Classification of ads makes your "want" as easy to find as a telephone number.

It Takes Two—Are You One of Them? If, of the two people it takes to make a bargain, you are one, how much would it be worth to you to find the other one? Would it be worth the cost of a classified ad? Would it be worth the cost of a small—but determined—campaign of want advertising?

The "other one" necessary to "make a bargain" is found, in nine cases out of ten, through advertising—often through want advertising; and, in this city, usually through want advertising in this newspaper.

The "other one" watches the want ads pretty closely—but, of course, has to be convinced. If your offer is "right," that will be an easy task.

ALLEN GRILLS EDITOR

And Discusses Admission of Boche to Ball Last Year.

Former Senator Allen of Madison grills Editor Miller of Newman Grove in this week's issue of the Madison Post. Incidentally he discusses the legality of Judge Barnes' act in granting bail to Herman Boche pending supreme court action on the latter's appeal, before he was sent to the penitentiary.

Filosofor Miller.

Our great and good friend Filosofor Miller of the Newman Grove Reporter, notwithstanding he is a graduate of the Yale university, has shown himself capable of making serious mistakes.

The filosofor's first mistake consists in the belief that a man who has not graduated at Yale is uneducated and incapable of seeing men and measures in their true light. The filosofor's second mistake consists in settling on the broad plains of Nebraska, among a people he is accustomed to regard as yokels, loquendal Yalibus, upon the supposition that his filofosy will lead them into the philofosophical errors he himself constantly commits.

Filosofor Miller's third mistake consists in his writing his editorials in the first person singular, with the intention, no doubt, of making it clear to his wide and constantly increasing constituency of yokels that his filofosy will lead them into the philofosophical errors he himself constantly commits.

Filosofor Miller shows that he is not well up in the history of jurisprudence when he refers to what the jurors in the Boche case say, because if the filosofor understood the real situation, he would know that Hon. A. Welch presided at the trial of that case, and that Judge Barnes was neither in the court room nor in the county at that time.

Kinkaid Talks on Tariff Bill. Atkinson Graphic: Hon. M. P. Kinkaid returned home last Thursday from his long siege of congressional duties at Washington, stronger with his home constituents than he has been since the beginning of his legislative career. He says that the tariff measure, which was passed on account of its effect on local conditions in different parts of the country, will not be entirely satisfactory but that it contains a good many redeeming features, and will be beneficial to the people as a whole, and were incorporated in the bill by the persistent efforts of President Taft who insisted that the measure should contain provisions as demanded by a majority of the people. It was a great victory for Taft and Mr. Kinkaid's vote cast for the bill and sustaining the president is entirely satisfactory to his constituents.

DON'T LET HER SAY NO.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—If you meet a girl, look into her eyes and decide that you love her, tell her so that minute.

Don't wait for her to say yes or no. Take it for granted that she is yours. Begin immediately to act as if she were your property; all women like to feel as if they belonged to a man. The girl will soon begin to take your viewpoint of the affair.

These views of Brigadier General Thomas S. Hutchinson of Tennessee, put into practice, won for him a bride and the couple are spending their honeymoon in Chicago. They were married here Saturday. The bride, who is the daughter of the late Colonel David W. Cheatham of Clarksville, Tex., announced the happy event today.

South Dakota Game Law.

Pierre, S. D., Aug. 21.—The first of September will not this year be ushered in with the booming of shotguns and the cussing of the farmer for the trespass upon his fields by the "town hunters." In fact, under the new law there is not much hunting to be had for two or three years, as quail are protected until 1912, and grouse and prairie chicken until 1911.

He made three successful ascensions, the balloon sailing up a dizzy distance each of the three evenings. The last time up, Friday evening, it looked like the aeronaut would not be able to make the parachute drop for some time after he ascended. The balloon went straight upwards.

Norfolk Won From Seward.

Wrangling with the umpires and the change of pitchers did not help the Seward baseball team, which came here yesterday claiming the state championship of amateur teams. They were defeated easily by Norfolk, Score 12 to 2.

