

HALF OF CORN CROP SAFE

EIGHT OR TEN MORE DAYS WILL CINCH WHOLE THING. BETTER CROP THAN LAST YEAR

About Half the Corn Crop Would be Benefited Right Now With a Light Frost—The Balance Needs Several More Days of This Warm Weather.

Half the corn crop, farmers of this section say, is beyond the danger line of frost. And the rest of the crop, with weather conditions, will be pretty well within the limit in eight or ten days.

Friday was another corn making day. With a week or so of such days farmers who were in Norfolk declare that the corn crop will be ready for a frost.

Half Corn Ready For Frost. In fact one successful Madison county farmer says that a light frost would be a real benefit to his corn at this time.

But corn in this part of Nebraska is readily divided into two classes this fall and about half the crop needs just the kind of weather that it is getting.

A frost is still feared for this corn for a frost it is said would render the corn chaffy and lessen the yield.

More Corn Than Year Ago. With good weather the farmers have a big crop in prospect, a much better crop of corn than last year.

In fact there seems to be definitely in sight another year of prosperity on the north Nebraska farm; and the prosperity of the farm reflects itself in the other lines of business.

Oats, this year said to be running about thirty per cent light, are rendered profitable to the farmer by the prevailing stiff prices.

Wheat is still a minor crop in the vicinity of Norfolk but a number of farmers have had good yields of winter wheat.

Under the law Boche's liberty comes when the bond is approved by Judge Barnes. It will not be necessary for Boche to make another trip to Norfolk, the bond for his release being sent directly to Madison.

Much comment has been caused in Norfolk over the striking beauty of the Du Monte sisters, members of the theatrical company which will present "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" at the Auditorium Saturday afternoon and evening.

It is a wise politician that can read clearness into the after primary provisions of the new state primary law. However, if the contention of the secretary of state that names written make nominations, holds good then the possibility of an unusual situation exists in Madison county touching the control of the small parties in their county organization.

CONTEST BRAASCH WILL

ONLY SISTER, MRS. APPEL, BRINGS SUIT.

CHARGES UNDUE INFLUENCE

The Probation of the Will of C. W. Braasch Was Objected to in County Court at Madison—Hearing in County Court October 14.

The Braasch will is to be contested by the only near relative of the late C. W. Braasch, Mrs. Marie Apfel of Norfolk.

Thursday afternoon when the will of the late C. W. Braasch came up for probate in the county court at Madison Mrs. Apfel's attorneys entered an objection to the probate of the will, attacking it on the grounds that undue influence was exercised over the testator and that he was not in proper condition to make a will.

The will of the late C. W. Braasch was drawn up on July 16, 1907. By its terms after $1,000 was paid over to the Norfolk lodge of Elks, the rest of the estate went to H. C. Matran and Tate Wille, save for the family residence on South Fifth street which became the property of Mr. Wille.

Mrs. Apfel will be represented by Barnhart & Koenigstein. Senator Allen and the law firm of Mapes & Hazen have been engaged to defend the will.

The will will come up for hearing in the county court on Monday, October 14, on the sister's objection to its probate. If the case is lost in the county court it will be tried to a jury in the district court.

Mr. Matran, to whom part of the estate was left, was Mr. Braasch's grand army comrade and intimate friend. Mr. Wille was for years a faithful employee and friend.

BROWN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

Republicans Select Delegates—County Fight for Treasurer.

Ainsworth, Neb., Sept. 16.—Special to The News: The republican county committee met Saturday afternoon and organized by electing Frank Lessig chairman and W. H. Williams secretary. These are both steadfast and earnest republicans and the campaign will be pushed with the usual vigor that characterizes these gentlemen, Hon. R. S. Rising was selected as delegate to the state convention.

The democrats are not contemplating a general campaign. They are not expecting to elect their whole ticket. The main fight will be for treasurer. Rev. T. W. De Long, the present treasurer, has been renominated by the democrats and the fight will be to re-elect him. He is opposed by Mitchell E. Hughes, the republican candidate who was nominated over M. A. Wright by two votes. The democratic hope is that enough of Wright's friends may refuse to support Hughes to give De Long a re-election. The democrats will also have the county judge, C. W. Potter, the present incumbent, is a good man and has been nominated by his party. He has at present no opposition.

COUNTY PRIMARY COST

ABOUT $1,000 CHARGED UP TO MADISON COUNTY.

SENTIMENT AGAINST PRIMARY

Many People in Madison County, As Well as in All Other Counties of the State, Declare That the Primary is a Burden and Failure.

Madison county taxpayers will be called upon to put up just about $1,000 for the primary election recently held to make political nominations. The expense of the primary was in the neighborhood of $1,000, according to County Clerk George E. Richardson who was in Norfolk from Madison Friday afternoon, enroute to Tilden.

This expense included rent of buildings for election, pay for judges and clerks of election, cost of poll books, printing of preliminary notices, ballots, etc., and other items that go to make up the cost of a primary.

There were 1,000 votes cast in Madison county so that the people of this county will pay about $1 for every vote that was marked up.

There seems to be a growing sentiment in Norfolk as well as throughout northern Nebraska that the primary will be repealed by the next legislature. Regardless of party, taxpayers of the state declare that the primary is too expensive a luxury to be supported and particularly since it gives no reform but on the other hand throws open the doors to trickery. Many who believed before the test that the primary might be all right, now condemn it as an expensive luxury and a failure.

BOCHE BOND APPROVED

HE WALKS OUT OF JAIL SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

FRESH AIR UNTIL HIS TRIAL

At 10 O'clock Saturday Morning Supreme Judge J. B. Barnes of Norfolk Approved the Bail Bond Presented in Behalf of Jarmer's Slayer.

Herman Boche's bond to secure his release on $15,000 bail was approved by Supreme Judge J. B. Barnes in Norfolk shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Judge Barnes at once forwarded the bond to W. H. Field, clerk of the district court at Madison. Accompanying the bond was an order directing Sheriff Clements to release Boche from the county jail where he has been confined since his surrender last May.

The bond and court order to the sheriff were mailed on the 11 o'clock passenger to Madison so that Boche's release was expected during the afternoon. The Boche bond was presented to Judge Barnes Saturday with no other names than those attached yesterday, namely Herman Boche, F. H. Chandler, Mrs. Carl Sorge, William V. Allen and William Boche. This was considered a good bond however as the signers have justified for $65,200 when the required bond to be exacted is $15,000.

Other names were to have been added but delay occurring Boche's attorneys sent the bond in during the morning in order that Boche might be out of the county jail and in his home by Saturday night.

Boche is by the bond released to appear at the district court room when Judge A. A. Welch convenes court in Madison on November 25. Sometime during December Boche's case is expected to be called. He will then be tried to a jury for the slaying of Frank Jarmer in Norfolk on May 1.
