

JUDGE WELCH IN THE RACE

HIS NAME FORMALLY PLACED ON PRIMARY BALLOT.

NO CANDIDATE AGAINST HIM

Judge A. A. Welch of Wayne Must be Elected for Two Distinct Terms of Office in Order to Serve Beyond Next January.

Application has been filed with Secretary of State Junkin asking that the name of Anson A. Welch be placed on the primary ballot as a republican candidate for judge of the Ninth judicial district. Judge Welch, whose home is at Wayne, is at present serving as judge of the Ninth district, filling the vacancy created by the resignation last winter of Judge J. F. Boyd of Nellig, who left the bench to take his seat in congress.

Must be Candidate For Two Places.

According to the call just issued by County Clerk George Richardson of Madison, Judge Welch must be nominated for and elected for two distinct terms of office, if he is to serve in his present capacity beyond January 1, 1908. Judge Welch was appointed by Governor Sheldon to fill an unexpired term. His appointment is ineffective "until the next general election," or until the coming November. On election day in November the appointment will end and there will be a vacancy in the office of judge of the Ninth judicial district. But the next regular term of judge does not start until January following election. Therefore Judge Welch must be elected first to fill the vacancy existing between election day and the first of January, when the regular term begins; and secondly he must be elected for that regular term, beginning January 1.

Could be Two Different Men.

Under the law one man could be elected to fill the vacancy between November and January and an entirely different man, if the voters desired, could be elected to serve in the regular term beginning January 1.

All of these possibilities, however, will tend in no way to disturb Judge Welch's chances. He has made an ideal jurist, fair in his decisions and of pleasing dignity. He has given satisfaction alike to the bar and the laymen in the Ninth district and according to a number of leading democrats there is not likely to be any candidate in the race against him.

The Ninth Judicial District Includes Madison, Pierce, Knox, Antelope and Wayne counties.

GENTLEMEN'S ROADSTER RACE

This May Be One of Norfolk Race Meet Features.

Among the special features contemplated in connection with the Norfolk race meet is a gentlemen's roadster race, owners to drive. The success of a similar driving race held in connection with the recent matinee has suggested this addition to the regular races scheduled for Norfolk's big summer racing meet. If this race is added to the driving program it will be run on August 1, the second day of the races.

The matter of a gentleman's roadster race may be said to be fairly up to the owners of a number of fine driving horses about the city. If interest in the proposed race is manifested it will be added as a special and attractive feature of the program.

Other plans for the race meet and street carnival are meeting with success. Three days for north Nebraska people to write in their notebooks are July 31 and August 1 and 2, the days of Norfolk's racing meet and street carnival week.

SPEAKING OF FISH TALES

NOW VALENTINE COMES TO THE FRONT WITH BIG ONE.

CAPT. M'CLOUD IS THE HERO

They Found Him Grasping the Trestle Work and Holding a Clothes Line. On the End of the Clothes Line—Well, Guess What They Found.

Valentine, Neb., July 17.—Special to The News: During the past week the mill pond here has been lowered about ten feet to install a new water wheel.

Yesterday morning when the men went to work they were surprised to hear loud cries for help coming from the spillway. They rushed to the breast of the dam and there just over the falls with one hand grasping some trestle work was Capt. McCloud. In the other hand was a taut clothes line rope reaching into the falls below. The captain shouted something but what it was the men could not distinguish on account of the roaring of the water. But thinking some one was drowning and that McCloud had thrown them a rope, two of the men jumped into the wheel race and, catching hold of the rope, with difficulty carried it ashore and commenced hauling in. What was their surprise to see rising above the water the head of a mammoth catfish.

It seems that McCloud had lost a great many hooks and lines while fishing in the bayou. A big fish would take the bait and with no apparent struggle would carry off hook and line. The captain had told this so many times that it was discredited. Finally as a joke O. W. Morey, McCloud's rival as an angler, had advised him to go to the blacksmith shop and have a large hook made and fasten a clothes line to it, bait it with half a liver and go after the big fish.

McCloud had taken this seriously and yesterday had gone down early to the pond and thrown the line into the bayou. After a few casts the line was nearly jerked from his hands. Surprised but hanging on he was drawn toward the water's edge, but being "dead game" and unable to hold back was drawn into the water and for about ten minutes was towed about the pond, drawing closer and closer to the falls. The fish, now exhausted, was caught by the current at the dam and carried over the falls. McCloud managed to catch the trestle work and save himself. The catfish was carried to the mill scales and tipped the balance at 192 pounds.

The captain is now the proudest man in Valentine and his veracity as to fish stories is no longer doubted.

HIGH RAILROAD OFFICIALS COMMENT ON SITUATION.

EMPTY FACTORY PARAMOUNT

M. & O. Officials Visit Norfolk and Declare Securing a New Industry for Empty Sugar Buildings Demands Attention of Commercial Club.

Norfolk ought to be bending her efforts to find a tenant for the big sugar factory building, prominent officials of the Minneapolis & Omaha line declared Wednesday morning in Norfolk. The railroad party consisted of General Manager A. W. Trenholm and six other officials of the Omaha line, out in the west on a tour of inspection.

Members of the party who remained uptown during the visit of their special to the Junction discussed Norfolk's situation. Norfolk's advantages as a distributing point were pointed out and it was agreed that Norfolk ought to be working to set the wheels of industry moving again in the big brick factory building whose present vacant condition is an actual detriment to the town. From its importance to Norfolk and from its general magnitude visting railroad men in the city Wednesday thought that the placing of some new industry in the sugar factory building ought to be the very important business of the Commercial club.

Minneapolis & Omaha railroad officials in Norfolk on the special Wednesday morning were: General Manager A. W. Trenholm of St. Paul, General Superintendent S. G. Strickland of St. Paul, Superintendent F. E. Nicolas of Omaha, General Freight Agent E. B. Ober of St. Paul, General Freight Traffic Manager H. M. Pearce of St. Paul, Assistant General Passenger Agent George H. McRae of St. Paul and Division Freight Agent Lyman Sholes of Omaha.

A tour of inspection in which the officials were familiarizing themselves with trade and crop conditions along their lines was the mission that brought the special train to Norfolk for two hours Wednesday morning. Tuesday was spent on the branch lines in Nebraska. At 9:30 a. m. the party left Norfolk for Omaha by way of Emerson.

Crop conditions in northeast Nebraska were good, the railroad men said, even better perhaps than in the states to the north. Corn though uneven is making splendid progress for the late season.

WAGON CIRCUS PASSES THROUGH

Hall's Show Stopped in Norfolk Enroute to Battle Creek. A wagon circus, such as used to delight the youth of a generation ago and which is bringing joy to the boys of today in the town of north Nebraska, was in Norfolk Tuesday noon.

It was F. W. Hall's united wagon shows that had dinner in Norfolk. The overland circus only stopped in Norfolk for the rest hour. Wagon shows avoid the larger cities the manager explained as he ordered his men to make ready for the drive to Battle Creek where the delights of the circus were to be the Tuesday evening feature in that town.

Fourteen wagons haul the circus paraphernalia. Thirty-two head of horses, nineteen ponies, performing dogs and goats and one homely monkey make up the animal part of the circus.

Thirty-five people are listed with the circus. The list included performers, musicians and roustabouts. Even in the little circus there is said to be the same class lines that prevail so notoriously in the larger shows and though they all drive overland together they all keep within their caste lines.

The Hall shows were in Hoskins Monday. After their Tuesday show at Battle Creek, Tilden, Oakdale, Neligh, Brunswick and Plainview form the list of towns scheduled for circus visits. The Hall shows are in their sixth season.
