Stylish Stationery

The makers do their part. They are constantly cudgeling their brains to get out new and attractive styles in stationery.

You ought to have style and quality for your money. The latest things in stationery are here—they are always here. They come here as soon as they are out, and they go to you with but a trifling profit added.

As we go to press this morning (Friday) a genuine Nebraska blizzard is raging. Thursday afternoon it began raining, which finally turned to sleet and snow and before night the sidewalks were coated with ice. About ten o'clock it began blowing and snowing and by morning had developed into as thoroughbred a blizzard as the writer with his some twenty years residence in the county has ever experienced. Snowdrifts are piled six to ten feet high in places and no mail is likely to be carried over the rural routes for a day or two. The passenger arrived from the east early this morning and went on west. The east-bound passenger pulled in about eight o'clock this morning and at this writing is still in town. There are no indications at present of the storm abating today. The mercury registers about 10° above. This storm starting as it did with a wet snow, then turning to sleet and finally as it grew colder into fine snow accompanied by high winds will mean quite a loss of range stock.

Word from the Hutchison boys—Bart, Lew and Clarence—in eastern Oregon, reports them trying to get accustomed to five feet of snow on the level. Nebraska's not so bad after all.

Pick out the folks you like the least and watch 'em for awhile; they never waste a kindly word, they never waste a smile. They criticize their fellow men at every chance they get; they never found a human, just to suit their fancy yet. From them I guess some things you'd learn, if they were pointed out—some things that everyone of us should know a lot about. When someone knocks a brother, pass around the loving cup—say something good about him, if you have to make it up. EAGLE.
