

TRAINS GO THROUGH DURING THE NIGHT

TRIPP COUNTY RUSH TO MAKE NIGHT TRIPS.

REACH HERE AT MIDNIGHT

The Main Tripp County Land Rush Train Will Leave Omaha at 8 O'clock Every Night and Reach Dallas at 8 the Next Morning.

The bulk of the rush of landseekers to Tripp county's lottery will pass Norfolk, going and coming, at about midnight. The main "rush" train will leave Omaha at 8 p. m. every night and arrive at Dallas at 8 a. m. the next morning.

As many sections of this train will be run as necessary to handle the crowds. The north Nebraska traffic to the opening will be handled on the regular day train which leaves Norfolk at 1:30 every afternoon.

The visitors from a distance, therefore, will not get much of a view of northern Nebraska or southern South Dakota excepting as they fill their eyes at the registration points.

Select Farms Before March 1. After the drawing on October 19, every person who registers will be notified of the number drawn out for him in the lottery.

On March 1 those land winners must be at Dallas to tell the government agent just exactly which quarter sections they have selected.

Quick Head Work There. Quick head work will be required there. For instance, the man who has drawn No. 100 may have selected a number of different quarter sections that would suit him.

Here the services of a man who knows the Rosebud land like a book will come in for real value.

On March 1 the assignment of homesteads will bring 5,000 land winners back to Dallas in a bunch.

And between October 19 and March 1, 5,000 lucky lottery winners will be busy skimming over the Tripp county portion of the reservation, hunting up choice quarters.

Feeling Better. The feeling at Herrick was a little so bitter against the young lady that she left Herrick and came to her home near Dallas. The arrest was made in this city. People ignorant of the circumstances said at once that Miss Singkular left Herrick because she was guilty and even some of her friends deserted her.

These things weighed heavily upon the young lady's mind and after her release on bail she returned to her home looking pale and "undone." She seemed to grow more and more downhearted and feel worse at things which were published and said about her as time went on. Finally she never left the house.

Was Watched by Family. Miss Singkular was watched by members of the family who feared that she might do herself harm. Nothing occurred, however, to arouse any suspicion nor did she ever talk of ending her life.

Miss Singkular formerly lived at Lynch in Boyd county. People there refused to believe the charges against her.

TRAGIC END TO HERRICK FIRE. Herrick, S. D., Sept. 4.—Special to The News: Miss Bessie M. Singkular, the milliner waiting trial on the charge of starting the Herrick fire which on the night of July 10 destroyed the business block in the heart of the town, committed suicide yesterday by shooting herself with a shotgun. The charge entered her heart and death was instantaneous.

Miss Singkular ended her life at her home on a Rosebud homestead a mile south of Dallas. Miss Singkular had worried continually over the trial and the fear that her family was being brought into disgrace on her account constantly depressed her spirits. This is the only explanation for her rash act.

So far as known in Herrick Miss Singkular made no statement of any kind before taking her life. The dead woman was under $1,000 bonds to appear at the next term of the circuit court for Gregory county to stand trial on the charge of arson.

Dallas Homestead Scene of Tragedy. Dallas, S. D., Sept. 4.—Special to The News: Oppressed by the accusation of having started the Herrick fire and the impending trial before the circuit court, Miss Bessie Singkular, unable to longer bear her troubles, shot herself through the heart with a shotgun. The tragedy occurred at the Singkular home one mile south of Dallas.

At 1 O'Clock in the Afternoon. It was shortly after 1 o'clock in the afternoon that the young woman pressed the muzzle of the gun against her heart and with her hand touched off the trigger for the discharge that was to throw her lifeless body to the ground close by the porch of the homestead house.

Brothers in the Field. Her brothers had gone to the field to work. After the last man disappeared she was standing on the front porch of the house. In the kitchen her mother was at work.

Miss Singkular asked her mother if the wind was blowing through the door too strongly. The mother said it was not. Mother Thought Door Had Slammed. A moment after the mother's answer a shot was fired. The mother thought it was the door slamming. But she went to investigate.

Mother First to Reach Her. She found the body of her daughter lying across the shotgun there on the ground near the porch. Death was instantaneous.

The mother ran to the adjoining field for the men. They at once called Coroner Fish, who happened to be in Dallas. The coroner took charge of the body.

Believed Her Innocent. The people of Dallas generally believed in the innocence of Miss Singkular. The suicide was a sad shock to the friends of the young lady, who had worried over her mental suffering and who had been in hopes that her troubled affairs would soon take a turn for the better.

Miss Singkular was buried this morning in the cemetery near Dallas. Rev. Mr. Kersten of the Presbyterian church having charge of the services.

Opened Her Store Last Spring. Miss Singkular opened her millinery store in Herrick last spring.

On the night of July 10 a fire broke out in her store in a building rented from Frank Nunemaker. The building was destroyed and seven or eight other places of business were also consumed by the fire.

Miss Singkular Suspected. Following the fire there was considerable conjecturing upon its probable origin. The general belief came to be that the big blaze was of incendiary nature. Ugly stories connecting Miss Singkular with the fire were circulated. She was arrested and held to trial in the circuit court under $1,000 bonds, which were at once furnished.

Her attorneys said that they would clear the young woman of the crime charged even overcome the suspicions of all fair minded people when the case came to trial, admitting at the time that little points of circumstantial evidence were adverse to their client.

The accident came to a climax in front of the Oxnard hotel and was witnessed by guests of the hotel. The horses had started on their mad dash at a point east of the Northfork river on Norfolk avenue. In front of the Oxnard the tongue of the carriage dropped to the ground, overturning the buggy and sending the man overboard into the street. The horses, loosened from the carriage, went on dragging Mr. Fink until he could extricate his feet from the lines.

There was little left of the upper half of the buggy, the dashboard, the rear seat, the top and the tongue being demolished.

The Norfolk Junction Railroad Eating House Will be Converted into a Big Lunch Room, With Only Long Lunch Tables.

Today for the first time there are two trains a day each way between Norfolk and Dallas, the morning train having changed time and going through to Dallas instead of Bonesteel.

To Feed Crowds Here. The railroad eating house at Norfolk Junction is making plans to handle as many of the thousands of travelers as possible
