The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package. For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison-marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simply refuse to accept any other. Sold by all dealers.

"Hot Air" Only

Three weeks ago the story was rife that "Reddy" Williams, formerly of Auburn, had been sentenced to the Idaho penitentiary for a long term of years for some sort of a crime. It was also said Williams had confessed to burglarizing a house in Auburn in 1903 for which George Brott of this city did nearly two years' time on "bloodhound" evidence. Brott informed The Chieftan he would bring suit against the Auburn parties who caused his conviction and imprisonment for $10,000 damages. Now comes word from "Reddy" Williams' father, who lives at Payette, Idaho, that there is nothing in the story that his son got into trouble there and was sentenced to prison. "Reddy" has been working at the carpenter trade in Idaho and is well behaved.—Tecumseh Chieftan.

The proposed new law by Mr. Clark, of Missouri, is a dinger and should be passed without discussion. The bill proposes to place a fine of from 50 cents to $1 on every cuss word used in public. The other night the writer was on the train enroute from Pilger, and waited for some time at Nebraska City, when a prominent Auburn man—prominent for some of his vileness—accompanied by a like specimen came into the car, both so drunk that they couldn't distinguish colors, and passed the time emptying bottles of beer into their anatomies, and each breath was preceded by an oath of the most blood-curdling nature and would do credit to an old sailor with a wooden leg. If only Nebraska had such a law as proposed by the honorable Mr. Clark, enough fines could have been collected in fifteen minutes to build an electric car line in Auburn. Let us have a similar law and try to check the habit that is neither elegant nor refined, to say the least.—Annie Vio Gates in the Granger.

Does coffee disagree with you? Probably it does! Then try Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee. "Health Coffee" is a clever combination of parched cereals and nuts. Not a grain of real coffee, remember, in Dr. Shoop's Health coffee yet its flavor and taste matches closely old Java and Mocha coffee. If your stomach, heart or kidneys can't stand coffee drinking, try Health Coffee. It is wholesome, nourishing and satisfying. It's safe even for the poughest child. Sold by Earle Gilbert.

Pollard Puts it Back

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1. The privileged resolution that Mr. Pollard introduced at the opening of the present session, requesting the judiciary committee of the house to report upon his legal right to receive pay for the period from March 4 to July 18, 1905, was acted upon a few days ago. The judiciary committee held that the sergeant-at-arms of the house did not act within authority of law when he paid out this money and that therefore Mr. Pollard had no right to it. The same day that the judiciary committee made this report Mr. Pollard introduced a bill authorizing the treasurer of the U. S. to receive the amount of his salary that is in controversy. This bill was referred to the ways and means committee which is the ranking committee of the house and contains not only the greatest lawyers but the ablest members that are now in congress. This committee unanimously reported that the sergeant-at-arms did act within authority of law and that Mr. Pollard was legally and morally entitled to the salary he received from March 4 to July 18, the date of his election. In closing their report the ways and means committee said: "We believe that Mr. Pollard was entitled to his pay and that the proper construction of the statute was put upon it by the disbursing officer of the house of representatives, but in as much as Mr. Pollard insists on returning this money to the treasury of the United States and for the purpose of aiding him to that end, we report the bill favorably after striking out the words 'without authority of law.'" While Mr. Pollard was able to get the bill reported from the ways and means committee, yet, he could not get it up for consideration in the house. All the lawyers in the house both democrat and republican were practically unanimous in the opinion that Mr. Pollard was entitled to the money under the law and that if the bill were permitted to pass it would overturn a long line of precedents that have been running for almost half a century. They contended that the passage of the bill would make a serious reflection upon the character of a number of men of renown now serving in congress as well as some who are now deceased. Among the latter were Mr. Hitt of Illinois and Mr. Nelson Dingley of Maine. When Mr. Pollard returned the money to the sergeant-at-arms he did so because as he said, "I do not propose to retain any money when there is the least question of doubt as to my right to it." This question of doubt has not been removed. Yesterday Mr. Pollard called upon Mr. Treat, treasurer of the U. S., in order to ascertain whether he could receive the amount of the salary in dispute. Mr. Treat said that he could receive the money and would give Mr. Pollard a receipt therefore and that the money would be turned into the general fund of the treasury. As soon as Mr. Pollard found out that he could convert the money back into the treasury he decided to close for all time this vexatious question. This morning he mailed a check to the treasurer of the U. S. for the amount of the disputed salary; feeling that in as much there was still some doubt as to his right to the money he did not care to retain it.

