Ten Men Roasted to Death in a Circus Car on a Colorado Ratiroad,

Denver telegram: Last night a train belonging to the Anglo-American circus, Miles Orton proprietor, left Fort Collins for Golden via the Greeley, Salt Lake and Pacific road. Forty minutes later, when near Greely, a sleeping car, in which seventy-five men employed as roustabouts of the circus were asleep, caught fire and was wholly consumed. Ten men perished and two were seriously and five slightly burned. The fire was communicated from an open torch with which the car was lighted to a quantity of gasoline which was being carried in the same car, causing an explosion. The accident was attended with indescribable horrors. The burned car was next to the engine in a train of seventeen cars, containing Orton's Anglo-American circus, which left Fort Collins about midnight for Golden over the Greeley, Salt Lake and Pacific road. The train was nearing Windsor, a small station near Greeley, runn ng about twenty-five miles an hour, when Engineer Colleprie t discovered that the car was on fire. He reversed the engine and threw open the whistle valve. There were sixty men on the car arranged in three tiers of bunks on either side. The forward door was closed and the men were in bunks sleeping against it. either side. The forward door was closed and the men were in bunks sleeping against it. The rear side door was closed, and the men who awoke discovered the lower unoccueld berth next to it on fire, filling the car with smoke and cutting off escape in that direction. The only means of egress was through a small window between the car and the engine. John Pine, of Edgerton, Wis., and Elmer Millett, of Iowa, crawled through the opening and tried to pass in water from the opening and tried to pass in water from the engine tank, but owing to suffocating gases it was difficult to arouse the sleepers. Some were kicked and bruised in a shocking manner and pitched out of the window. The screams of those unable to get through the blockade were terrifying. The wild glare of the flames and light of the burning victims the flames and light of the burning victims outside, who were writhing in agony on cactus beds, caused the wild beasts in the adjoining car to become frantic with terror, making the scene appalling. The performers, who occupied the rear cars gazed with whi e faces upon the awful spectacle. In the midst of the confusion two or three heroic souls appeared equal to the occasion, and bravely cut their way to their companions to find them already in the agony of death.

□Albert Lake, in charge of the animals, and his friend Keat walked over the cactus in their bare feet, pouring oil on the blistered unfortunates and wrapping them in blankets. An old Pacific coast sailor named McDonald, formerly of Forepaugh's show, was terribly burned, his flesh hanging in shreds.

The heart-rending cries of the men on the prairie smothered the appeals of the dying within the car. The roar of the flames and the howling of the animals made the scene terrible beyond description. The odor of roasting flesh and the distant cry of coyotes added to the general horror of the scene. The voices of the dying grew fainter and soon voices of the dying grew lainter and soon ceased.

Meantime the engine had gone to Greely for assistance, returning with Dr. Jesse Harris, president of the state medical association. Many of the rescued, in being pulled through the small window, had limbs broken and joints dislocated. Hands and feet were found burned off. Roasted trunks of bod es were found in one place, legs in another and piles of roasted shriveled carcasses were pulled out of the ruins.

At daylight a flat car carried the charred bodies into Greeley for interment. Rev. Mr. Reed, of the Pres-byterian church, conducted the funeral services. The coroner empanelled a jury, who were unable to learn the cause of the fire or any important facts, as the managers, with the remainder of the company, left immediate-ly for Golden to fill the afternoon engage-The names of the dead as far as known are

The St. Louis, Mo., Post-Dispatch says that Mrs. Phoebe Rice, 1208 Madison street, a sister of Hon. H. Clay Sexton, chief of St. Louis fire department, had been a sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism for seven years; the muscles of her hands and limbs were contracted and she used crutches. By a single application of St. Jacobs Oil she was benefited instantaneously, and finally completely cured.

DISASTER AT SEA.

