OUR EXPOSITION LETTER.

Interest like the attendance increases with the Exposition. Ever since the opening of Mardi Gras, which of itself brought many visitors to the city, the Fair has been receiving a daily increase of patronage as, evidence by the funds which have grown into the thousands of dollars every day.

The management is consequently greatly encouraged, and everybody being better pleased with the exhibition are of course happy. In fact no reasonably liberal person can well be otherwise. It is true the public were deprived of visiting the Art gallery until last week on account of the delayed arrival of the pictures, and the disappointment likely to occur if the contents of the gallery were not all hung and tastefully displayed before the doors were thrown open. But while such is the case there was enough to entertain and instruct within the other buildings.

INDIANA.
The Hoosier State, Prof. W. E. Oha-ver, commissioner, is very attractive and catches the eyes of the visitors as he or she goes along its labyrinths. The grain and vegetable displays are first-class, as well as the manufactured articles on exhibition. Minerals receive attention as an industry of Indiana and coal is the chief. Several specimens of native woods are shown. The United States Encaustic Tile company's exhibit is good.

MISSOURI.
Prof. F. F. Hilder, is one of the youngest commissioners within the Government building, but makes a very pleasing display of the effects of his state. Corn is king in Missouri and the specimens sent along the grains compare very favorably to any "staff of life" states. There is a handsome little pagoda trimmed with broom corn which shows off well. In liquors, wines and beer, especially the latter, the state produces many fine brands. Manufacturing is to some extent carried on, outside of flouring mills with which it abounds. St. Louis however supplies many of the articles on exhibition in this department both agricultural and manufactured.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.
This state so far to the northwest in being represented C. C. Bryant, seems to have a commissioner whose every effort is in behalf of New Hampshire. As a manufacturing state of much importance its specimens of goods attest. Some 200 varieties of native woods are on exhibition, and some samples of fine granite and other building stones are sent all the way from the quarries to the Exposition. An adjustable invalid bed, and fine steel cutlery combine to make a display not to be excelled. A shearing machine for clipping sheep, horses and mules is a most useful and ingenious instrument. An excellent profile map of the state carved from and painted on wood is to be seen.

NOTES.
Every day at the grounds looks more spring like than ever. It is consequently enjoyed by visitors from the north more than all others, and can hardly be realized.

There is no lack for lunch counters and nut stands, and such refreshments while in the grounds, and one can be accommodated at very reasonable rates.

It is nice to take a ride on the river by steamer either to or from the Fair Grounds. Then a better view of the city, Exposition grounds and surrounding country can be had.

The centre or strict "United States department" in the Government building is one of the strongest features of the exhibit. It reminds one of a visit to Washington city to go through here. The various national departments are admirably presented to the public for inspection.

A little girl on leaving the Main building the other day remarked, "Oh, my, I really think I'll have to purchase a new trunk to hold all my Exposition goods." She has been loaded down with pretty cards, pamphlets and other souvenirs of her visit to the Cotton Centennial.

The bamboo store of the Ho-no Hong Tea company is visited by thousands of people daily and many gallons of tea dealt out free in little cups, are served to the world of visitors.
