Mrs. John Foster and daughter, Miss Lillian Foster, of Hoskins, called on friends here. Harry Rakow, who was in the city calling on friends, returned to his home at Page. S. M. Braden left at noon for Chicago to meet Mrs. Braden. They will return Tuesday. A. L. Killian, who has been transacting business at Sioux City, is expected to return tonight. The Misses Bessie and Alice Ward have returned from a short visit with Mrs. Edward Conley at Snyder. Miss Sophie Finkhouse of Pilger is in the city visiting with her cousin, A. W. Finkhouse, and the William Bland family. Mrs. W. H. Bucholz, who has been here visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Rainbolt, returned to her home at Omaha. Mrs. Mills, mother of Mrs. John R. Hays, is quite seriously ill. H. C. Sattler has lost a bull calf, which he thinks has been stolen. Excavations have begun for the new residence of E. N. Vall on Park avenue. A. H. Viele, who is confined to his home with rheumatism and lumbago, is reported better today. William Klentz is quite seriously ill at his farm eight miles south of town. Typhoid fever is feared. Dr. C. S. Parker, who has been confined to his home with the grip, is able to be up and around again. Miss Merle Blakeman sprained her wrist Saturday when she accidentally fell at the roller skating rink. George E. Smith sold his farm northwest of Norfolk to Henry Wachter, a farmer living near here. The property was sold for $11,000. A new gate has been built in front of the fire station. This new gate will practically do away with the chain which was formerly used. Superintendent F. M. Hunter of the Norfolk schools was elected a member of the executive committee of the state teachers' association. Miss Josephine Butterfield has gone to Denver to join her parents. Reports concerning the health of Mr. Butterfield are not encouraging. John Krueger, who has rented out his farm near Hadar for a year, has purchased the E. M. Ziesche property on South Fourth street and will make that place his residence. The sum of $2,500, it is said, was paid for this property. A number of out of town friends, as well as his neighbors, attended the funeral of William Hagil, who died at his home north of town, at the age of 60. Rev. Mr. Hammond had charge of the services. Burial was in Prospect Hill cemetery. A miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Edith Estabrook last evening by a large number of her friends. The shower was in the nature of a surprise on Miss Estabrook, who is to be married to Harry Rhodes of Sioux City next Wednesday. Potatoes almost as big as squashes were brought to Norfolk from Idaho by I. C. Stephens of Montrose, Ia., here visiting his daughter, Mrs. E. R. Fairbanks. He helped dig the potatoes, and 800 more bushels just like them, in Iowa. He says the potatoes are selling there at 35 cents a bushel and are being fed to the hogs. Fremont Herald: Secretary Marsh of the local Y. M. C. A., received word from State Secretary Bailey yesterday that Norfolk citizens have completed the collection of $26,000 for the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building in that town. The town started to gather $25,000 for that purpose a year and a half ago and the first investigation of its success occurred yesterday when promoters of the project learned they had accumulated just $1,000 more than necessary. According to Mr. Bailey, work will immediately be taken up toward planning and contracting for the association building. With the fund on hand it is confidently expected a building of good dimensions and fine design can be erected. Norfolk has never had a regular Y. M. C. A. branch of any description. News of its final success in acquiring one is considered gratifying by local association men. Justice Eiseley was busy during the morning dealing out fines to drunks who were lodged in the city jail over night. Henry Harmier of Belden said that in some mysterious way he became intoxicated Friday, and he was fined $7.10. Gilbert Dills, a Norfolk carpenter, got the same fine on the same charge. John McGraw, a stranger in the city, also on a charge of drunkenness, got the same fine. John Glendinning, declaring he hailed from Tripp county, South Dakota, was let off with a fine of $1. Charles Hoskins, who said he had no regular place of residence and no money, was let off with a reprimand from the judge. Acton Poulet, a New York banker, who has accepted a position as general agent of the Standard Oil company in all French Cochon China, is a cousin to F. A. Beeler and L. M. Beeler of Norfolk. Mr. Poulet, who is a Frenchman, landed in New Orleans when he was 14 years old and worked as fireman for a railroad company in New Orleans. He later started in the dry goods business in Kansas and then operated a bank in the same state. He has been for some years an active worker in Wall street. Mr. Poulet is now visiting relatives in Kansas and starts on his long journey to China in a few days. The position which Mr. Poulet will fill is an important one, but