the Bronx nowadays to make studies of the big animals that are kept in cages find a studio prepared for them that is probably finer than anything else in the world, says the New York Press. It consists of a room at one end of the house in which the lions and tigers are kept, the room being made entirely of heavy panes of glass with wire mesh between the panes. When an artist lets the director of the zoo know just which animal he wants to make studies of, a cage is rolled behind the one in which the beast is regularly confined, it is driven into this temporary cage and then the cage is rolled along to a point directly beneath the floor of the studio.
From there it is sent up to the level of the studio cage, the door is opened and the animal finds himself, apparently, in the open again. How strong this impression must be may be gathered from the fact that the first thing the captive does is to spring toward the trees that surround the studio, only to be cruelly deceived. For it met with a shock of finding there is some strange stuff between him and the world outside. The artist is safe behind a row of iron bars, where he may make his studies in perfect safety. Occasionally the artists find the animals will obey them when they shout at them to lie down. But, as a rule, the wild beasts have to be studied while they are in action. The ones that do obey, it is usually found, have been at some time in their lives in a circus or menagerie.

Distances in Venezuela.
In traveling in Venezuela it is not enough to ask how far distant a place is but also how far up or down—in other words, what its altitude is—and, so less important, what hills and valleys have to be crossed. Thus it is not only necessary to know that Caracas is six miles distant in a straight line from La Guayra, its seaport, but that it lies at an elevation of nearly half a mile above sea level, and that to reach it one has to cross a mountain wall rising far above the clouds. This, to the experienced traveler, means that he must prepare for an entirely different climate.—St. Nicholas.

Physical Disability.
"Musicians are the least courageous class of workers when they go on a strike."
"Why do you say that?"
"Because they are always unwilling to face the music."—Baltimore American.

MIDDLE LIFE
A Time When Women Are Susceptible to Many Dread Diseases—Intelligent Women Prepare for it. Two Relate their Experiences.

The "change of life" is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.
Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.
When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.
Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.
For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and it will be furnished absolutely free of charge. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.
Read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound did for Mrs. Hyland and Mrs. Hinkle:
Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I had been suffering with displacement of the organs for years and was passing through the change of life. My abdomen was badly swollen; my stomach was sore; I had dizzy spells, sick headaches, and was very nervous."
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

"I wrote you for advice and commenced treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as you directed, and I am happy to say that all those distressing symptoms left me and I have passed safely through the change of life, a well woman. I am recommending your medicine to all my friends."—Mrs. Annie E. G. Hyland, Chester town, Md.
Another Woman's Case.
"During change of life words cannot express what I suffered. My physician said I had a cancerous condition of the female organs. One day I read some of the testimonials of women who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it, and to write you for advice. Your medicine made me a well woman, and all my bad symptoms soon disappeared."
"I advise every woman at this period of life to take your medicine and write you for advice."—Mrs. Lizzie Hinkle, Salem, Ind.
What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Hyland and Mrs. Hinkle it will do for other women at this time of life.
It has conquered pain, restored health, and prolonged life in cases that utterly baffled physicians.

The first monarch who called himself "King of England" was Richard I. All the preceding rulers of England, from William the Conqueror to Henry II, were each known as "King of the English."
A girl's idea of "getting even" with her best girl friend is to do the same foolish things that she does.
Sarah Bernhardt, the great French actress, is a Jewess on her mother's side only. Her father was of the Christian faith, and had her educated in a convent. Her first appearance on the stage was made at the Theatre Francais, Paris in 1862, but with only fair success. Four years later in 1866, she appeared at the Odeon, and from this date her brilliant career.