The United States Steamer Tallapoosa Sunk The United States steamship Tallapoosa sunk off Cottage City, Mass., last Friday. The survivors were landed at Wood's Holl. She collided with a three-masted schooner. She lies with her mainmast and the top of her smokestack out of the water. The Tallapoosa, with one hundred and forty men and officers, was bound for Newport to take on board Secretary Chandler. At 11 o'clock at night, during a thick fog, three miles north-east of Oak Bluffs, near Martha's Vine-yard, she was struck on the bow by the schooner James S. Lowell, of Bath, yard, she was struck on the bow by the schooner James S. Lowell, of Bath, Captain Reed, from Baltimore to Portland, with a cargo of coal. Her side was crushed in and she sank in ten minutes in ten fathoms of water. As she went down her whistle was blown as a signal of distress, and heard by the steamer Gate City, which came up immediately, and, with the schr. Mary A. Hood, which was in the vicinity, rescued the crew, with the exception of the surgeon and one man, who are said to be missing. The Gate City blew her whistle and the steamer Fish Hawk, lying at the wharf at Wood's Holl, sent out a steam launch. The Gate City lay until 3 o'clock transferring the crew to her launch. They were all landed at Wood's Holl. The Tallapoosa lies on what is known as Squash meadow flat, and her smoke stack and topmast alone are visible. The schooner Jas. S. Lowell has on board several of the Tallapoosa's crew. Captain Reed, of the schooner Jas. S. Lowell, stated that he was passing through the sound in a very strong soutleast wind, all sails set, and going nine knots an hour. The night was clear but dark. When two miles away the lookout reported a light ahead. Shortly it was seen to be a red light and I said, speaking to the wheelman: "Red light; keep her steady." I stood near the wheel all the time and the course was not altered until word came that the green light could be seen. To avoid a collision, seeing the steamer doing nothing to avoid us, I ordered the helm down, but before it could be done and before the vessel altered her course at all, the two vessels struck their sterns, seeming to come together exactly. Our vessel's stern glanced by the struck their sterns, seeming to come together exactly. Our vessel's stern glanced by the Tallapoosa and penetrated her hull. After the vessels stopped the steamer swung around along side the Lowell and her crew might have jumped on board, but it was not then known what was the condition of either vessel. After what was the condition of either vessel. After getting my family into the boat, I examined my vessel and discovered she was leaking quite badly, though not in immediate danger of sinking. The Ta apoosa drifted away from us and sank in ten minutes.

A TOUCHING INCIDENT.

Young Girl's Dementin-How it Was asioned-Some New and Startling Truths.

The St. Louis express, on the New York Central road, was crowded one evening recently, when at one of the way stations, an elderly gentleman, accompanied by a young lady, entered the cars and finally secured a seat. As the conductor approached the pair, the young lady arose, and in a pleading voice said:

"Please, sir, don't let them carry me to the asylum. I am not crazy; I am a little tired, but not mad. Oh! no indeed. Won't you please have papa take me back home?"

The conductor, accustomed though he was to all phases of humanity, looked with astonishment at the pair, as did the other passengers in their vicinity. A few words from the father, however, sufficed, and the conductor passed on while the young lady turned her face to the window. The writer chanced to be seated just behind the old gentleman and could not forego the desire to speak to him. With a sad face and a trembling voice the father said:

"My daughter has been attending the seminary in a distant town and was succeeding remarkably. Her natural qualities, together with a great ambition, placed her in the front ranks of the school, but she studied too closely, was not careful of her health, and her poor brain has been turned. I am taking her to a private asylum where we hope she will soon be better."

At the next station the old man and his daughter left the cars, but the incident, so suggestive of Shakespeare's Ophelia, awakened strange thoughts in the mind of the writer. It is an absolute fact that while the population of America increased thirty per cent dur-ing the decade between 1870 and 1880, the insanity increase was over one hundred and thirty-five per cent for the same period. Travelers by rail, by boat, or in carriages in any part of the land see large and elaborate buildings, and inquire what they are?

Insane asylums! Who builds them?

Each state; every county; hundreds of private individuals, and in all cases their capacity is taxed to the utmost. Why?

Because men, in business and the professions, women, at home or in society, and children at school overtax their mental and nervous forces by work, worry and care. This brings about nervous disorders, indigestion and eventually mania.

It is not always trouble with the head that causes insanity. It far oftener arises from evils in other parts of the body. The nervous system determines the status of the brain. Any one who has periodic headaches; occasional dizziness; a dimness of vision; a ringing in the ears; a feverish head; frequent nausea or a sinking at the pit of the stomach, should take warning at once. The stomach and head are in direct sympathy, and if one be impaired the other can never be in order. Acute dyspepsia causes more insane suicides than any other agency, and the man, woman or child whose stomach is deranged is not and cannot be safe from the coming on at any moment of mania in some one of its many terrible forms.

