Of the Latest Explorations in the Far Northern Regions. For the purpose of obtaining some idea of the general nature and probable scientific value of the explorations made by Lieutenant Greely, an associated press agent visited him a few days ago. Greely stated that the object of the Lady Franklin expedition was to establish a polar station, one of thirteen suggested by Lieutenant Wayprecht, of Austria, who discovered Franz Joseph land. Simultaneously observations of all the physical phenomena were to be taken. The complete programme that was to be followed was arranged by an international polar congress, in which representatives of thirteen nations took part. The observations, in making which the greatest possible occuracy was to be had, were those of declination and deviation of the magnetic needle, temperature of air, sea height of barometer, and mead and maximum rise and fall of tides. The explorations were to be merely incidental to other objects. The expedition was fitted out under the authority of the United States congress. It was composed of three officers of the army, one acting surgeon and nineteen enlisted men from the army. Stores for tw nty-seven months were put on the "Proteus," which left St. Johns, July 7, 1881, with the party. She touched at Disco Island and Uppernavik to procure sledges, dogs, skins and dog food. Two Esquimauxs were added to the party at Proven. Landing was made at Corey Island in north water, and the provisions cached by Nores in 1875, in the "Alert" were found to be in good condition. At Littleton Island Greely personally recovered the English Arctic mail left by Sir Allen Wing in the "Pandora" in 1876. At Carl Ritter Bay, in Kennedy channel, a cache of provisions for use on the refrest was made. provisions for use on the retreat was made. It was the original intention to establish a polar station at Water Course bay, but heavy masses of ice rendered Water Course bay exceedingly dangerous anchorage.

Moving to Discover Harbor, the station was there established on the site occupied by the English expedition of 1875. The erection of a house was at once commenced and stores and equipments landed. On the 28th of August came the parting between the Gree y party and the men of the "Proteus." The little band of adherents on the frozen shore watched the "Proteus" as she steamed slowly down Lady Franklin bay. On the evening of the same day the temperature sank below freezing point and the icy Arctic winter was on them in earnest. Their house was faished about a week after the house was finished about a week after the "Proteus" left. It was named, in honor of Senator Conger, Fort Conger. During the first month the cold affected the men more than at any subsequent time at Fort Conger. Later on the temperature sank from 50 to 65 degrees below zero, and so remained for days at a time. But even in that weather the cook's favorite amusement was dancing bare-headed, bare-armed, with slippered feet, on top of a snowdrift. During the day the men dressed in ordinary outside clothing, but their flannels were very heavy. Five men were generally for part of the day engaged in scientific work, under Greely's direction, and in the duties of the camp. The remainder were employed generally about one hour a day, and devoted the rest of the time to amuse. ment. All slept on bunks. The quarters were heated by a large coal stove, the average heat maintained being 50 degrees above zero. Checkers, cards, chess and reading were the amusements of the evening. The life, Greely said, was far from lonely, and many of the men said they had never passed

On the 15th of October the sun left them half an hour to twenty-four hours, succeeding for two months was so dim that the dial of a watch could not be read by it. On April 11th the sun came above the horizon and remained there 135 days, giving the party a great sufficiency of midnight sun. During three months stars were visible constantly. The constellations of Orion's Belt and the Great Bear were the brightest. The north star looked down from almost over head. Standing alone outside the fort on the snow drift these night scenes were wierdly grand. To the north flamed the aurora borealis and bright constellations were set like jewels around the glowing moon. Over everything was a dead silence, so horribly oppressive that man alone is almost tempted to kill himself. The astronomer of the party said that with the party mer of the party said that with the naked eye a star of one degree smaller magnitude than can be seen here in the same way might be discovered. The moon would remain in sight from seven to twelve days at a time. The thermometer regis-tered on June 30th the highest temperature at Lady Franklin bay which we knew during our stay. It was 52 degrees above zero. The lowest was in February, 1883, 66 degrees below. In this February our mercury froze and remained solid for fifteen days. The mercury in the thermometer in-variably rose during storms or high winds. The highest barometer was slightly above 31 inches; the lowest slightly below 29 inches. The greatest variations were in the winter. The electrometer, an instrument used to ascertsin the pressure of electricity, was up, but not the slightest results were obtained. The displays of aurora were very good, but not compared with those seen at Uppernavik or Disco Island. The lieutenant then detailed the further trip of the party, and their subsequent suffering up to the time of the rescue.

two happier years than those spent at Fort

In conclusion he said he considered it impossible to reach the north pole by the route of the "Jeannette," and considered the only feasible route to be by way of Franz Joseph land.

