Dr. L. L. Johnson is having an office built adjoining Dr. Boyle's dental office and residence on Dennison street.

A gentleman from Fillmore county was in town, Monday, with the view of purchasing or renting the Churchill House.

The B. & M. began Saturday running mail cars through to McCook, instead of only to Hastings as they have done in the past.

Mr. Morris, one of the B. & M.'s most trusty freight conductors, is having a residence built on the corner lot east of A. M. Kelly.

It may not be amiss for our people to keep their weather eye "peeled" these days, as men, like things, are not always what they seem to be.

Charlie Boyle has been working in the Land Office, this week. The land business has been such as to keep the officers and assistant busy.

"Which do you prefer, a horse or $50," is the stereotyped question propounded to Conductors Belknap, McCoy and Burns, these days.

While some individuals were scuffling on Main avenue, another large window pane was demolished, last week, this time in D. Kendall's billiard hall.

The carpenters are rushing the work on the houses of W. C. LaTourrette and Charles Noble. Both these houses will be ornaments in a town of handsome homes.

Call at Pike's New Lumber Yard.

McCook, the second division of the Republican Valley railroad west of Wymore, is the neatest looking town along the line. It has a beautiful location. * * * -Wymorian.

Bert. Potter was passing around a box of "Peck's Bad Boys," Tuesday morning, in honor of the arrival of an heir apparent at his home. The dimensions of that smile were immense—but excusable.

A slight fall of snow was visible on the bluffs, south of town, Monday morning, which had made its appearance during the night. It was a topic of remark, as none had fallen north of the river at this place.

We are informed that Tiff. Babcock has purchased Geo. A. Hunter's fine bunch of cattle, numbering about 40 head. This purchase includes the fine cow that Mr. Hunter had at the county fair, last fall.

Our streets and alleys present a wretched appearance. The space around the well seems to be the "favorite resort" of the hogs, until it has become a miserable mud hole. A little cleaning up would improve the appearance of our town vastly.

Thirty-five head of cattle belonging to Geo. Metcalf were drowned in the Beaver below Danbury, Nebraska, last Friday. A party was wintering them for him and during the storm the herd drifted into the stream, with the above result.—Oberlin Herald.

A pony belonging to W. M. Irwin, and attached to a buggy, took a little go-as-you-please up Dennison street, Friday, finally coming into contact with the City Bakery sign. The pony was uninjured, but the vehicle was rather the worse for its collision.

The people of the Lower Willow are anxious to know what is going to be done about a road leading into McCook. We understand I. J. Starbuck purposes doing some fencing that will cut off communication from that section, and as the canyons are not bridged, some action ought to be taken, and at once.

J. F. Forbes went duck hunting Monday afternoon, and succeeded in bagging a number of those aquatic fowls. J. F. is peculiarly adapted to hunting ducks, being possessed of the Nimrodic and water-dog qualities required to kill and to snatch the slain game from the bosom of the treacherous Republican.

In a short time the B. & M. will extend its postal car mail service to Denver, McCook being the western limit at present, to where postal clerks run. The regular postal cars that now only run to Hastings will be continued to Denver, and a car added to the night train from the east.—Gazette-Journal.

W. J. Willson, owner of the Circle Ranch, recently returned from a trip to England, where he disposed of his ranch at $50,000, and his cattle at $30 per head, and has three years in which to gather. Having a large number of cattle, this right reserved is a profitable one, especially where the range is great as in this case.

Main avenue was the scene of a most disgraceful "plain drunk," Friday afternoon. A resident of South McCook became most gloriously drunk, and proceeded to make himself obnoxious by his cursing and yelling. After tumbling around pretty much all over the street, pavements, boxes, etc., he was finally put into a wagon by force and conveyed home.

Complaint has been made to us about certain outbuildings and about parties slaughtering within the corporate limits. The proper way would be to speak to the parties themselves first, and if they fail of getting redress, enter complaint before the Board. There are some matters that need adjusting, and we are of opinion that speaking to the parties will be sufficient.

A horse race on the half-mile track below town attracted quite a crowd, Saturday. The first race was run by horses owned by D. D. Duckworth of the Beaver and W. M. Doyle of the Willow, in which the Beaver horse carried off the laurels. Then a horse owned by Starbuck Bros. was matched against the Beaver horse for a race of 300 yards, and the Beaver horse was defeated—leaving the boys about square.

Call at Pike's New Lumber Yard.

See elsewhere in this issue the notice of the village election, which will be held on the first Tuesday of April, the 1st. A board of trustees consisting of five members will be voted for.

We take pleasure in issuing THE TRIBUNE to our subscribers, this week, enlarged to a 6-column quarto. We have done so in the belief that our efforts to give the people of Red Willow county a good local paper will be appreciated.