The value of moderation and the imperative necessity of care in keeping the stomach right must therefore be clear to all. The least appearance of indigestion, or mal-assimilation of food should be watched as carefully as the first approach of an invading army. Many means have been advocated for meeting such attacks, but all have heretofore been more or less defective. There can be little doubt, however, that for the purpose of regulating the stomach, toning it up to proper action, keeping its nerves in a normal condition and purifying the blood, Warner's Tippecanoe The Best excels all ancient or recent discoveries. It is absolutely pure and vegetable; it is certain to add vigor to adults, while it cannot by any possibil-ity injure even a child. The fact that it was used in the days of the famous Harrison family is proof positive of its merit as it has so thoroughly withstood the test of time. As a tonic and revivifier it is something simply wonderful. It has relieved the agony of the stomach in thousands of cases; soothed the tired nerves; produced peaceful sleep and averted the coming on of a mania more to be dreaded than death itself.

The Iowa Riot.

An immense mass meeting of citizens was held at Iowa City, at which the riotous proceedings of last week were condemned and an organization effected to assist in preserving order and enforcing the laws. There has not been the least disturbance in the city since the outbreak of last week, and the reports about the city being in the hands of the mob have been grossly exaggerated. There will be no more outbreak there, and the cases against the alleged ringleaders of the mob will be pushed to the end.

A Blacksmith Saves the Life of a Little Girl. Minnie Carns, Lytle City, Iowa, was perhaps as near leaving this world as any person ever is to recover. She was sick with cholera morbus; completely exhausted and unconscious. The physicians in consultation having decided the case was hopeless and beyond their control, Charles J. Newcombe, a blacksmith, walked four miles through the darkness and storm, to get a remedy he had used himself and which he firmly believed would cure her. That medicine was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. He obtained part of a bottle with which he hastily returned and gave the little sufferer a half teaspoonful which revived her. Consciousness gradually returned.

"Isn't that Mrs. Holmes? I thought the doctors gave her up. She looks well now."

"She is well. After the doctors gave up her case she tried Dr. Pierce's 'Favorite Prescription' and began to get better right away. I heard her say not long ago, that she hadn't felt so well in twenty years. She does her own work and says that life seems worth living, at last. 'Why,' said she, 'I feel as if I had been raised from the dead, almost." Thus do thousands attest the marvelous efficacy of this God-given remedy for female weakness, prolapsus, ulceration, leucorrhœa, morning sickness, weak-ness of stomach, tendency to cancerous disease, nervous prostration, general debility and kindred affections.

to long and favorably known all over the West. See especially their new Rotary Drop Planter.

We have made some yery important changes in the Rockford Planter for the spring trade of 1884. We have thrown aside the gears by which the Planter has been operated, and have adopted in their place sprocker wheels and an endless chain. The advantage of this change is manifest, when wanting to change the quantity of corn dropped. Hitherto it has been necessary to remove the gear; now, by loosening two set screws and moving the cone sprocket wheels to the right or left on the axic, any desired quantity can be planted. Another great advantage of the chain over the gear is its durability. A foot-scraper has been put on the machine this year instead of the automatic scraper heretofore used.

The marker is now attached to the planter in such a way that in drilling it can be thrown from one side to the other ct the ends of the field, without the operator leaving his seat.

Sheet-iron sides are used in the seed boxes to adjust the feed of the corn into the picker-wheel apartment. As a Drill and Check Row Planter we defy the world to produce any other that, in every respect, will give as perfect a result as the Rockford Planter, as it will be put upon the market the coming season. It bicks up one kernel at a time, putting from 2 to 6 (as the operator may desire) upon the check valve, while the Planter travels 3 feet and 8 inches. We make a Planter 3 ft. 6, if desired. This valve is so close to the planters may be noticed—the Check Rower has nothing to do but open the check valve, while, in all other planters, the check rower operates the drop in the seed box, as well as opens the valves, this drop ofter tatching a kernel of corn in such a way that a hard strain of the wire is necessary to cut the kernel in two.
