

DUEL IN A BANK

MEMBER OF BLACK HAND SHOT DOWN AT NEW YORK.

OWNER OF HOUSE USES GUN

Opens Fire With Good Effect On Would-be Robber—Five Bullets in Body—Dying in Hospital as Outcome of His Daring.

Repulsing a daylight attempt of the Black Hand to rob his bank at the point of a gun, Pasquale Patti, who conducts a large banking and exchange business in the Italian quarter in Elizabeth street, New York, in a pistol duel, in which his son-in-law, Louis Cartier, joined, shot Francesco Pallatro, alias Giuseppe Sapiro, who is dying in the hospital with five bullet wounds in his body as a result of his attempt to hold up the bank. A second man, Michaelo Dogostino, whom the police believe is an accomplice of Pallatro, was arrested while running from the bank after the shooting.

For fourteen years, Patti told the police, he has constantly received Black Hand letters, and only a month ago the front of his bank was blown out and $4,000 scattered on the street, which was saved by prompt work on the part of the banker. The closing hour of the bank was near at hand Saturday and the streets in the neighborhood were teeming with people returning from a half holiday's toll when Pallatro entered the bank.

Patti was talking with his family when Pallatro, drawing his revolver, declared his intention of killing the banker. Quickly seizing the revolver on the shelf, Patti opened fire on Pallatro, while on the other side of the bank Louis Cartier, who conducted the branch postoffice station in the institution, drew his revolver and also began firing. Pallatro fell to the ground with five bullet wounds in his body, while Dogostino was caught running from the bank.

Pallatro told the coroner that he went to the bank to kill Patti, but fired no shots. The police have been unable to find Pallatro's revolver. Patti is held by the police pending further investigation of the affair.

HOUSE WILL INVESTIGATE

Charge Is Made That Congressmen Have Been Corrupted.

Submarine Boat Company Has Kept Expensive Lobby and Held Monopoly of Naval Contracts.

Washington, D. C.—Without discussion or division the house Friday adopted a resolution brought in by the committee on rules providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate the charges made by Mr. Lilley to the effect that the Electric Boat company of New Jersey had engaged in an effort to corruptly influence members of the house. The resolution is sweeping in its character and gives the committee authority to call for the Electric Boat company's check books and all papers in their possession which may have any bearing on the investigation.

Accompanying the report of the committee on rules is a copy of Mr. Lilley's statement to the committee in which he charges that the electric company has for years maintained a lobby at Washington under its annual retainer. He charges that large sums of money have been spent in entertaining members of congress, that an attorney for the company wrote the senate amendment to the appropriation bill of 1907 with the intention of preventing competition; that large sums of money have been contributed by the company to the campaign funds of members of congress; that effort has been made to influence the action of the navy department, and that since 1893 the efforts of the company have resulted in suppressing competition in submarine construction and that representatives of leading newspapers have been subsidized by the company.

CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE.

School Building in Cleveland, O., Suburb Proves a Fire Trap for the Little Ones.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Penned in narrow hallways, jammed up against doors that only opened inward between one hundred and sixty and one hundred and seventy children in the suburb of North Collinwood Wednesday were killed by fire, by smoke and beneath the grinding heels of their panic-stricken playmates.

The awful tragedy occurred Wednesday morning in the public school of North Collinwood, ten miles east of this city. At ten o'clock Wednesday night 165 corpses were in the morgue at Collinwood, six children were still unaccounted for and all the hospitals and homes for two miles around contained numbers of children, some fatally, and many less seriously injured.

All of the victims were between the ages of 6 and 15 years. The school contained between three hundred and ten and three hundred and twenty-five pupils, and of this entire number only about eighty are known to have left the building unhurt. It will be several days before the exact number of killed is known as the ruins may still contain other bodies, and the list of fatalities may be increased by a number of deaths among the children who are now lying in the hospitals hovering between life and death.