it also has its bright side. Seven servants will be at his command and to top it off, the salary is something over $10,000 per annum. Humphrey Democrat: A crazy man escaped from the Norfolk asylum one day last week, and succeeded in reaching the home of some of his friends southwest of Humphrey before being overtaken and captured by an officer from the asylum. But he was not captured without considerable effort on the part of the officer and his assistants, as the fellow put up a strong fight against going back to Norfolk. He was finally subdued and brought to Humphrey Saturday afternoon with his hands strapped to his sides. Apparently he had become resigned to going back to Norfolk, as his actions were very peaceable all the afternoon while being kept at the Union Pacific depot waiting for the evening north-bound train. However, a short time before train time he suddenly became imbued with the idea of escape, and for an instant, while the officer's back was turned, he darted out the door and disappeared in the darkness. On Monday, we understand, he was captured again at Columbus and taken to Norfolk Monday evening. We failed to learn the name of the crazy man, but it is understood he is a Pole and formerly lived several miles southwest of town. Mrs. Pat Crotty arrived home from Omaha last evening, where she had been on business. Mrs. E. F. Fisher returned home from a two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Lester Parker, at Tilden. Mrs. Andy Dryden and son, Goodwin, went to Missouri Valley Friday noon. A dance was given in Railroad hall last evening, which was well attended. John E. Eckhoff went to work again as a fireman, having laid off for some time. Engineer John Mullen came home sick yesterday morning. Mrs. John McGrane came home from Omaha last evening. B. W. Fauste went to Omaha yesterday on business. E. C. Conner has moved his family from Fremont to the Maylord property in The Heights. Ed Hutton arrived home from West Point last evening. H. V. Evans is improving the looks of his residence on South Fourth street by a new coat of paint. Miss Helen Carver of Hastings is visiting for a few days with relatives. Time for Omaha Lawyers. Lincoln, Nov. 5.—The supreme court granted I. J. Dunn, John Rine and H. E. Burnam, attorneys of Omaha, until November 15 to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt. The three attorneys are accused of using language reflecting on W. B. Rose, a justice of the court. Mr. Dunn, who said he was ready to assume all blame for the alleged offensive language, complained that the charges against him were not specific and on that ground asked time to plead, and the court acceded. Mr. Dunn, the principal on whom the burden of proof falls, has long been prominent in state politics. He made the nominating speech for William Jennings Bryan at the last national convention at Denver. The climax of the row between the superintendent and the book-keeper at the insane asylum at Lincoln has culminated in the discharge of the book-keeper by Superintendent Woodard. Felix Newton, the book-keeper, received his walking papers from the superintendent at a time when the governor was absent from the state, and Newton will take his cause up with the big chief immediately upon his return to the state. Newton is a Russian, and for a number of years he has been very prominent in local politics, having been able to deliver the greater majority of the Russian vote to any particular candidate who had his friendship. It was for his activity along these lines that the local politicians urged him for the place upon the election of Governor Shallenberger. From the very first he and Superintendent Woodard failed to get along, and the breach finally became so wide that the superintendent snapped the string that held Newton to the pay roll. Governor Shallenberger spent ten days in the company of a number of governors and congressmen who accompanied President Taft down the Mississippi river to New Orleans. This same trip was made a year ago by Governor Sheldon with President Roosevelt as the guest of honor. The object of the river trip was to create interest in a deep waterway to the gulf. General Manderson has come to the conclusion that the state of Nebraska needs more advertising, and to get it he is in favor of the state appropriating more money for the maintenance of the state labor bureau. This sudden inspiration came to General Manderson by reason of a stranger asking him about the valuation of the agricultural products of the state and the fact that he gave an answer which placed the figures entirely too low. When he discovered his mistake he at once wrote to the deputy labor commissioner for information and discovered the bureau had plenty of information, but no money with which to circulate it. So he has commenced to advocate more interest in the bureau and a larger appropriation. The state teachers association is holding forth in its annual meeting in Lincoln this week, with an enormous attendance. Special sections