DISPUTED ACCOUNTS

For the Settlement of Which Proper Steps are Now Being Taken.

The Omaha Herald says that Mr. John S. Blair, assistant attorney of the department of justice, and Judge Wilson, of the firm of Shellabarger & Wilson, of Washington, have been taking the depositions of various Union Pacific officials, in the action brought by the company against the United States, for a settlement of disputed accounts. This action has a two-fold object, first, to find to what amount the government is indebted to the railway for the transportation of supplies, mails, etc.; and, second, to find what is due the government from the railway under the Thurman sinking fund act of 1878. The facts are about as follows: The Union Pacific has been doing transportation work for the United States ever since 1871, under the supposi-tion that when presented its bills would be uon that when presented its bills would be audited according to the charter, "at a fair and reasonable compensation," which was "not to be more than paid to private parties for like service." The road was also to pay into the treasury 5 per cent. of its net earnings as a sinking fund to provide for the payment of the debt due the government. ment of the debt due the government. In 1878 the Thurman act increased the payment to be made by the road to 25 per cent. of its net earnings. When the company presented net earnings. When the company presented its accounts, the bills for transportation were thrown out by the United States officials, who alleged that they were not based on a fair and reasonable compensation, and the claim of the company that the cost of certain items of permanent improvement should be de ducted from the earnings of the road before the 25 per cent. was taken out, was disputed. To settle the matter the present suit was commenced, but when or how it will be determined is another matter. The case will come before the court of claims at Washington in Seven Miners Suffocated by Gas.

Shamokin (Pa.) dispatch: Fire broke out in Buckridge mine slope, 1,500 feet from the surface. The company bought the Greenback colliery adjoining, the workings of which are higher than those of the Buckridge colliery. The intention was to bore through from the Greenback to the Buckridge colliery, and then turn the creek into both, and by flooding put out the fire. While the men were engaged in this work the gas suddenly poured in from the Buckridge mine, and, before they could escape, seven men fell victims to deathly gas. It was impossible to reach the bodies, as both mines are full of gas and the fire is increasing.

Even the nuies were burned.

The fire had not shated at last accounts, although two heavy pumps had been foreing water down the slope all day. Both the Buckridge and Greenback colleries are full of gas, and a number of men on the surface were overcome by the escaping gas.

WOMAN'S WORK.

More Particularly that Part of It Relating to the Centennial.

In response to a call from ex-Gov. Furnas, commissioner for Nebraska, to the World's Industrial and New Orleans Cotton Centennial, pertaining to the women's work of the state. A number of ladies met at the Commercial hotel, Lincoln, on the 18th:

The objects of the meeting were briefly stated by ex Gov. Furnas, after which a temporary organization was had, by the election of Mrs. J. F. Holmes, of Tecumseh, to the chair, and Mrs. W. S. Sawyer, of Lincoln, secretary.

Mrs. Wilson from the committee on organ zation and permanent offices reported

WHEREAS. An invitation has been extended to the women of Nebraska to exhibit at the World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition to be held at New Orleans, the results of their industry and skill; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the women of Nebraska, in mass convention assembled heartily endorse the spirit of such invitation and believe that the best interest of the women of our state will be subserved by the exhibit of such products of work of artistic, industrial and linterary skill as we may be able to send, and we may pledge our best endeavors to make the undertaking success.

The name of this organization shall be The State Association for the Exhibition of Woman's Work at the World's Indus-trial and Cotton Centennial Exposition." The officers of the society shall consist of president, vice-president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and treas-

We report the names of the following for officers of the state organization: For president, Mrs. D. Matthewson of Lincoln; vice president, Mrs. Dr. Dinsmore of Omaha; for corresponding secretary, Mrs. L. Russell of Tecumseh; for recording secretary, Mrs. W. S. Sawyer of Lincoln; for treasurer, Mrs. Gov. Dawes of Crete.

The report of the committee was adopted. It was further agreed that each county in the state be requested to organize in any manner best suiting their convenience. The following names were presented and appointed as vice-presidents: Lancaster county, Mrs. J. J. Imhoff; Nemaha, Mrs. Robt. Teare; Johnson, Mrs. Theo. Smith; Gage, Miss Della La Salle; Pawnee, Mrs. Raper, Sr; Hall. Mrs. Geo. H. Thummel; Cass, Mrs. Thos. Pollock; Douglas, Mrs. Samuel Burns; Seward, Mrs. S. C. Lang-

BISMARCK'S PLANS.

