Among the new houses in course of erection and shortly to be commenced are those of J. A. Wilcox, Mr. Rinker and Rev. Suess. Mr. Wilcox will build a residence 28 ft. square, with a 16 ft. addition, making one of the roomiest houses in McCook. Mr. Rinker's residence will not be so large, but convenient and home-like withal. Rev. Suess' house is now nearing completion. Another 24 ft. square residence is now being built in H. C. Rider's west addition, and a number of other residences are going up in South McCook.

In all our journeys around town nothing in nature has greeted our view more beautiful and home-like, more grateful and cheering than the properties of Messrs. A. Campbell, George Hocknell, J. R. Phelan, A. McG. Robb, C. F. Babcock and others, as the yards of these gentlemen now appear in their spring 50 ft. front on his lots, west of the garment of velvety green. To be sure Churchill House. It seems to be the anything but felicitous province of our Indianola contemporary to on all occasions misconstrue our utterances in relation to himself and the people of Indianola in particular-so as to enlist the sympathy of the Indianola people to himself and prejudice them against THE TRIBUNE. We submit it to the people of the countyseat whether we have ever said anything prejudicial to the interests of your enterprising town-and we use the word enterprising in all candor. The prosperity and enterprize of the town and people of Indianola has ever been a source of gratification to us-rather than bitterness and envy-as The Courier would intimate. We have no reason to change our expressed view concerning the enlargement of The Courier to its present size, although we really thought that one experience would suffice The Courier even. Time will inevitably decide the correctness of our position. Readers of local papers greatly prefer quality to quantity. A large paper filled with plates and other non-local news can never fill the demand for a local paper. We can find charity enough, however, to forgive all but that Latin, Bro. Bishop, but "Et tu Bruti" is really an inexcusable travesty on Latinity.

The prompt, business-like manner in which Deputy Sheriff Welch discharged his duty with Bowman and Lee, the two confidence men arrested, last week, for playing their nefarious schemes on an innocent New York state lad, in which the late resident of the Empire State was mulcted to the tune of some $50, does not seem to meet with the approbation of some-and gentle reader to whom do you suppose the word some refers-to the law-abiding citizen who is always anxious to see just such rascals as Bowman and Lee properly dealt with? Well, hardly. The Deputy's course receives the entire approval of every citizen who is on the side of law Cook and Denver at times. They report that all such men may be thus dealt rigor will clean out more of the tinhorns, confidence men, faro dealers, and individuals of that stamp.

Allow us to remark that the Judge plays that good old game, largely in use by some of the profession, called "bluff," with admirable effect. We are now vouchsafed the information that the election held Tuesday of last week was We notice that farmers are bringing neither a general nor a special election -and hence no election at all-and that all the saloons could have been open on that occasion and enjoyed entire immunity from the law. Verily, thy name is law?-or a provision-or an amendment. Have we a Daniel come to judgment, or hath much learning made thee mad, or hath the invidious wet groceries disarranged? But, nevertheless, the Judge offers $5.00 to anyone who will prosecute the matter to ascertain whether the saloon had a right to be open on the evening of the village election or not.

REAL ESTATE ... J. W. Palmer o Washington, Ill., was in town, this week, investing in some real estate. He purchased a quarter section, situated seven miles from town, from J. P. Squire for consideration of some eleven hundred | ship. dollars. He also bought several lots from the Lincoln Land Co., and we are informed that he will make McCook his future home.

ANOTHER BRICK-Wm. Staddleman formerly of Orleans, but now of Omaha, has been in town, this week making arrangements for putting a brick building

On or about the 21st of this month the different legal lights of our town will meet and display their forensic powers to decide the ownership of the $50 taken from the confidence men, Bowman and Lee, last week. Will victory and $50 be the reward of counsels for plaintiff or defendant is the question.

A most satisfactory indication of bet ter times is the fact that parties in Mc Cook are now able to place loans on real estate for those needing a little capital This will be a great assistance to many