have been arranged for the teachers of the different grades, and teaching in all its phases is being gone into. Many of the school boards permitted the teachers to have a few days vacation with pay, in order to give them an opportunity to attend the meeting. The Northwestern railroad has received permission from the state railway commission to issue bonds to the amount of something over $20,000,000. This sum is the remainder of an issue of $30,000,000 to issue which the Wisconsin commission granted permission some time ago. A portion of the sum will be used to pay for improvements already made and some for permanent improvements yet to be made. L. E. Wetling and U. G. Powell rate men, who are assisting Attorney General Thompson in preparing for the case, wherein, the railroads are seeking to have declared void the two cent fare law, the Aldrich rate bill, and other enactments of the 1907 legislature, have gone to Chicago to secure some evidence for their case. The attorney general will endeavor to present his case in full during the coming week. The cross examination of railroad witnesses by the state will start in the federal court in Omaha, November 8. W. J. Bryan has accepted an invitation from the commercial club to be one of the speakers upon the occasion of the visit of delegation of Japanese to that city. Considerable interest attaches to the present session of the supreme court, inasmuch as on Thursday, I. J. Dunn of Omaha, is to appear and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. Mr. Dunn recently filed a brief with the court in an Omaha case, and he was at once cited for contempt, the judges giving him until November 4, to make his appearance. He severely criticised an opinion written by Judge Rose, and the court took his language to be disrespectful. Superintendent Woodard of the Lincoln asylum has made a request for the state accountant to check up the books at the institution. Auditor Barton was out of town at the time Mr. Woodard made his request, and Accountant Tulleys would take no action until ordered to do so by his superiors. State Treasurer Brian has asked county treasurers to send in all the state money they have on hand, in order to save him from registering warrants. During the week warrants to the amount of $10,000 were offered for payment with no money in the general fund to meet the demand. If the county treasurers respond as he expects, there will be no need to register the warrants. Howard Sechrist Dead. Beemer, Neb., Nov. 6.—News reaches here of the sudden death of Howard Sechrist at Shenandoah, Ia., last Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. He had bought a restaurant two weeks before. Sechrist formerly owned the Beemer Times and last year worked at Gregory and Dallas. He was known in Norfolk. Former Neilgh Sweetheart Aids Her. Lincoln, Nov. 8.—When Miss Pearl Stoner of Neilgh wedded Alfred T. Staley of Denver in Lincoln last August she, in the exuberance of her newly wedded joy, wrote to a former sweetheart of hers in Antelope county, telling him of her wedding. The former sweetheart and Miss Stoner had at one time had a misunderstanding, and they had not communicated with one another until he received the letter telling of her nuptials. The realization of his loss stirred him to activity. He immediately came to Lincoln, found out the name of the man she had married and then started on the fellow's trail. He discovered that in Council Bluffs, less than two years ago, Staley had married Hettie Bixler. He later found Mrs. Staley in Omaha. She said Staley had deserted her within a year, and that she had lost all trace of him. So far as she knew he had secured no divorce. The two booked their grievances, came to Lincoln and together called on the prosecuting attorney. The filing of the complaint is docked. No Funerals in Dakota Town. Lebeau, S. D., Nov. 8.—Death and funerals are under the ban in LeBeau

Also undertakers. The town is roused to a high pitch of indignation today because L. T. Perkins, 50 years of age, got killed in an automobile accident two miles outside of the town and it has been proposed to bury him within the corporate limits. Inasmuch as LeBeau, in its fifty years of existence, has never had a death or funeral within its corporate limits, the citizens feel that a burial at this late date would be a blot on the fair name of the village. LeBeau has no graveyard and doesn't want any. So when Perkins was killed citizens began collecting a fund to ship the remains to an undertaker at Millet, S. D., 150 miles east. Relatives of Perkins are expected to arrive to take charge of the body and the citizens will try to persuade them to bury the remains elsewhere. Attorneys Palmer and Hendrickson have undertaken to prove that no one has a right to inter a body within the city's limits. Inventor Loses Hand in Machine. Neilgh, Neb., Nov. 8.