

TRUE LOVE'S ROUTE

IS IT ALWAYS THROUGH THE HEART?

Sometimes "Py the Stummick," According to Philosopher Who Backs Up His Assertion with Conclusive Individual Proof.

Max, the Washington Heights saloon keeper, sat in his cheerful back room the other night and defied the weather. Being Sunday the chain was on the door, and the presence of two policemen in uniform, who had dropped in for a little something warm to offset the effect of the uncharitable elements, contributed to the general atmosphere of security and comfort. Half a dozen of Max's most neighborly patrons added to the homelike tone.

Max himself smacked his lips and sighed a large and comprehensive sigh of satisfaction as he arranged the trayful of delicacies which had just been brought down from his cozy flat and constituted his Sunday evening meal. He had let the bartender go for the day and was on duty himself; hence he could not join his family at supper. He carefully preened his long blonde mustache, hid the brilliance of the big diamond that glowed like a headlight on his spotless shirt front, and then when apparently about to tackle the repast, smacked his lips yet again and paused to remark:

"Lofe comes py the stummick. Yes, mine friends, lofe iss not py der head or py der heart, but py der stummick. I prove it 14 years ago, und mine vife upstairs, she would tell you der same.

"Fourteen years ago I was a bartender, und for six monts I keep company py a girl what was der sister of mine vife upstairs. I get Tursdays off, und I take supper mit mine girl und her mudder. Dis vun, mine vife, was a cook mit a private family, und so for six monts I refer see her on Tursdays. But ve hat goot suppers; mine girl, she cook 'em.

"But vun Tursday I find mine girl iss not home. Her sister, mine vife, is home, und she cooks der supper. Ach, Gott; what a supper! She hass all mine favorites—Hungarian goulash, home mate peach pie and French coffee mit cream. Ach, such a cook! Such a supper! Py and py I say:

"Where iss your sister?"
"She's gone mit a girl py a play, she says.

"I hope she staye there," I says.
"Well, mine friends, dot night I propose to my girl's sister, der cook. Lofe comes py der stummick. She says: 'O, vhat vill mine sister say?' You tell her I say for her to go py der devil," says I. In one week we was married, und dot is mine goot vife upstairs dere 14 years.

"Now, I always have goot food, und I am der boss. When I speak eferybody in der house shuts up. I say lofe comes py der stummick."

"Good for you, Max," chorused the listeners.
"But one t'ing I vill not do," continued the saloon keeper between bites. "I vill not vheel der baby carriage. I vill walk alongside, mine hants behind mine back, und smoke my cigar. I vill not hantle der milk pottle. What does mens know about such t'ings? Noddings. I am a practical mans like mine fader and mudder.

"Plenty vifes send der husbands outd on Sunday mit der babies und der milk pottles. Der babies cry und der mens stuff 'em mit milk. In der night they get sick. On Monday comes de doctor. All der veek it takes to get der babies well again. I vill not push der baby carriage."

And the audience, in tones of conviction chorused:
"You're all right, Max, ol' feller; we wouldn't, either."—Washington Post.

Wanderings of a Seagull.

On Oct. 28 last there was shot at Oushy, on Lake Leman, a seagull, aged about 16 months, which was found to be wearing on its claw a silver ring engraved with the words "Vogel Station, Rossiten 20." Rossiten is situated on the Lido of the Courland lagoon, between Konigsberg and Memel, in the Baltic, 1,500 kilometers from the Lake of Geneva. M. Florel, of Lausanne, communicated with Dr. J. Thienemann, director of the ornithological station at Rossiten. According to the latest notes the full No. 20 was hatched there and was marked with the ring when a few weeks old, before it could fly, on July 4, 1905. It seems probable that it had thus made two winter migrations before it fell a victim to the human barbarian.—New York Herald.

All in Cold Storage.
An Oregon attorney, representing a client whose title to a certain cold storage plant was under fire, closed an able argument before the Oregon supreme court recently with the following bit of pathos: "Your honor, there is more resting upon your decision than this cold storage plant; a human life is at stake. My client's life's efforts are in this cold storage; his life's blood is in this cold storage; his body and soul are wrapped up in this cold storage."—Law Notes.

FEARFUL BURNING SORES.
Boy in Misery 12 Years—Eczema in Rough Scales, Itching and Inflamed—Cured by Cuticura.

"Cuticura has put a stop to twelve years of misery I passed with my son. As an infant I noticed on his body a red spot and treated same with different remedies for about five years, but when the spot began to get larger I put him under the care of doctors. Under their treatment the disease spread to four different parts of his body. During the day it would get rough and form like scales. At night it would be cracked, inflamed and badly swollen, with terrible burning and itching. One doctor told me that my son's eczema was incurable, and gave it up. I decided to give Cuticura a trial. When I had used the first box of Cuticura Ointment there was a great improvement, and by the time I had used the second set of Cuticura Remedies my child was cured. He is now twelve years old, and his skin is as fine and smooth as silk. Michael Steinman, 7 Sumner Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., April 16, 1905."

Always in the Way.
Recently a country doctor in the north of Ireland, a bachelor, who was locally noted for his brusqueness and irascibility, was driving along a narrow lane, or "boreen," when his passage was effectually barred by an old woman, who was returning from the bog leading an ass whose panniers were filled with peats. The woman led the ass to the side of the lane as quickly as she could, but not quickly enough to please the short-tempered doctor. "Faugh!" he exclaimed, with a snort of disgust. "Women and asses are always in the way." "I'm glad ye have the manners to put yourself last," said the old woman, calmly. The doctor drove on without another word.
