Neligh Dry, Pump Gives Out. Neligh, Neb., June 21.-Special to The News: In case of a serious fire in this city today there would be no help available by the waterworks system. Yesterday forenoon the pump at the city plant gave out, which compelled Water Commissioner Sheldon to cut off the water from the city at the stand pipe and to be used only in case of fire. Mr. Sheldon stated last evening that there was only about thirty feet in the stand pipe at that time, and in case of a big fire would only last a couple of hours at the best if the fire department was forced to use three nozzles.

The city council and property owners of Neligh are now up against the real thing. The pumping plant that has been in service for over fifteen years should have been discarded long ago, as hundreds of dollars annually has been spent in keeping it in repair. Mayor Staple says: "We have a serious proposition to solve, one that the citizens of Neligh are deeply interested in at this time, and should Battle Creek Enterprise: A couple of prominent Norfolk business men were arrested the other day for throwing rubbish into the street. They claim to be victims of political persecution. At any rate, there seems to be a desire on the part of Norfolk officials to enforce the ordinances for a cleaner Norfolk.

Tilden Citizen: Norfolk is making great preparations for a Fourth of July celebration. One of the major attractions is to be a captive balloon ascent. The balloon will be attached to 5,000 feet of rope. The aeronaut will make the ascent without guards or parachute. When nearly a mile in the air he will take a 500-foot fall on a looped rope. A trapeze will be attached and the balloonist will perform on the trapeze as he slides the remaining 4,500 feet to the ground.