—Special to The News: J. E. Goodhue of St. Charles, Ill., inventor of the extensively advertised Goodhue cornhusker, was seriously injured Saturday afternoon at the farm of Gildon Donner in West Cedar Valley, about seven miles southwest of this city. Mr. Goodhue was demonstrating the workings of his machine in the corn field of Mr. Donner when his right hand was accidentally caught in the corrugated rollers and smashed and mangled to a pulp. The hand was so tightly wedged between the rollers that it required the prying of them apart with crowbars, before the injured member could be released. The unfortunate man called for Dr. Beattie of this city, who immediately went out. Upon his arrival Mr. Goodhue requested that he leave as much of the hand as possible. Investigation showed that nothing could be saved but the thumb, and all the rest was taken off to the extreme back part of the hand. The injured man will be at the Donner residence for several days or until he considers it safe to return to his home. Nebraska Anti-Pass Law No Good. Lincoln, Nov. 8.—It has just been discovered that the anti-pass law has been rendered practically worthless. In amending the law to make it more liberal regarding employees of the roads, a joker was run in which provides that in securing a conviction it must be proven that the party accused accepted "and" used a pass. In the old law of 1907 conviction could be secured by proving the acceptance "or" use of the pass. While the railway commission holds it is easy to prove the acceptance of the pass, to prove its use would be more difficult. Because of that joker, three cases were dismissed by the county attorney of Valley county. O'Neill Issues Challenge. O'Neill, Neb., Nov. 8.—Sporting Editor, The News: O'Neill high school hereby renews their offer to play the Norfolk and Neilgh high schools a game of football, same to be played in Norfolk, Neilgh or O'Neill. All efforts on O'Neill's part to arrange games with their team have thus far proven futile. The only reason O'Neill sees in their refusal to play is the fear of defeat. Both teams had open dates when challenged by O'Neill. O'Neill has not been scored on the four games played. Both teams were willing to play until O'Neill beat Gates 15 to 0. Mills Work Overtime. Neilgh, Neb., Nov. 8.—Special to The News: For the past two months the Neilgh mills have been working both night and day to fill regular orders. Despite this constant grind they are still thirty-five cars behind on flour and feed orders. J. W. Spirk, manager of the mill here for S. F. Gilman, stated this morning that they had just received a government contract for 1,500,000 barrels of flour that will be distributed among the different Indian reservations. Searchlight on Asylum. Lincoln, Nov. 8.—On the representation of Felix Newton, deposed book-keeper at the Lincoln insane hospital, that crooked work has been done there Governor Shallenberger will at once order an investigation by the state accountant. Northwest Deaths. Ed Holbart died near Dixon. L. P. Brisack died at Dodge. Mrs. James Myers of Humphrey died at Chicago. Gustave Borchert formerly of Osmond, died at Java, S. D. Runs From Guard, Cuts His Throat. A sensational suicide at the Norfolk insane hospital occurred Saturday when Martin Barrett, a patient from Atkinson, broke away from the guards during a walk about the grounds, rushed back to the ward, opened a bureau drawer and, seizing a razor, cut his throat. An attendant saw what Barrett was about to do, grabbed the patient and scuffled with him, but even in the scuffle Barrett succeeded in ending his life. After the wash had been made, an attendant tried to bind the severed veins together, but Barrett, who was a big, powerful fellow, fought off the attendant and, winning his fight, bled to death. The remains were taken to Atkinson at noon for burial. Coroner Kindred was called from Meadow Grove. Barrett had attempted suicide many times before. He was born in Ireland. News of the tragedy was successfully withheld by hospital officers until the coroner's arrival. Barrett was walking in a line of patients out of ward No. 4. An attendant was at the head of the line and one was at the rear. When ward No. 2 was reached Barrett dropped out of the line and slipped into ward No. 2, the "open ward." The question naturally arises, in view of the quick and easy suicide of a man who had threatened suicide before, "why was a razor left loose where a patient could get it?" A week before Barrett had told the night watch he would pay $1,000 for a knife with which to cut his throat, as his mother "called him from heaven." Despite this fact, however, no special restraint was placed upon him and he was allowed to drop out of the line and kill himself before the attendants' very eyes. KANSAS 6, NEBRASKA 0. Quarterback Johnson Wins Game in Last Two Minutes of Play. Lincoln, Nov. 8.