TALK OF THE TOWN

Miss Tacy Collett went to Omaha, Monday.

D. A. Hancock was in from his ranch, Tuesday.

William, better known as Bill Erickson was in town Tuesday.

Mr. Foerster is having a dwelling erected west of Frank Riggle's.

Josh Hitt has built a house on the lot where his livery stable formerly stood.

Walter Jackson has been indisposed for a few days but we are glad to hear of his convalescence.

W. F. Parker, cashier of the Wood Lake Bank, called at our office on business Tuesday while in town.

Frank Day and Frank Kline returned Wednesday morning from a trip to Cody and Merriman. They claim they had a fine and successful time.

Jack Harrington was shaking hands with friends and acquaintances here Wednesday. He came up from O'Neill to attend to some real estate business.

A traveling troupe played "Old Dan Tucker" at the Post last night. Yesterday at noon they gave a free open air concert while they distributed their bills.

Will Shepherd went down to Wood Lake Tuesday night for a few days. He says he went down to buy hay, but we think there must be some other attraction.

Misses Easter Smith and Margaret White have rented the Union Hotel and took possession last week. These estimable young ladies solicit the public patronage.

P. H. Young came up from Simeon Tuesday to take third degree in the Masonic Lodge and is now a Master Mason. He and A. H. Stees rode out to the Brosius sale today.

Mrs. Wilson has given a contract to Grant Boyer for a frame dwelling to be erected at once across the street south of Dave Peters' dwelling. The foundation is being laid.

Henry G. Detgen and son Henry J. were in town Tuesday and called to subscribe for the Democrat. Mr. Detgen thinks the past winter was too cold for him and is glad to see warm weather come.

High school entertainment will be given at the M. E. church Friday, March 17th. This is the second one given by the high school and will be followed in perhaps a week by another. Come, don't miss them.

Mrs. Dave Dunn is very ill yet and will be brought to town to stay with her daughter, Mrs. Randall, for convenience in treatment by physicians as soon as the weather will permit. Miss Cora Taylor is staying with her at present.

There was a snow two or three inches deep last Saturday morning when we gazed upon the outside world and kept a snowing until it was four or five. The warm weather has melted the snow mostly and the ground is in good condition for spring crops.

BORN:—At Fort Liscum, Alaska, February 27, 1905, to the wife of Sergeant first class Charles M. Hunter, Hospital Corps, U. S. A., a daughter. Many Valentine people remember Mr. Hunter and Miss Maloney of Ft. Niobrara and will be pleased to hear from them if only a brief local announcing the birth of a daughter.

Robert Quisenberry has the agency for Cherry county to sell patent rights for tanning leather. Every man who owns stock ought to know how to tan a hide.

Mrs. Dean Efner returned Friday morning from Omaha. Dean following Saturday. They together spent Sunday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. Efner and returned home to Chadron Monday morning.

J. C. Jaquins came in from Sparks last Saturday and called at our office to pay up for the Democrat in advance. He is taking care of his father now who has been ill for some time. Mr. Jaquins has been working for Mr. Lately south of Newton for some time past and expects to go back there to work when his father recovers.

Revival meetings closed in the M. E. church last Friday night. Several persons were converted and will probably join some church in our city. Nearly fifty dollars was raised by subscription and collection for Rev. Stanhope, of Gordon, for his services during the revival.

W. E. Haley went up to Georgia Saturday morning to attend the funeral of Franklin T. Brackett, who died Thursday night after a brief sickness brought on by having his skull fractured, being thrown from a horse last November. He is well known in this community, having worked for W. E. Haley several years.

Robert Quisenberry returned from Southern Missouri Wednesday of last week as we stated in last week's Democrat. When we were just ready to go to press Bob came walking into our office with a roll of leather and pelts under his arm that he had tanned by a new process that he had learned down in good old Missouri. Its new and simple. Anyone can tan his own leather in a few minutes by Bob's process. A set of harness can be carved out of a cow hide in a short time after it comes off the "crittur" and there'll be enough material left to make a pair of fly nets and you can half sole the family shoes the coming winter from the scraps. Bob showed us a few skins and pelts that he had tanned while down in Mozu and they looked as good as any leather we ever saw. A goat, dog, cat, squirrel and cinnamon bear skins were tanned soft and pliable as a kid glove. He also had a sheep skin tanned with the wool on and it was a fine looking pelt. Anyone can own a fine fur lap robe if he knows Bob's process of tanning and John Neiss' angora goats will be in big demand for fine robes and children's cloaks. The buckles, iron works and hames will be the biggest thing in a set of harness or cows will be killed for their hides and hard winters will have lost their terrors to the stockmen of the northwest with Bob's new patented leather tanning process. Honest enough there will be a revolution in prices of all leather goods if this process is used by the people as advantageously as it should be. Anyone doubting the above story can call on Mr. Quisenberry and hear from him the story of his patent process in tanning leather. It costs you but little to learn and the work is so simple that you won't care much when an old cow dies for her hide will be worth more than you could get for the cow on foot and fattened for the butcher's block if she had lived till spring grass came. This is no josh. Ask Bob.
