Earle Steuteville, who has been manager of the Edwards & Bradford Lumber Co. at Nemaha for the past two years, has resigned and expects to take a layoff for a couple of months. He has been employed in the lumber business for five years, the most of the time working for the Edwards & Bradford Co., and during that time has not had a vacation, so feels like taking a good rest. His successor, George Hartwig, arrived Monday night, coming from Dakota City. Earle will probably remain here for about two weeks, assisting the new manager.

Messrs. Hoag and Pageler, representatives of the Nebraska (Bell) Telephone Co., have been in Nemaha a great deal of the time this summer, trying to organize a local company, and Friday night of last week a meeting of those interested was held and a local company organized. As we understand it, the Bell company furnishes the instruments and puts in the switchboard, charging $2.50 per year for same for each phone. The local company manages its own affairs here. They are connected with the Bell long distance phones and the Bell company get all the toll. By connecting with Peru, Julian, Brock and other towns near the local company can have free phone service to these towns.

The company adopted the name of the "Farmers and Merchants Mutual Telephone Company of Nemaha, Nebr." The following officers were elected:

President—W W Seid.
Vice President—Andrew Aynes
Secretary—John E Crother.
Treasurer—J H Seid.
Board of directors—Rufus Rowen, J H Seid, J E Crother, W G Maxwell, M W Knapp.

The members of the company in addition to the above are Earle Gilbert and John T. Webber.

These members all pay in $25 each. Other persons desiring to go in can do so on the same terms. Those not desiring to become stockholders can become subscribers at reasonable rates. The switchboard, instruments, wire, poles, etc., have been ordered and will be put in as soon as possible. It has not yet been decided where central will be located.

Mr. Demiers M. Colerick died at her home southwest of Nemaha Sunday night, Nov. 25, 1906, aged 74 years, 10 months and 20 days.

The deceased had been an invalid for some time on account of repeated strokes of paralysis. She also suffered from dropsy and other ailments. For the last few days of her life she was feeling better apparently. The night of her death her son L. S. Colerick, with whom she made her home, went to her bed room before he went to bed, to see that she was comfortable. She bade him goodnight twice as he went out of the room to his own bed in an adjoining room. During the night her son woke up and noticed that his mother was not moaning as she did a great deal in her sleep, and as he knew she was liable to die at any time, he went to her bedside and found she had passed away. Evidently she had been dead but a short time.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. G. W. Ayers were held at Prairie Union church Tuesday and the body laid by the side of her husband who died several years ago.

The deceased leaves six living sons and has six children dead. The sons yet living are J. S. of Nemaha, Albert of Alliance, Wm. of Oklahoma, L. S. and J. L. of this county, and Chas. B. of Milligan, Nebr.

She was an old resident of this county, coming here with her husband first during the war. After living here a number of years they moved to Iowa and from there to western Nebraska, returning to this county about 18 years ago.

A more lengthy sketch of her life will be published next week.

It is not generally known, but it is a fact nevertheless, that Nebraska people are not at the mercy of the "chestnut" trust. This most delicious of nuts can be grown successfully here as may be learned by a visit to the home of ex-Judge John Stull in Auburn. One day last week Judge Raper exhibited a handful of chestnuts that were grown on Judge Stull's trees, and from the look of satisfaction that o'er spread Judge Raper's face while talking about the nuts we feel assured that they possess the right flavor. Our farmers would do well to investigate this matter as there is always a demand for this kind of nuts.—Tucumseh Tribune.

While we believe that Nebraska corn huskers are world beaters, yet 165 bushels in ten hours is big husking even here. This record was made by Ed Branister at E. F. Horn's farm one day this week and is vouched for by Mr. Horn, who weighed and scooped the corn. The first five hours Branister shucked 75 bushels in corn that averaged 37 bushels to the acre. The last five hours he got 90 bushels in corn that averaged 50 bushels to the acre, and in good corn he believes he can husk 18 bushels per hour and keep it up. Bring on your huskers.—Brock Bulletin.

The entertainment given by the primary department of our public school Wednesday night, under the direction of Miss Lillian D. Neal, the teacher, was an excellent one, and the audience were well pleased with the songs, recitations and drills of the little folks. The proceeds will be used in buying material to enable teacher and pupils to do better work.

J. I. Dressler took pity on Marshall Webb and the editor and invited us out to eat Thanksgiving dinner. Of course we accepted, and the way the turkey and other good things disappeared would have dismayed most any one. But Mrs. Dressler had evidently made preparation for such a raid, and the more we ate the better it seemed to please her.

An exchange says if you are superstitious about the number 13 you had better give up your quarter dollars, for on one of them are 13 stars, 13 letters in the scroll of the eagle's beak, 13 leaves on the olive branch, 13 arrow heads and 13 letters in the words "quarter dollar." Now, its not safe to keep them, so just bring them in and get credit on your subscription for the full amount.