—By a sensational return of a punt in a run of seventy yards in the last two minutes of play, Quarterback Johnson won a victory for Kansas in a game in which the Jayhawkers were beaten in nearly every department of play by Nebraska. The Jayhawkers' thrilling feat lodged the ball squarely behind the goal posts and Pleasant kicked an easy goal that made the score of the struggle 6 to 0. The game was one of the most fiercely fought exhibitions of the "new foot ball" ever seen in Nebraska and but for the wiggling and dodging of Quarterback Johnson, in the waning seconds of the contest, it must have been a 0 to 0 score. Johnson's run was similar to one he made in the game with Nebraska last fall, when he raced sixty yards from a punt, placing the oval so near the Cornhusker goal that it was easily pushed over for the five points. In the battle Beltzer booted the ball from Nebraska's forty yard line. It fell into the hands of the Jayhawkers who in the Kansas forty-five-yard line. Johnson was in the middle of the field, and, receiving the ball, he darted straight across the grounds for the north side, hurling off tacklers and side stepping others. Within five yards of the side lines he turned west toward the Cornhusker goal and wriggled away from more Cornhusker tacklers. Here the interference for the Jayhawkers was grand, four men being with him. He raced along the fringe of the field behind perfect protection and dropped behind the Nebraska goal for the points that won the game. Nebraska, the team that before the game was touted to lose by a margin, bewildered the Jayhawkers with its startling variety of attacks. In one half it outplayed Kennedy's men but, in two departments of the game, punting and returning the ball from punts. The Cornhuskers never wavered before the attack of their opponents and presented a stone wall from tackle to tackle. In the early minutes of the struggle Quarterback Johnson chose to end some plays at both sides of the line, but they were so effectively hecked that he had to rely on a punting game. In the use of the forward pass and on-side kick the Cornhuskers completely outclassed the Kansas players. The Jayhawkers ried several short kicks, but not one if them was a success so strong was he Nebraska defensive play. Every short kick made was matched up readily by an alert Cornhusker. Coach Kennedy's much talked of forward passes failed to materialize and not one was attempted. Johnson was ready three or four times to pass the ball to one of the ends, but in every instance the Jayhawkers were so closely guarded that it would have been folly to have attempted the pass. The Cornhuskers, however, used both forward pass and on-side kick with telling effect, and especially in the second half, when the ball was advanced many yards by these plays. Nebraska never lost a yard in a forward pass and recovered on-side kicks three times in the second session. Three forward passes netted cautious gains. The Kansas line failed to hold up against the Cornhuskers' onslaught, but in the second session the Nebraska players charged down the ball field for many long gains by smashing through big holes in the line. Madison, Neb., Nov. 8.—Special to The News: The elegant church edifice of the German Evangelical Lutheran congregation of this city was dedicated with solemn and imposing ceremonies. After a brief service at 10 o'clock a. m. in the old church, in which the congregation had worshiped for years and which will be used as a school house hereafter, the members passed to the door of the new church, where they were met by Rev. Mr. Hunsick, the pastor, who spoke briefly but impressively, after which the congregation followed him into the church. Rev. Mr. Haack of Bennett preached the morning sermon and Rev. Mr. Wings of Laurel the afternoon sermon, both of which services were in German. The evening services were in German and Rev. Mr. Scheips of Pierce preached the sermon. The church is electric lighted, with furnace heat and complete in all respects. Clarence Wolfgram, who accidentally met death Friday evening by falling from a load of sand on Main street, was buried in the afternoon, the funeral services being held from the Methodist church of this city. Hull, deceased, in the county court of Madison county, Nebraska. Now on the 4th day of November, 1909, came Annice Elizabeth Hull and Jack Koenigstein, the executors of said estate, and pray for leave to render an account as such executors. It is therefore ordered that the 6th day of December, 1909, at 1 o'clock p. m., at my office in Madison, Neb., be fixed as the time and place for examining and allowing such account. And the heirs of said deceased, and all persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at the time and place so designated, and show cause, if such exists, why said account should not be allowed. It is further ordered that said Annice Elizabeth Hull and Jack Koenigstein, executors, give notice to all persons interested in said estate by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Norfolk Weekly News-Journal, a newspaper printed and in general circulation in said county, for three weeks prior to the day set for said hearing. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal this 4th day of November, A. D., 1909. Wm. Bates, County Judge.
