Klug & Paul are building a large addition to their wagon shop on East Norfolk avenue.

Robert Stannin, the popular bus driver for the Oxnard hotel is on the sick list this week.

A large glass in the front of the Ward Smoke House was broken last evening by the wind.

Stanton county can now boast of having two county clerks, the new one arriving yesterday at the home of A. Pilger of Stanton.

Miss Maude Collins will resign her position as collector for the telephone company the first of November and go back to Fremont to finish her course at a business college there. Miss Fae Livingston will have her place as collector.

E. B. Gillette, auditor for the Edwards & Bradford lumber company, has purchased the home recently vacated by Dr. N. Matzen, South Twelfth street. Dr. Matzen, who was in Norfolk yesterday from Columbus, says he likes his new location.

Mrs. McCarthy and Mrs. Frey of Meadow Grove came down yesterday and while on the train Mrs. McCarthy picked up her little child and the child threw back its arm in such a manner as to break it at the elbow. As soon as possible after arriving it was taken to a physician and the bone set.

The new livery barn that is being erected by George M. Dudley, Jr., on the corner of Third street and Braasch avenue, will, when completed, be one of the most modern and up-to-date barns in Norfolk. It will be 40x88 feet in dimensions and will have all the modern improvements, such as cement floors, a large modern office and box stalls.

D. B. Duffy lost a horse in a most peculiar manner last evening. The horse was drawing a spring wagon loaded with hay near the Taft farm south of town when suddenly it fell to the ground as though some one had shot it. It quickly recovered its feet and it seemed to be apparently all right, but had not taken forty steps until it dropped down again and died.

Work was begun yesterday on the filling up of the ditches along Thirteenth street. As soon as this work is completed the street will be as pretty as any in town. Many new residences will undoubtedly be started on the many fine locations that have been vacated on account of the unsightliness of the street. The dirt taken from the new ditch will be used in the filling.

What might have been a serious fire occurred at the Fair store meat market last night about 6:30. A gasoline stove was standing near the door and the wind blew it out. No one was in the room at the time and the gas escaped and relighted. When men came back into the room the stove was all afire, the floor around it, and a broom standing near. It was quickly put out and not much damage done.

A NEW THEATER MANAGER

MR. PETERSON ARRIVES TO TAKE CHARGE OF AUDITORIUM.

HE WILL RESIDE IN NORFOLK

Mr. Peterson Was Formerly Manager of a Theater at Fort Dodge, Iowa, Where He Had Good Success—May be Auditorium Improvements.

The change in management of the Norfolk Auditorium, forecasted some days ago, transpired today when Mr. Peterson arrived in the city to make this his home and to assume charge of the Norfolk playhouse.

Mr. Peterson is an experienced theatrical manager, having managed the theater at Fort Dodge, Iowa, up until very recently when it was sold. Recognizing in him a man of much ability for this business, Mr. Beall, the proprietor, has sent Mr. Peterson to Norfolk to represent him here and to become resident manager.

Mr. Peterson was accompanied to the city today by H. A. Rounds of Sioux City, who has been coming to Norfolk on the days of important plays to manage the house on such occasions.

It is expected that new matting for the aisles, a backboard to remedy the sounding properties, and other improvements will be installed.

Mr. Peterson will make an effort to book good attractions for Norfolk and says that he hopes the theater will be patronized well enough to justify the good things in store.

Battle Creek. J. M. Welch was here Friday on business from Tilden.

Mrs. Chas. Mozer returned Thursday from the Lutheran hospital at Sioux City, where she was under treatment for some time, and feels perfectly well.

Kyle Boyer, who sold his dray business to Frank Ulrich, has rented and is in possession of the A. C. Osborn livery and feed barn.

Clove Cornett returned home Friday from South Dakota, where he was working during harvest time. He thinks this is a better country for corn huskers.

J. L. Sinkula, a well known auctioneer, and John Cojdo of Howells, Colfax county, were here on business Friday and Saturday.