This afternoon's game will decide whether Seward will be able to still retain the championship of the state. If they do, they will have to play better ball than they did yesterday.

Boy Shah of The Persians

Ahmed Mirza, Successor of Mohammed Ali, Is Only Twelve Years Old.

Holder of Many Titles Is Called King of Kings and Shadow of God.

THE newly proclaimed shah of Persia, Ahmed Mirza, who is twelve years old, is the direct successor to his father, although he is but a second son. His mother was a princess of the Kajar blood, to which the reigning house of Persia belongs, and this circumstance alone qualified him for the succession to the throne.

The Semitic rendition of an appellation that was already venerable in the time of Cyrus and Xerxes and runs back in its antiquity to the earlier periods of the Old Testament.

Possessor of Many Titles. Many are the other titles of the shah; many of them are even more splendid than the oldest of all of them. He is Zill Allah, the shadow of God; likewise Kibieh Alum, the center of the universe. Among the other superb names bestowed upon the ruler rule is usually strictly enforced, it was disregarded in the succession of the Shah Mohammed Ali, recently deposed. He ascended, succeeding his father, although not of the royal blood on his mother's side and indeed to the exclusion of higher born half brothers. There are three brothers and several sisters. The royal family is very numerous, there being several thousand princes and princesses.

MUSICAL LAWN MOWER.

Jerseyman Invents Machine to End Ennui of Summer Boarders. Leuel Starckweather, who conducts a summer boarding house in North Caldwell, N. J., has solved the problem of keeping his lawn trimmed and entertaining the summer sojourners by perfecting a combination lawn mower and music box.

The story of the invention came out when the owner took the machine to a blacksmith shop to have it sharpened for the third time in two weeks.

Up to a few weeks ago the Starckweather lawn was unkempt, and the boarders suffered from ennui in the quiet evenings, as the only music the house afforded was from a parlor organ.

Mr. Starckweather, who is ingenious, adapted the mechanism of a music box to the lawn mower, and the men boarders as well as two women visitors became eager to take turns at running the contrivance up and down the lawn in the cool of the evening.

The neighbors soon learned of the harmonious lawn mower and wanted to borrow it. The demand became so great that Mr. Starckweather says he now charges a fee for its use.

A Divided Dominion.

The new shah inherits a dominion that is largely fallen into the hands of strangers. English and Russians have divided the Persian territory into spheres of influence. Russian troops are now, with British consent, in occupation of a large part of the Persian territory.

PREDICTION OF WORLD FIGHT

Private Ownership of Land Will Make Trouble, Says Single Taxer.

Henry George, Jr., who recently arrived at London from a trip around the world, said that this tour had showed him that the question of land values was the greatest fight of modern times. It meant progress or ruin. It was the world's cause today.

Japan wanted money for her armies and ships, but Japan was poor and could no longer bear taxation. There would soon be a break in Japan unless a remedy was found for the burdens of the poor, whose poverty was worse than anything under feudalism.

As for America, he said, the state of the poor is getting worse. In the past they had spilled their blood and spent their treasure to outroot slavery. Today they had a slavery more subtle, more entrenched, more interlocked. But the United States was a republic of convulsions, and when the time came they would throw out the causes of poverty at whatever cost.

Des Moines as United States Capital.

J. F. Bishop, formerly editor of the Grand Army Advocate of Des Moines, Ia., is preparing the manuscript of a book on the subject of removing the capital of the United States from Washington to Des Moines. Mr. Bishop is confident that when the people of the United States come to understand the advantages of having the seat of the national government located centrally and are acquainted fully with the claims of the state of Iowa and Des Moines there will be no hesitancy on the part of their representatives in making the move.

HARRY THAW'S CHRONOLOGY.

What Fight For Liberty of Stanford White's Slaver Has Cost.

Some of the chief events in the career of Harry Kendall Thaw, who killed Stanford White, the New York architect, are given below in a chronological form. Thaw must return to Matteawan Asylum For the Criminal Insane, as Justice Isaac N. Mills of the supreme court, Westchester county, N. Y., recently handed down a decision in which he declares that the slayer of Stanford White is still insane.

