

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

According to the estimates of the bureau of labor and statistics five Nebraska counties produced more than 200,000 bushels of potatoes each. They are Box Butte, Cherry, Dawes, Scotts Bluff and Sheridan. All far to the northwest. Thirteen averaged a yield of 100,000 bushels or more. These are Boone, Cedar, Cherry, Cheyenne, Cuming, Dixon, Knox, Madison, Rock, Scotts Bluff, Wayne, Thomas and Wheeler. All of these are north of the Platte and six would be classed as western counties. Northwestern Nebraska thus retains the lead in potato production, and will no doubt continue to be the principal potato exporting section of the state. The southwest runs more to sugar beets as an intensive crop, and to alfalfa. It is unlikely that any part of the country as well adapted to corn as its eastern Nebraska will soon make any other crop than corn its main resource.—State Journal.

C. H. Henderson has sold his business building in Shubert to Riggs & Lewis, and will give possession the first of March. He has already begun to close out his dry goods and groceries and the new owners will use the building for their stock of hardware and furniture. They are also in the implement business, but this stock is located in another building. Mr. Henderson contested a 640 acre homestead thirty-two miles from Hemingford last spring. He won in the contest, no one even appearing against him, and recently made his filing. The homestead is raw prairie, located in the stock raising district. The nearest railroad is at Hemingford, the nearest postoffice and church is at Canton ten miles away, and the nearest school is fifteen. Mr. Henderson believes that the new and undeveloped west offers better opportunities for himself and family than this locality where the settlement is becoming dense and the competition great.—Stella Press.

"A beautiful body presupposes a healthy body, in perfect condition for its use, embracing color, texture, animation and intelligence," says Dr. Anna Galbraith in the January Delinicator. "The adage, 'Beauty is but skin deep,' like many another, is untrue. The beauty of the skin is evidence of good respiration, good digestion, proper excretion by the bowels, skin and kidneys, good condition of the blood, and plenty of outdoor exercise.

"The skin is a very delicate and complex organ, and upon its conditions and the vicissitudes to which it is exposed the health is more dependent than upon any other agency in life over which we have control. The skin is not an independent organ; nothing in the body is independent. It is now well known that the skin, as well as other parts of the body, depends for its integrity upon the general nervous system. Disturbance anywhere in the body acts upon the skin; conversely, any disturbance in the skin acts upon the central nervous system."

Geo. Coryell informed us last week that "old Pete" yielded up the struggle of life. We had not the pleasure of Pete's acquaintance—probably we have ever been reluctant about forming the acquaintance of a mule—we have about the same love for a mule that a southerner has for a nigger. But "Pete" was a mule with a record and a large circle of acquaintances. He had been the property of Geo. Coryell for the past 24 years and was counted an old mule when Mr. Coryell purchased him and at the time of his demise was more than 40 years of age. When Mr. Coryell left the farm he reserved a stall and feed for old "Pete" and had a contract to the effect that the faithful animal should be cared for the remainder of his days. As a worker this mule is said to have been one of the most faithful animals that ever wore the harness and his power of endurance was something wonderful. He never "kicked." Bully for Pete. Peace be to his ashes. His remarkable longevity may be attributed to the fact that he never used liquor nor tobacco.—Brock Bulletin.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA

CATTLE EXHIBIT

All Nebraskans will be interested to know that the exhibit of fat cattle sent to Chicago from the State University farm was again successful in winning several of the highest prizes offered by this, the largest live stock show in the world. Of the nine steers exhibited by our University, six were prize winners, one of them a nine-months calf, bred on the University farm, winning the grade Angus championship over all ages, and another, the college championship over the cattle of all breeds and ages exhibited by the various state universities and agricultural colleges. Had Mr. Turner, who came from Herefordshire, England, to judge the grade steers and award the grand Championship, judged the pure-bred steers, the University would have won on "Ruby"—a two-year-old Angus (pure bred)—the same honor that came to Challenger in 1903, viz., the Grand Championship plum. "Ruby" under the English judge in the College Classes was placed ahead of the two steers that had defeated him under a Chicago judge and was pronounced by the English judge the best steer in the show. This, however, was after the Grand Championship had been awarded to a breeder from Illinois. "Ruby" was sold to "The Fair" department store at fifteen cents per pound live weight, the top price of the show for single individuals, bringing for beef $273.00. On the yearling steers entered in the carcass contest, the University of Nebraska won both first and second prizes, which is a strong testimonial for the system of feeding practiced at our State Farm.

The exhibit this year, nine head was the largest ever made by the University of Nebraska and a total of $450.00 in prizes was won, to say nothing of the high prices received for the beef. One of the prize winners was selected from a carload of calves nearly two years ago when a party of students were being instructed by Prof. Smith on the selection of feeding steers.

During the past few years the University has won $1,500 in prizes at the International Stock Show on fifteen steers, one of the number, Challenger, winning $430.00 in 1903. The high prices received for the beef have more than paid the expenses for exhibiting and the prize money has therefore been net profit to the state. The steers being fed for next year are even better prospects than those shown last week. These cattle are kept primarily for use as models in the student judging classes. Considerable care is exercised in their selection though many of the steers are purchased at low prices. The Champion Challenger, selected from a Nebraska farmer's feed lot, cost the University five cents per pound, six months later selling for twenty-six cents per pound.

The University of Nebraska has been further recognized by the fact that the book on judging and feeding live stock recently written for farmers and stockmen by H. R. Smith, Professor of Animal Husbandry, has been adopted as a textbook in the universities and agricultural colleges of twenty states and the Dominion of Canada.
