CLOUDBURST BREAKS OVER CHAR-LOTTE DURING BIG PARADE.

The Dense Crowd Just in Front of the was Watching Mecklenburg Parade, Got Excited-Nobody Hurt.

Charlotte, N. C., May 20 .- A cloudburst broke over the city this afternoon and caused a panic in the dense George B. Cortelyou, former secretary seriously, by dropping from a secondcrowd gathered in front of the stand of the treasury, died last night at the story window, in a fire starting from a on which President Taft was reviewing the Mecklenburg celebration parade. No one was seriously hurt.

Live Wire on a Float.

In the midst of the excitement and the fleeing of the throng, one of the big industrial floats became entangled with a live electric wire. The wire sagged almost to the heads of the people beneath. To add to the turmoil and danger there was a loud reyards from the reviewing stand. The cause of the explosion is not known. Crowd Scatters. Taft Makes Way.

The crowd scattered in all directions. Men and women alike rushed stand and the president stepped aside to give as much room as possible.

The tremendous downpour of rain was beating its way through the canvas roof of the stand, and almost directly over the president's head a great pool of water gathered, threatening to break down the covering.

Hero Cuts Canvas, Taft Drenched. In the emergency some one brought a tall step ladder, a man rushed up and, cutting a hole in the canvas, let water down in a perfect flood. This quick action prevented any further trouble other than the partial drenching of the president.

Stands Pat Through Storm. When quiet had been restored, the president did not seem to mind his smiling while the rain poured down. Thousands of men and women were drenched and many pretty costumes ruined utterly. The president rehis hotel.
