JEAN, Wash., August 1.—Elmer B. Brimble, aged 25 years, was operated upon for appendicitis last Thursday and died Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Brimble, near here. He came here a month ago on a visit and was in perfect health at that time. Two weeks later he complained of being ill and remained in bed. He gradually grew worse suffering considerably. A doctor was called and diagnosed his trouble as appendicitis. An operation revealed the fact that considerable pus had accumulated and his condition was considered critical. He gradually grew weaker and passed away Saturday. Before coming here Mr. Brimble was employed on the B. & M. railroad as a conductor in Nebraska between Lincoln and Plattsmouth, where he was held in high esteem by his employers, co-workers and all who knew him, as he was a young man of high character and exemplary habits. He was unmarried and leaves his parents, three sisters and three brothers, all with one exception living here, to mourn their irreparable loss. He was born July 31 1880, in Nemaha county, Nebraska and lived in that state continuously up to the time that he came out here.

The funeral occurred Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the family home, Rev. C. A. Phipps, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Coulee City, conducting the services. The remains were laid to rest in the Jean cemetery. A large concourse of friends of the bereaved family attended the funeral. The sympathy of every one in this community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Brimble and family in their great sorrow.—Coulee City (Wash.) News.

The first candidate in the present campaign to file an expense statement with the secretary of state is Congressman G. W. Norris, who was re-nominated in the Fifth district a few days ago. He lists these items: Postage stamps, 4 cents; railroad ticket, McCook to Hastings, $7.80; hotel, Hastings, $1.—Lincoln News.

A fight is being made against the waste of public money by the free seed distribution graft by congress. J. Sterling Morton made a hard fight against it when secretary of agriculture in Cleveland's cabinet. The opposition is growing. We are pleased to know that Congressman Pollard made a fight against it at the last session of congress. It should be done away with.

There has never been a time in the history of the state that fruit of all kinds has been so plentiful and of so excellent quality as this year. There has been an abundance of all kinds of fruit raised here, and a constant supply of some kind all the time. Before one variety was gone another was ripe. We now have blackberries, grapes, peaches, pears and apples. It has kept the housekeeper busy putting up fruit.

Word has been received in Lincoln of the death of Elmer B. Brimble at Jean, Wash., where he was visiting his parents. He was taken ill with appendicitis July 17 and an operation was performed the 23d. He died on the 27th and was buried on the 29th. He was a conductor on the Burlington railroad, well known in Lincoln, where his manly, honest character made him many warm friends who feel his loss keenly.—Lincoln State Journal.

Elmer's many friends in Nemaha and vicinity feel his death very keenly.

One of the minor government abuses that managed to get through congress with a whole skin is the free seed distribution. Its turn ought to come next at the guillotine. The seed dealers of the country have organized for an open fight for the abolition of the practice. Unlike the usual effort to influence legislation in the interests of a particular business this campaign is conducted openly. The seedsmen say that they are fighting the government practice because it interferes with their business. The total use of packet seeds in this country amounts to 120,000,000 packages. Of these the government gives away free 40,000,000 "What industry could survive if the government gave away free half as much as those engaged in the industry sold?" asks the president of the American Seed Trade association. Nebraska furnished several votes in favor of the fraud in the last congress. In the next session there ought not to be one vote from this state in favor of this nasty little graft.—State Journal.

The populists were almost wiped out of existence at the state convention this week, so far as recognition on the state ticket was concerned. They met at the same time as the democrats, with the firm resolve to have the governor or die in the ditch. But the democrats went ahead and nominated Shallenbarger, and made the populists swallow it. W. H. Thompson was nominated for United States senator. The populists were told they could have the two railway commissioners, state auditor and land commissioner, and they finally consented. The following is the ticket:

For governor, A. C. Shallenbarger, of Alma.

For United States Senator, W. H. Thompson, of Grand Island.

For lieutenant governor, William H. Green, of Creighton.

For secretary of state, Carl R. Goucher, of Wahoo.

For treasurer, Frank C. Babcock, of Hastings.

For auditor, J. S. Candy, of Minden.

For land commissioner, J. V. Wolfe of Lincoln.

For attorney general, L. I. Abbott of Omaha.

For state superintendent, Prof. Watson, of Cherry county.

For railway commissioner—George Horst, of Polk county; J. W. Davis, of Fillmore county; Dr. A. P. Fitzsimmons, of Johnson county.

There is a mighty small war scare in that killing of the Japanese poachers in the Pribilof islands.

The poachers invaded American territory and violated American law. Some of them were captured. Others, evading arrest, were shot. That is all.

No government, unless it is looking for trouble would make a fuss over such an incident.

And Japan is not looking for trouble with us.

The tendency, in fact, is toward a closer union between the United States, England and Japan. So much so that Russian newspapers are printing alarming editorials about such a combination.

At the same time there is a lesson in the poacher incident.

Should we be forced into war with Japan we should have reason to regret our presence in the Philippines. Our insular possessions are right at Japan's front door. Her navy would be in possession before we could turn around—one of the penalties of holding land on the other side of the world. And there is our defenseless Pacific coast.

There is no adequate naval base on our Pacific frontier. And our navy yards, docks, ships, etc., at Bremerton and Mare Island are not half up to the needs of our one-horse, so called Asiatic squadron.

Japan with her navy—six times larger than our Asiatic squadron—would put us out of business on the Pacific slope in a great hurry.

It is when such possibilities confront the public mind that the incessant demands of Mr. Hobson—and the recommendations of the president—for more and larger ships and adequate Pacific coast defenses and Philippine fortifications, become realities. It is then that the public begins to see that the safety and self respect of a nation are not to be measured in money.

If the poacher incident brings all these things to the public view it will not be without its uses.—Omaha News.

There is a constantly increasing agitation against the vertical system of handwriting, as taught in the public schools. Lincoln is not free from this abominable effort to pound into the children an ungainly, unsightly, unnatural method of writing. The vertical writing is machine-like and destroys that degree of individuality which a successful professional or business career requires. The children should be required to write carefully and legibly, in their own way, and there, the average man believes, the training in penmanship should cease. We have seen letters written by several little girls in the same class at school and not even a handwriting expert could tell one from another.

One doesn't want one's handwriting to be like everybody's else any more than he would care to have a face of a common type. Let the children be taught to write so that the result will not look like the perambulations of a spider that has stepped in an ink well, and the writing end of education will have been served. Then let the time to be given over to spelling, and the public schools will be doing a work for which future generations will call them blessed—and sensible. And now abideth reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic. And the greatest of these is spelling.—Lincoln Star.
