

CASES ARE TRANSFERRED

NORTHWESTERN DAMAGE SUITS BROUGHT TO NORFOLK.

FOR FEDERAL COURT TRIAL

The Cases of Thomas A. Taylor and John B. Williams, Northwestern Men Who Are Suing For Damages, Have Left District Court.

Two important damage cases against the Northwestern have been taken from the district court at Madison to the Norfolk district of the United States court. One of the cases was brought by Thomas A. Taylor for $20,000 on account of an injury received at the Norfolk round house. The second of the suits was filed by John B. Williams of this city, who asks for $55,000 on account of injuries received when he fell from a freight train as a result, so he claims, of a defective hand grip.

Application to have the two cases removed to the federal court was made by the firm of Whit, Wright and Dunham, attorneys for the Northwestern. The application has been approved by District Judge Welch and the transcripts of the two cases will be filed in a short time with John R. Hays, deputy clerk of the Norfolk district of the United States court.

M. F. Harrington of O'Neill is attorney for both of the former railroad men who have filed the big damage bills against the railroad.

The terminals and automatic switches are to occupy the second floor.

CHASE NEWCASTLE.

Officers Join Sheriff Maskell of Dixon County in Hunt.

Sioux City, Feb. 4.—Escaping from his home town of Newcastle, Neb., after a long pursuit in which he eluded Sheriff Maskell and his deputies, David Lynch is said to be at large in Sioux City, ill of a contagious disease. The town is being searched by local detectives and a quiet manhunt is being inaugurated for the missing man.

A long distance telephone message from Newcastle to the city health department, warned the authorities here to be on the lookout for the stranger. He had been ordered into quarantine in his home town, but defied the health officials there, stating he would not be hampered by remaining in a room for three weeks, and that he would go to Sioux City where he said he could do as he pleased.

Sheriff Maskell, of Dixon county, was summoned to detain Lynch, but Lynch eluded the sheriff by means of a team of horses. It is believed he boarded a train at Ponca, Neb., for this city. A search of the hotels failed to reveal any person of the description furnished but a vigilant lookout is being kept, in the hope of capturing the man, if he is in the city. Lynch is an engineer for the Omaha railroad.

AT THE THEATRE

Stock Company Opens.

The Spedden-Paige stock company opened a week's engagement at the Auditorium to a packed house Monday night and from the enthusiastic applause which greeted the company's efforts at all stages, it was apparent that the troupe has already made good with Norfolk people. And Norfolk people are discerning people, too, when it comes to picking out a good show.

"For Honor's Sake" was the opening bill, a civil war story dealing with the home side of that grave conflict. It was a story of intense human interest and the audience was in complete sympathy with the stage-folk from the start. There were moments in the play when stern faced men kept dry eyes with difficulty, and then there were other moments when the whole house was convulsed in spontaneous laughter over the comedy features, which were strong.

Sam Spedden, leading man in the stock company, is a handsome fellow—big and broad shouldered, with smooth, ruddy cheeks, big black eyes and a handsome set of teeth that come forth when he smiles his good natured smile. He made a hit with the audience right off the reel and held the closest interest throughout.

Miss Claire Paige, leading lady, is a mighty clever woman and she played a difficult role in an entirely satisfactory manner.

Miss Fannie Hatfield, as "Bridget," was as bright and clever as a new dollar—and she never let up for a moment with her spontaneous wit and wholesome humor. Besides being a clever player, she is a feature as a vaudeville artist between acts, making a hit with her unique dancing specialty and with her two cute little trick dogs that dance with her.

Harry Manners is the good looking individual who plays the villain role and he won a compliment in the very intensity of disapproval shown for the

Mrs. Leslie Carter starred last year, and for which the Spedden-Paige company pays a royalty of $25 every time it is presented by them, will be the bill Thursday night. This company has exclusive rights for this play among western popular-priced repertoire troupes.

Prizes Saturday Night.

A number of mahogany chairs will be given away free by this company Saturday night to persons who have attended during the week and are present that night.

WEST POINT ICE.

Nine Inches Thick This Year—Other Items in Cuming County.

West Point, Neb., Jan. 31.—Special to The News: The annual ice crop is now being busily harvested in West Point and large quantities are being stored by the local dealers. The ice is of excellent quality, clear and solid, but only nine inches thick, in marked contrast to the crop harvested twenty years ago by Anton Psota, which was twenty-two inches in thickness.

Considerable light snow fell Thursday, the wind blowing strongly from the south and for a time it looked as if winter had arrived in earnest. During the night it cleared somewhat.

The regular spring term of the district court of Cuming county will convene at West Point on next Monday with Judge Guy T. Graves of Pender on the bench. There are two criminal cases of small moment for hearing. The term is expected to be a short one. The docket is of about the usual size.

STANDARD GETS ICE TRUST.

35,000 Shares Known to Have Been Acquired Already.

New York, Feb. 4.—It is believed that the Standard Oil corrie has secured control of the ice trust from E. R. Thomas. It was learned yesterday that there have been sales of large blocks of American Ice stocks conducted character which he represented. Mr. Manners is a clever actor and plays well a hard part.

