WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21, '85.

One of the new members of Congress who seems abundantly able to take care of himself and Congress at the same time, is Mr. O'Neill, of Missouri, whose speeches upon the Indian question and the River and Harbor bills are most refreshing in these days of jobs and job-bery. Seldom in the annals of the House has a young man all at once plunged into such popularity among the House members of both parties, who never fail to be all attention when this gentleman from Missouri gets the floor.
The secret of Mr. O'Neill's present success, and which promises him a most brilliant future, is the sincerity of his style, his ready and altogether original wit which never fails to be pointed without being offensive. The measures with which Mr. O'Neill has been chiefly identified are those which have been directly for the interests of the great public and especially that part of it represented by the industrial classes.

The cranks throughout the country are already after Mr. Cleveland. There is not much fear of such fellows as Dr.
Ray, who has had a "mission" from Heaven or somewhere else to "remove" the new President, but there is something like a threatened calamity in prospect from the demand that will be made on the Executive for some sort of innovation upon established customs. Here comes an appeal, for instance, from a handful of so-called temperance women in Washington, among whom I readily recognize some as the wives of gentlemen who nightly search in vain for the part of the door to introduce the latch key, because of cold tea, and these persistent females petition Mr. Cleveland to banish wine from the White House.
There is another coterie of women here who desire and probably will compel the President to accede to their demands upon the character of the company and the social festivities of the Mansion. In this respect Mr. Arthur has allowed himself to be hampered to a deeper extent than any predecessor except Hayes, and if Uncle Grover escapes them he has more vertebrae than he has been given credit for having.

Of course everybody admits that these are degenerate days, and that so far as politics and parties are concerned, we have arrived at the lowest stratum of depravity, but what would we think now if the Governor of a sovereign State and the Vice-President of the United States should cling to a petty local office to the sake of holding on the salary? Yet this very thing was what George Clinton did, who for twenty-one years was Governor of New York, and seven years Vice-President of the United States, and all of the time he was County Clerk of Ulster County! Such things were not only allowable in those halcyon days of the Republic, but they were expected as a matter of course, for it was then as now, that the remark was true to triteness, that "few die and none resign."
DOM PEDRO.

Mr. O'DONOVAN ROSSA, having shaken himself to find that the bullet of Ysult Dudley had not hit a vital part, has published an advertisement offering $10,000 for the carcass of the Prince of Wales. As the prince is reported to be somewhat financially embarrassed it might be a good idea for him, if O'Don-ovan will deposit a certified check for the amount as a guarantee of good faith, to come across the Atlantic and place his carcass in the hands of Rossa for any reasonable length of time. It would doubtless be returned to him uninjured. Rossa is only bloody in his mind.—Journal.

Philadelphia Times: The man who is fitted for a Cabinet office often more attests his fitness by declining than by accepting the trust.

New Orleans Picayune: A ring around the moon is a sign of bad weather. A ring around the State House is a sign of bad government.

Charleston News and Courier: Sam Randall will not be offered the keys of the city when he comes down to Charleston. He will find the gates open and the table set.
