Bishop Scannell at West Point.

West Point, Neb., Sept. 25.—Special to The News: The semi-annual convocation of the dean and chapter of the Abstract and Guarantee company, ofrural deanery of West Point met at the parochial house at West Point, under the presidency of Rt. Rev. Richard Scannell, bishop of Omaha. Immediately preceding the convocation a solemn requiem high mass was celebrated for the repose of the souls of all the deceased priests of the deanery. The meeting of the clergy was block 1, Pasewalk's Second addition well attended and much business of to Norfolk. ecclesiastical importance was disposed of. The next chapter will be held at West Point in April, 1910.

The annual picnic of the Cuming County Old Settlers' association took place Thursday at the Riverside park at West Point. The attendance was large and enthusiastic. The orator of the day was Col. James C. Elliott, editor of the West Point Republican, who was followed by Henry Kloke and other pioneers. A feature of the day was a well contested ball game be tween West Point and Pilger, which resulted in a victory for the latter in a score of 8 to 3. A fine exhibition of Rosebudders Defeated Norfolk Club at fireworks closed the day's festivities. The weather was slightly cool and Telegraphic communication all over the country was almost demoralized Saturday by what is commonly termed from Hoskins to spend Sunday with by wire chiefs of telegraph offices as which ground the wires so heavily, even crossing them, so that communication is practically impossible. In many cases the wires go open for a minute or two and then close, and continue doing this for hours. The northern lights are visible at night, and if a person is lucky enough to be looking toward the north when the lights appear there will be reward in seeing flames shooting up in the far north. The earth currents, which last genercity Saturday spending a few hours ally about two or three hours at a time, make their visits here as a rule once in three or four years, about this time of the year. Probably those suffering mostly from the interruption caused by the northern lights are the commercial telegraph companies whose telegrams when delayed usually mean a damage claim. The Associated Press wire running into The News Carroll's and who is now a member company with Miss Church of Rhode office, and those into Omaha, gave considerable trouble.