W. D. Collins does an old man character in excellent fashion. Mr. Collins, by the way, played in Norfolk ten years ago in "East Lynne," the last time it was presented here.

Fred Langley and Lucilla Montague were popular with the audience and Little Cecil Manners, playing the role of a little boy, was especially good.

Ed La Rose is a mighty clever vaudeville artist, they say; much better as a vaudeville artist than in a regular stage role.

The specialties introduced between acts are bright and brought deserved applause.

Bargain Night Tonight.

Tonight will be bargain night at the Auditorium with the Spedden-Paige stock company. "The Fatal Wedding" will be the play and a 10-cent ticket will be good for any seat in the house. Mr. Spedden announced that he expected to make a record night for attendance at the Auditorium tonight.

Wednesday Matinee, "East Lynne." Mr. Spedden said in a speech last night that so many requests had been made for the presentation of "East Lynne," that he would put this ever-popular play on at the Auditorium Wednesday afternoon at a 10-cent matinee. The matinee will begin at 2:30 o'clock sharp and a 10-cent ticket will admit to any seat in the theater. Spedden said that this play is a good deal like "Uncle Tom's Cabin"—that it ought to be seen at least once a year. The great preacher, Henry Ward Beecher, was quoted as having once said that every man and woman ought to see "East Lynne" as often as possible.

Thursday Night, Du Barry.

"Du Barry," the great play in which ed privately within the last week, and that the buyers have been Jesup & Lamont, known as Standard Oil brokers. That firm has acquired 35,000 shares.

"The Wizard of Wall Street."

Playing in competition with the cold wave and a Nebraska blizzard, Miss Phyllis Daye and the musical "Wizard of Wall Street" brought an enthusiastic audience to the Auditorium Friday night. And the audience speedily forgot the cold outside on account of the clever little musical play.

The cast and the chorus in the "Wizard of Wall Street" are clever beyond doubt. The play is a clean little bit of musical humor with the usual popular comic opera features. And it was put on at the Auditorium with a snap and a dash that was infectious.

The songs were catchy and well sung and were received with applause. Fred Walters, a man with an exceptionally good voice, is a popular man with the company, winning, especial favor singing "Polly" with the Ingene chorus and "Red Bird" with the Indian maidens.

Phyllis Daye, known in Norfolk, was the "hit" of the evening. Pretty, clever and unique in her dancing, and singing with a way and an air that was quite her own, Miss Daye made good her reputation here and added something to her Norfolk fame. Miss Daye's dancing was new. And the songs she sang pleased.

Andrew M. Morrissey for Delegate.

Alliance, Neb., Feb. 4.—The democrats of the Sixth district are a unit in their support of Andrew M. Morrissey of Valentine as a delegate to the national democratic convention at Denver. Mr. Morrissey is a young lawyer and an active democratic worker. The other candidate to be selected will probably come from the Union Pacific territory, inasmuch as both delegates to the St. Louis convention were from the Burlington—J. J. Wilson of Broken Bow and T. J. O'Keefe of Alliance.

Chicago Saloon Question.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Friends and foes of the Sunday saloon held meetings yesterday and girded themselves for a titanic struggle.

For the first time in Chicago history the paramount issue in the April elections will be the liquor question. It is a battle that both sides welcome, and each is already claiming victory.

REPORT ON BUILDING OPERATIONS

Increased Use of Cement Has Not Decreased Lumber Cut.

Washington, Feb. 3.—In a report regarding building operations and the timber supply, the geological survey says that the increasing price of lumber and a rapidly increasing use of perfected fireproof systems of construction should have much to do in holding down the amount which forests are called upon to yield each year, but that so far these more substantial materials have not decreased the lumber cut of the nation. Notwithstanding the remarkable increased use of cement and other fireproof material, the last reports of the building operations in forty-nine of the leading cities of the United States for the year show that 59 per cent were of wooden construction. This does not include the large quantities of lumber used for the construction of dwellings, stores and other buildings in the thousands of small cities and towns scattered over the country and not included in the forty-nine cities on which a reckoning was made.

In towns and small cities wood is usually the predominant building material and it is safe to say that if the statistics had included figures for all places of whatever size, the percentage of wooden construction would have been much greater.

The average cost of buildings is constantly increasing, having risen over $300 during the last three years. The average value of a building is given in the report as $2,035.

Black Hand Murder at Pottsville.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 4.—A band of six Italian members of the "Black Hand" made an unsuccessful attempt upon the life of Antonio de Salvo, a wealthy contractor. They surrounded his home, armed with shotguns and were forcing in the door when Joseph Riotto, a neighbor, fired on them. He fired two shots and was reloading his gun, when a volley was fired by the agents of the Black Hand, and he was mortally wounded. The murderers fled.

AN EXCHANGE DAY DINNER

ALL NORFOLK JOINED IN ENTER-TAINING FARMERS.

THE WEATHER WAS "FERNINST"

The Glad Hand Was Given to Norfolk's Farmer Friends Tuesday Noon at a Big Open-and-Above-Board Dinner in The City Hall.