Thaw's chronology: Born 1871, son of William Thaw of Pittsburgh; forced out of Harvard in 1891 for high stakes at poker. Spent from 1891 to 1901 touring Europe.

Met Evelyn Nesbit in 1901, when she was a chorus girl. Entertained chorus girls lavishly from 1901 to 1905, spending as much as $50,000 on a single dinner. It was reported. Married Evelyn Nesbit in 1905 against his mother's wishes. His father had died, meanwhile, practically disinheriting him, but his mother so arranged things that Harry got an equal share with the rest in the form of a trust fund income of $60,000 a year.

Started an active campaign against Stanford White in 1905, spending thousands of dollars on detectives, etc. Killed Stanford White on the Madison Square roof on June 25, 1906, at the opening of "Mamelle Champagne," in full view of hundreds.

Tried for murder from February to April, 1907, the jury disagreeing, at a cost in counsel and incidentals estimated at more than $200,000. Tried again for murder in January, 1908, the jury acquitting him on the ground of insanity; estimated cost of counsel, etc., $150,000.

Committed to Matteawan State Hospital For the Criminal Insane on Feb. 1, 1908, by Justice Dowling. Commitment confirmed by Justice Morschauer at Poughkeepsie in October, 1908; estimated cost of that proceeding, $65,000.

Commitment confirmed again by Justice Mills recently, after a month's hearing, in which 127 witnesses were examined or their testimony read; estimated cost of this last proceeding, $50,000. Incidental expenses of Thaw's confinement, luxuries while in the Tombs, and so on, about $15,000. Money alleged to have been paid out by Clifford W. Hartridge, as counsel for Thaw, to keep some people quiet, $125,000.

Expenses of Thaw's mother in proceedings, estimated, $150,000. Evelyn Nesbit's cost, estimated, since the murder, $30,000. Incidentals in the way of detectives, etc., $15,000. Grand total since Thaw killed Stanford White, approximately, $800,000.

VAN SANT'S DILEMMA.

Amusing Incident in Career of the New G. A. R. Commander in Chief.

When former Governor Samuel R. Van Sant, who was recently elected commander in chief of the G. A. R., went to New York a few years ago a former resident of Minnesota called upon the governor shortly after his arrival and was shown to his room in his hotel. He found the governor sitting in a chair surveying with a gloomy countenance a trunk which stood against the wall.

"What is the matter, governor?" asked the caller. "I want to get a suit of clothes out of that trunk," was the answer. "Well, what's the difficulty—lost the key?"

HOOFS INSTEAD OF FEET.

Boston Medical Experts Predict Them For Humanity in a Thousand Years.

Medical experts of Boston predict that civilized man will have hoofs instead of feet in a thousand years. No less personages than Dr. David D. Scannell, surgeon and ex-Harvard athlete; Lewis F. Small, an orthopedist, and Dr. L. R. G. Cranston and Dr. E. H. Bradford, both of the Harvard Medical school, see this probability. Dr. Cranston says the human foot has become a hind foot or hoof in use if not in actual form. Dr. Small says the civilized races are slowly reverting to hoofs and that we must go to the Japanese to learn how to walk. Foot troubles are unknown among them.

The Owl In History.

The owl was in former times generally regarded as an omen of misfortune or death, but as the Egyptians represented Minerva under the form of an owl the Athenians, who were under the care of this goddess, looked upon the appearance of the owl as a favorable omen. It therefore formed upon the ancient coins referred to the symbol of Athens and her foreign possessions. The Chinese and the Tartars have also held the owl in high esteem. The first named used to wear owl's feathers in their caps, and some Tartar tribes still worship idols made like owls.

Borrowing Trouble.

Kenneth, who views the future from the eminence of seven summers, was looking very woebegone. Asked why, he hesitated for a moment, then, bursting into tears, "I've been wondering," he said between sobs, "when mother's dead—and nurse's dead—and my wife's dead—who'll look after me when I'm sick?"