The early spring number of The Designer has a useful and interesting array of household matter and fiction. Simple entertainments, suitable for little home evening affairs, are always given in "The Designer" and in the March number some verse suitable for recitation is concluded. The Puzzle pages, the Fashion Notes for Men, the practical advice about how to make and keep oneself beautiful, the lectures by a florist how to grow flowers—all regular departments of the magazine—are full of especial interest this month.

The Fiction is made a feature in the March number. A continued story by Miles Bradford, author of "Carlotta and I," is begun, entitled "Economy Farm." Also, Edith Parker Johnson, now a resident of Korea, has contributed an interesting article called, "An American Garden in Korea." Besides these, there is a story by Edwin L. Sabin and a particularly graceful little poem of Minna Irving's.

Rising From the Grave

A prominent manufacturer, Wm. A. Fertilwell, of Lucama, N. C., relates a most remarkable experience. He says: "After taking less than three bottles of Electric Bitters, I feel like one rising from the grave. My trouble is Bright's disease, in the diabetes stage. I fully believe Electric Bitters will cure me permanently, for it has already stopped the liver and bladder complications which have troubled me for years. Guaranteed at Hill Bros druggists. Price only 50c."

Governor Sheldon has permitted S. F. No. 6 to become a law by returning it to the secretary of state after a lapse of five days without his signature.

The bill was one of several antiliquor bills introduced by Root of Cass. It provides that it shall be unlawful to ship packages of intoxicating liquors unless the packages are labeled on the outside in large letters, "Intoxicating Liquors." It further provides that it shall be unlawful to ship liquor to any fictitious person and it is made unlawful for any common carrier to ship liquor unless it is so labeled or to receive for transportation any liquor consigned to a fictitious person. It further declares it to be unlawful to bring intoxicating liquors into a town where there is no licensed saloon with the intent to sell it or to have some one else sell it.

Druggists were among those who opposed the law on the ground that they often receive shipments of drugs in which there may be a small amount of intoxicating liquors, alcohol or port wine not intended to be sold as a beverage. It has been opposed also on the ground that it will not prevent interstate shipments of intoxicating liquors to come into the state but will prevent shipments within the state. Some attorneys say this may not be the law, that interstate shipments of dynamite and explosives and other dangerous substances are required to be branded to indicate what they contain.—State Journal.

"Preventics" will promptly check cold or the Grippe when taken early at the "sneeze stage." Preventics cure seated colds as well. Preventics are little candy cold cure tablets, and Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. will gladly mail you samples and a book on colds free, if you will write him. The samples prove their merit. Check early colds with Preventics and stop pneumonia. Sold in 5c and 25c boxes by All Dealers.

"WILL IT PAY TO SPRAY?"

Paper Read by Al Russell Before the Recent Farmers' Institute.

I will give you a few figures from the records of the government experiment, carried on in my orchard last year: The records show that seventeen trees of Missouri Pippin and Ben Davis apples sprayed in my orchard averaged 7.3 bushels of marketable fruit and 2 bushels of culls and windfalls.

Now, to prove to you that it pays to spray, you have but to compare the following figures: There were 9:3 bushels of apples on the sprayed trees, and 4.8 bushels on the unsprayed trees, making a difference of 4.5 bushels. The cost of the spraying was as follows: Material, 12 cents per tree; labor 10 cents per tree; making a total cost of 22 cents per tree for the four sprayings. At the price apples sold at last fall, 25 cents per bushel, it left me a profit of 90 1-2 cents per tree, over the cost of spraying. In addition to this I had the satisfaction and pleasure of handling good fruit. At a season when the fruit brought nearer a reasonable price the profit would be just that much greater, for the cost of spraying would be the same.

I think it stands to reason that an orchard well sprayed is in better condition to bear a good crop every year than one not thus treated. I noticed that the leaves on sprayed trees at picking time were as green and vigorous as they usually are in midsummer, while those on the neglected trees had nearly all fallen off. This proved to me most conclusively that the trees that had been sprayed were in a much healthier condition than those not sprayed.

I shall spray more thoroughly the coming season than I did the past. I intend to run my sprayer with a gasoline engine. In that manner I will get more pressure, and this is the essential part of operating a sprayer for effective work. The pump should be so run that a perfect fog of the spray is created; not a rainfall, as it were.—Tecumseh Chieftan.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and sealding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.