Pretty nearly all Norfolk got together Tuesday noon to give the glad hand to the town's farmer friends who were Norfolk's guests on the occasion of the February exchange day. Sleet, rain and snow reduced the volume of exchange stuff brought to the exchange day yards but it didn't keep a representative crowd of farmers from coming to Norfolk to accept the city's invitation to dinner.

Dinner was served in the city hall. Banker, lawyer, merchant, doctor, everybody along the avenue forgot other dinner and lunch appointments and went over to the city hall to join in the big jolly dinner which was served with a glad hand to all comers. There was plenty of good fellowship in the air and men from the countryside, from Norfolk avenue and from off the avenue rubbed shoulders at the big free dinner.

Several hundred people were served—and served by seven popular young ladies of Norfolk.

The dinner features were open and above board. Nothing was concealed. The multitude looked on and saw Burt Mapes make the coffee, felt prepared for the worst and then felt real cheerful when it wasn't so bad after all.

Dr. C. S. Parker and J. S. Mathewson served roast beef with grace and ease. Frank Lehman, J. D. Sturgeon, Ernest Raasch, A. L. Killian, L. A. Rothe, C. E. Hartford and Herman Winter were inside the enclosure, acting as impromptu aids to Mapes, Parker and Mathewson.

Misses Ethel Doughty, Margaret Austin, Ruby Macy, Edna Loucks, Kathryn Shaw, Lucy Carberry and Edith Evans assisted in serving.

During the progress of the dinner a band concert was given by the Norfolk band. The appearance of the band in the sleet was accepted as another evidence of a healthy Norfolk spirit and as the Norfolk band is always ready for an impromptu concert the band organization came in for a fair share of the compliments of the afternoon.

Directors of the Commercial club almost without exception enjoyed a city hall dinner.

WOMAN AS MAN.

Attempted Suicide Reveals a Very Strange Story of Dual Identity.

New York, Feb. 4.—Stranger even than the dual identity of Murray Hall, the man-woman politician, is the case of Robert G. d'Amron and Mrs. Gussie Blickman d'Amron Sears, a young woman whose life came near being ended by laudanum which she took at her home, and who was arraigned yesterday charged with attempted suicide and discharged.

Mrs. Sears declared her first husband was Robert G. d'Amron of St. Louis, with whom she eloped twelve years ago when she was Augusta Blickham, the 17-year-old daughter of a prominent St. Louis family. Five years ago she said, they were divorced and Robert G. d'Amron today told the story of his marriage and divorce.

But neither Mrs. Sears nor Mr. d'Amron revealed the astounding circumstances of their meeting at Cape Girardeau, Mo., when the present-day Robert G. d'Amron was Miss Jean Dameron of that place. Nor did they reveal the fact that d'Ameron was always a "Miss" and never a "Mister" until the couple came to this city.

Miss Sears, when a young girl, went alone on an excursion down the Mississippi. The boat stopped at Cape Girardeau, where Miss Jean Dameron came aboard. The steamer was crowded and the captain put Miss Dameron in Miss Blickham's stateroom. Arriving at St. Louis, Miss Blickham insisted that the young woman from Cape Girardeau accompany her home. Passionate fondness grew up between the girls.

Finally the musician became amazed at masculine traits displayed by Jean Dameron. She displayed fondness for tobacco and smoked cigars and cigarettes with manly grace. At last Mr. Bosebenz requested the girl to leave his house, but Augusta Blickham would not hear of parting with her friend, and they came to this city and took a flat in Columbus avenue, Miss Jean Dameron being transformed into Jack d'Amron.

WANT NEW FREIGHT RATE

NORFOLK COMMERCIAL CLUB DISCUSSES MATTER.

PREPARING DEFINITE ACTION

It Was Pointed Out at the Weekly Meeting of Directors That Lincoln Enjoys a Much Better Rate From Duluth Than Norfolk.

Members of the Commercial club sought to clarify their ideas on freight rates at the Tuesday morning meeting of the directors held in the office of President Durand. Several Norfolk men who are interested in freight rates were present at the meeting, joining in the discussion of the general freight rate question.

The net result of the meeting was the designation of W. R. Hoffman as the chairman of a committee to draw up a concise report of what they conceive to be the important rate issues before Norfolk, outlining in a clear-cut way the case that Norfolk can put before the railroads. The report will be presented next week.

The discussion Tuesday morning was informal and was hampered to a certain extent by the lack of essential and definite information. It was agreed, however, that the rate matter should be approached in a spirit of fairness and that neither the club's nor the railroads' attention should be taken up with irrelevant or unessential matters. This it was said was the chief fault in the last rate agitation started in Norfolk.

In the discussion importance was given to the comparative rates from Duluth to Lincoln and Norfolk. The first class rate to Lincoln from Duluth was given as 85 cents, to Norfolk from Duluth as $1.12. It was pointed out that Norfolk was nearer to towns which had the flat Missouri river rate than Lincoln was. The Chicago and Duluth rate to Emerson, it was said, was 89 cents and from Duluth to Norfolk $1.12, or a difference of thirty-two cents. On lumber and coal Norfolk already enjoys the same rate as Lincoln.
