

Tim's Thanksgiving Dinner.
Bloomington Through Mail.
Little Tim did such odd jobs as he could secure to aid his mother in making a living for a humble twain. Their home was in a tenement in the great city of Chicago, and to reach it it was necessary to go up a flight of stairs in an alley and then along a long balcony until you reached another stair, and so on until you were five stories from the ground. When you got there you saw no soft, warm carpets, nor did you observe any pictures or even a fire. The floor of that dark black room was cold and bare and the walls and ceiling were more bare than the floor, but aside from a few cheap cooking stoves hanging on the walls they were as bare as a pious man's pate.

The day before Thanksgiving Tim had sold some papers, blacked some boots, shoveled some snow off some walks, and when he went home at evening he had a dollar and thirty cents, and his mother had earned two dollars that day, so they put their money together and Tim's mother said God had been good to them that day, and they could pay their weekly rent and buy ten whole bushels of coal and actually have a fire Thanksgiving evening. Tim had ideas of his own, however. He had contracts to shovel the snow off the walks at half a dozen places the next morning, and knew he would have a dollar and a half by noon, so he said to his mother before they retired:

"Mam, don't you eat no dinner before I come home, for you're going to be invited out to-morrow."
"Tim, I'm afraid you are joking," his mother replied.
"No I ain't, mam. Just as sure as I live you're going to be invited out to-morrow." Then they slept until morning, when Tim arose and went forth into the crisp cold air to do his work. He sold enough papers to yield him half a dollar and "shined" five different men's boots, and by the time he had begun shoveling snow he had already earned a dollar. At eleven o'clock he had made two dollars, and at once set out for home. On the way he stopped where there was a great crowd, and while he was looking on one of the roughs, who were fighting, fired a shot from a small pistol. The bullet lodged in Tim's breast, but he never said a word, only turned away and hurried to his mother.

"Tim, Tim, what makes you so pale?" she asked, as he ran into the room.
"Oh, you just think so, mam," he replied. "The snow is so white it makes everybody look pale. There, mam, is a dollar I made this morning."
"Oh, Tim! you have had a splendid day, haven't you?"
"Pretty good, mam, but I've made another dollar, and I'm goin' to invite you out to dinner."
"Well, I will go with you, Tim, but where will we go?"
"I've got it," he said, "I've got it out of one of the bang-up rest-abouts, mam—down to the Boston, and we'll go down there and eat a dozen apiece of them whalin' great big Blue Point oysters, with celery and pickles, and Saratoga chips, and everything just as nice as you ever saw."

As they went out Tim's mother saw some drops of blood on the snowy balcony, and spoke of it, but Tim only laughed, and said he guessed it was the blood of the Thanksgiving turkey they did not have.
The steaming oysters, nicely browned, with all their accompaniments, were set before Tim and his mother, and they eagerly devoured them, but Tim surreptitiously slipped nearly half of his into his mother's plate, one at a time, while she was admiring the luxurious surroundings between bites.
"Ain't they good?" asked Tim.
"Oh, Tim! I'll never forget this dinner as long as I live."
"Well, I'm glad of it, mam, for we'll never eat together no more."
"Why, Tim, what do you mean? You are pale."
"Waiter, here's your money," called Tim, gasping. "Mam, I mean—I mean I'm shot. That was my blood on the landing, mam, but I wanted you to have a good Thanksgiving dinner 'fore you knew it, 'cause I knowed—you wouldn't eat if I tole you sooner. I was pale, mam, and I'm pale now, and my ole boots is 'most full of blood."
The little fellow had been braver than any man on a battle field, and had kept his word, for he was alive when noon came, and he invited his mother out to dinner as he said he would. They called a surgeon, but it was too late. Tim was dead when he arrived, and gave thanks that night in paradise.