A Growing Coolness Between Germany and England Apparent.

The growing coolness between Germany and England is attracting much attention, and is beginning to be looked upon as serious. The general opinion is that Bismarck is sorely irritated at Gladstone's contemptuous and semi-hostile attitude toward the schemes of German colonization, in western Africa, in which it is notorious that Bismarck is greatly interested. It is ped, however, that Bismarck will refrain from making any such open manifestation of his dislike to the present government as it would result in alienating that large and powerful body of Englishmen who sincerely desire to maintain cordial relations with Germany. Much depends upon the coming parliamentary election. It is certain that if the tories come into possession of the government, England will speed-ily become a member of the Austro-German alliance. In the meantime there is great curiosity concerning the import to England of the conference at Varzin between Prince Bismarck and Count Kalnoky, the Austro-Hungarian premier. It is freely asserted that the German chancellor is disgusted with the failure of the Egyptian conference and Gladstonian policy generally. He is planning a joint note from Austria and Germany to England demanding the prompt settlement of the Alexandria indemnity claims and the enforcement of proper sanitary regulation in the E cyptian allies.

Prohibition State Convention.

The prohibition electors of the state of Ne braska and all persons who are willing to pledge themselves to vote for John P. St. John for president, are requested to meet at Red Ribbon hall, in the city of Lincoln, Thursday, September 11, 1884, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination five candidates for presidential electors; also candidates for such state offices as may be required; for the selection of a state central committee, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

The basis of representation shall be one delegate for each one thousand inhabitants, to be elected by mass conventions called in the several counties of the state, under the same conditions as provided herein. Where no call is issued for such county, conventions by least issued for such county conventions by local committees, the electors in sympathy with this call will convene at their respective county seats on Saturday, September 6th, for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention

Prohibitionists throughout the state will immediately form St. John clubs for aggres-sive work and send the names of their officers to one of the undersigned.

A constable sold under execution a lot of wheat in the stack belonging to David Avery, a farmer, living four miles southeast of Vienna, Ill. Just as the constable was leaving, Avery went into the field armed with a double barreled shotgun, set fire to the stacks and remained until they completely burned. He then started towards town, and on the way met John Pickens and Daniel Gage, farmers, and both neighbors to him. He spoke friendly to them, but he had no sooner passed them than he turned and fired, killing Gage. He then proceeded to the farm of John Dunn, about a mile distant, and set fire to his steaks of wheat. Armed parties are now in search of the despe-

The Crops Abroad.

The Mark La ne Expressn reviewing the grain trade of the past week, says: The weather is unaltered. A large proportion of grain has been harvested with the best results. Wheat returns show 54 per cent of a yield, which is over the average; thirty per yield, which is over the average; thirty per cent is the average. Other crops are slightly under average. The wheat trade is nominal. New English wheat declined two shillings during the week. The price of wheat ranges 10 and flour 5s lower than in 1883. New grain is flinty owing to excessive heat. Sales of English wheat for the past week were 27,528 quarters at 38s 2d per quarter, against 41,799 quarters at 43s 10d per quarter for the corresponding period last year. Foreign wheat at London is demoralized both for the present and prospective trades. prospective trades.

There Shall Be No Alps.

When Napoleon talked of invading Italy one of his officers said: "But, sire, remember the Alps." To an ordinary man these would have seemed simply insurmountable, but Napoleon responded eagerly: "There shall be no Alps." So the famous Simplon pass was made. Disease, like a mountain, stands in the way of fame, fortune and honor to many who by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" might be healed and so the mountain would disappear. Auditor Brown, of Iowa, has just given this Company a thorough investigation (and is now doing the same to all Iowa Insurance Companies) and publishes the following in his official statement: "The Company has an actual paid up Capital of $200,000, is financially sound, and reliable, one of the strongest Companies in the State, from this house. and is justly entitled to the confidence of the public. This Company has a surplus as regards policy holders of $200,812.18." This is after ruling out over-due farmers' notes, judgments and interest, office furniture and supplies, $257,000. These assets are good for at least 75 cents on the dollar which would give the Company a surplus of about $400,000. You can rest assured that the Company is solid, and these unfavorable stories told and published by get away the business from this popular western company.