McCook needs a lock-up of some kind. Of what particular effect are laws or ordinances in a town without a calaboose. To be sure you can arrest and fine; but there are many instances in which 48 hours in the cooler would be far more beneficial. An ordinance becomes worse than null and void when there is a lack of facilities for enforcement.

The Kansas trapper, Andrew McIntyre, alias "Old Mack," "Quick Eye," "Let him sleep," etc., ad infinitum, having threatened the life of Joe Braun, was arrested and put under bonds to keep the peace, Friday. On Sunday, his outfit which has been in Alcott & Dunbar's yard since this modern Nimrod put in an appearance, was hauled out of the corporate limits.

Three new residence buildings were commenced in West McCook, Tuesday, and lumber for another, which H. C. Rider will build for Thomas McInroy, hauled on the ground. Five new buildings have been erected in that part of town since January. The McCook part of this world certainly "do move." Everywhere within her limits new residences or new business houses are springing up, and general activity prevails.

The Driftwood district is going through that exhilarating process familiarly known in this energetic occidental country as booming. Wagon loads of household goods, lumber, etc., have been wending their course that way during the last few weeks in numbers which certainly indicate a considerable emigration into that section. We understand that a store is to be built somewhere on the Driftwood, and that a number of other buildings are expected to be erected during the summer.

If the ordinance referring to strays is intended to be enforced, a pound ought to be built, and a pound-master appointed, whose duty it will be to attend to such animals running at large in violation of said ordinance. We desire to earnestly impress upon the minds of the boys that THE TRIBUNE office has not been selected as the village pound. A number of young Americans who were successful in capturing strays last week, came to us for instructions which we were unable to give. We refer them to His Honor, the Mayor.

A gentleman named McGrue from Clay county, who has purchased a ranch about 8 miles up the Driftwood, was engaged in hauling his household effects, two car loads of which had been shipped to McCook, up to his ranch, Thursday and Friday. He had some seven or eight teams at work—forming quite a spirited scene. Mr. McGrue belongs to an order of men whom we take pleasure in welcoming to our county, having about 70 head of cattle now on his range and preparing to drive in another bunch at an early date, is in position to take advantage of what this country seems at present to be best adapted to—stock raising.

Dr. Kay of Cullom, Ill., made McCook and surrounding country a visit, last week, and was well pleased and surprised at both. The Doctor entered claims a few miles northwest of town, and is considering the advisability of moving here. He informs us that all the way from Holdrege to McCook people took the voluntary inconvenience upon themselves to disparage the country, this wise: McCook is all there is to that country. Nothing but sand hills, etc. While our town beyond a peradventure cuts a pretty large figure in this country, still the story about the sand hills is rather gauzy. He says that every possible objection is trumped up to try to keep parties from coming up to McCook. Our village certainly occupies an enviable position in the Republican Valley—feared by all and not particularly perturbed by any.

Call at Pike's New Lumber Yard.

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees held Wednesday evening, the following appointments for the April election were made by the Chairman: S. L. Green, D. Kendall and W. W. Fisher, Judges of Election; Charlie Boyle and Dr. Johnson, Clerks of Election. An ordinance relating to the planting of shade trees was passed and will appear in our next issue. The ordinance recently passed, which treats on animals running at large, it is proposed to add an amendment thereto, so as to provide for the appointment of a Poundmaster.

Mr. Menard, who has been in town for the past two weeks superintending the erection of his splendid building, especially the putting on the fire-proof Asbestos roofing with which it is covered, returned to Chicago, Wednesday afternoon. Should the weather continue propitious, the building is expected to be ready for occupancy about the first of May.

The topography of Red Willow county is just what you wish for farming and stock raising, one portion of it being level and the other undulating and rolling. We have up-land, low land and table land. That part that is too rough to till is just what the farmer needs to fence for pasture; thereby giving his stock the benefit of the shelter from all storms.

McCook is none of your slow coach, easy going, dead-and-alive old historic towns that have outlived their usefulness and are dying of "dry rot." It is a live, driving, progressive and modern town, full of first class men in every department, and eminently worth of its commanding position.

The Ladies Union will give an entertainment next Thursday evening, March 27th, at the Band Hall. There will be a short programme consisting of tableaux, literary and musical exercises, after which refreshments will be served. Admission and supper 25 cents.

The Republican County Central Committee meet Saturday, at 1 o'clock, P. M., at the Court House, for the purpose of calling a County Convention and apportioning the delegates thereto.

There will be services at the Catholic Church in Indianola on Sunday, March 30th, at 11 o'clock, A. M. Rev. J. A. Fanning, of Orleans, officiating.