A PITIFUL FATE!
How a Minister's Good Deed Landed Him in an Insane Asylum—The Story of His Escape.
To the Editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel:
SIR:—I have read a good many stories of late concerning the confinement of sane persons in lunatic asylums, and I am hereby prompted to relate a bit of personal experience.
In the year 1855, while I was serving the Methodist Episcopal church in a New England town, a neighbor's house took fire. In common with others, I stood on the edge of the roof, passing buckets of water, exposed to intense heat on one side and freezing winds on the other. I took a fearful cold. For twenty-five years it worked havoc in my physical and mental systems. Nevertheless, I continued in my ministerial duties. I preached many a sermon when suffering intense agony. At certain periods, however, I would be comparatively well, and then again, my head would get heavy, my breathing labored, my appetite feeble. I would lose interest in life; feel sleepy at midday, and wakeful at midnight. My heart occasionally gave me great concern. Not knowing to the contrary, I attributed this ill feeling to malaria. But eventually mental strength faded away, and I was utterly prostrated. I was cauterized, cupped, blistered, and treated by many physicians in many different ways.
My case was a puzzle as much to my physicians as to myself. For one of them at first prescribed for delirium tremens, and yet I never had tasted intoxicating liquors. Another said I had brain disease, another spinal difficulty, another nervous prostration, heart disease, etc.
My mind eventually gave away, and in 1882 I was confined in the Brattleboro, Vt., Insane Asylum for six months. When I knew where I was, I demanded instant release. I then made a visit to Oceanic, N. J., but I had reckoned too much on my strength. I again lost my reason for a considerable period.
That I was in a desperate condition is evident. My blood had become infected with virus, which inflamed my brain occasionally and doomed me to an early death; for no physician gave me any hope of cure. I finally found out what my real disorder was, and undertook my own treatment. In a few months I was restored to such a state of health as I never expected to enjoy. That was over three years ago, and my physical and mental health have remained intact to this day.
Last March I came west, and engaged in garden farming. In all that time I have not lost a day's work; have apparently enjoyed the most vigorous health and I expect to live the full term of life. The remedy I used was warner's safe cure, and if I should live a thousand years I should never tire of telling its praises.
You will confess with me, Mr. Editor, that such a change is remarkable. And you will, also, I am sure, agree with me, when I say that whatever created such a mental and physical restoration is deserving the highest praise.
Very truly yours,
REV. E. D. HOPKINS.
Dodge's Corners, Wis.
There are undoubtedly thousands of others who have an experience similar to the above, to whom Mr. Hopkins's recital will appeal with persuasive force.

The Trouble Safely Over.
Stomach trouble is serious business while it lasts; but what a blessed relief to have it depart! Mrs. F. G. Wells, of 19 Atlantic street, Hartford, Conn., writes that she tried Brown's Iron Bitters for stomach trouble, and that she experienced such relief that the trouble is now entirely over. She recommends this great iron medicine to all who are afflicted. It cures liver and kidney complaint.

THE HUMOROUS SIDE.
The world is a looking glass, and gives back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it and it will in turn look surlily upon you. Laugh at it and it will with it and you will find it to be a jolly, good-natured, most agreeable companion.
"Mamma," said little Mabel, "ought the governess to whip me when I didn't be and gone and done nothing?"
"No, of course not, my child," replied the mother. "Well, then, she gave me an awful flogging this morning because I didn't do those awful hateful sums."
A Bloomington scientist says this is going to be a very hard winter. He says that the corn husks are thicker (or thinner) than usual, and that the moss on the north side of forest trees is heavy and warm. We were not satisfied with his prophecy until we found that the voice of our cat was husky, but now it is plain to be seen just what is going to all the weather.—Bloomington Through Mail.
"Turkey red, trimmed with Irish embroidery, is the thing for children," says a fashion journal. If the children had anything to say about it their preference undoubtedly would be for turkey boiled trimmed with Irish potatoes.—The Judge.
When Greek Meets Greek.
A Buffalo man while in New York recently descended from the elevated road station at Chatham Square. As he did so he gazed around for a minute to get his bearings. A bright, spruce young man of pleasing appearance stepped up to him and said: "Why, how are you? It's a long time since I've seen you." The Buffalonian, who is a lawyer, sized the young man up and acknowledged, with about a ton of ice in his manner, that it was a long time. "You don't seem to recognize me," said the sharper. "No, I don't," was the reply. "I am with Benedict Brothers, you know." "Oh, what is their business?" "Dealers in cutlery." "H'm, yes; well why don't you attend to their business?" The sharper thought he would, and he did.

said David of old. He was probably prompted to make the above remark after trying some unreliable catarrh remedy. Had he been permitted to live until the present day, and tried Dr. Sage's Remedy, he might have had a better opinion of mankind. We claim that no case of catarrh can withstand the magic effects of this wonderful medicine. One trial of it will convince you of its efficacy. By druggists; fifty cents.

PRICKLY ACH BITTERS is an unfailing specific for all complaints arising from a derangement of the functions of the Liver. It purifies the blood and infuses new life into the invalid. Pains in the side, general uneasiness, loss of appetite, headache, bilious attacks, etc., etc., are sure indications that a corrective is needed. PRICKLY ACH BITTERS is especially adapted for the following complaints: It arouses a torpid liver to action and restores it to a healthy condition.

PRICKLY ACH BITTERS
The majority of the ills of the human body arise from a derangement of the Liver, affecting both the stomach and bowels. In order to effect a cure, it is necessary to remove the cause. Irregular and sluggish action of the Bowels, Headache, Bloating of the Stomach, Pains in the Back and Loins, etc., indicate the Liver to be faulty, and that nature's great excretory system is unable to expel its impurities.
Prickly Ach Bitters are especially compounded for this purpose. They are mild in their action and operate as a cure; are pleasant to the taste and taken easily by both children and adults. When according to directions, they are a safe and pleasant cure for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Constipation, Disordered Kidneys, etc., etc. As a Blood Purifier they are superior to any other medicine; cleaning the system thoroughly, and imparting new life and energy to the invalid. It is a medicine not met in intoxicating beverages.
