

Norfolk 0, Columbus 0.

The two first teams of the Norfolk and Columbus high schools played the most sensational game of football ever seen in Norfolk Saturday afternoon. When time was called neither team had made a score.

The first game of the scheduled double header was played between the first Stanton team and the second Norfolk team resulting in a score of 9 to 0 in Stanton's favor. Stanton made their first touchdown in the first quarter after some fast playing. The Norfolk boys showed good science. Blakeman, who played a star game for Norfolk, made a beautiful run with the ball and when time sounded ending the last quarter Norfolk had the ball dangerously near the Stanton goal line. Logan, substitute on the first team, showed up well and Larkins also played a good game.

The Norfolk-Columbus Game.

When the game opened it was plainly noticed that the Columbus team was the heavier. One tackle looked the size of a giant alongside his small but fast opponent. A "left footer" kicked off for Columbus opening the game and although it was a long distance kick Parish caught it prettily and made a neat run.

Parish and Willey were stars of the game, Parish making a large number of wonderful quarter-back runs, dodging the opposing tacklers with remarkable skill.

The Columbus line was so heavy that line plunges were not ground gainers.

Laurels were won during the game by Kelleher, Odiome, Emery, Mapes and Hibben. Norfolk's goal line was in danger at times but the team developed stone wall defense. At one time Parish made a beautiful 40-yard dash through the opposing eleven, to within two yards of the Columbus goal, but the end of the quarter spoiled chance to score.

Coach Hunter has developed a wonderful football machine among the Norfolk high school boys within a comparatively short time.

Another Columbus-Norfolk game may be played.

ROOSEVELT AT CLEVELAND.

The Colonel Once Again Defines "New Nationalism" Doctrine.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, speaking at meeting here, said:

"During the last few years, it has become increasingly evident to all really far-sighted men that it is imperatively necessary to grapple with the problems of the present day in the spirit in which Abraham Lincoln and the men of his day, fifty years ago, grappled with the then existing problems. We cannot show ourselves the true heirs of Lincoln and his followers by merely praising what they did in the dead past; the sincerity of our loyalty to their ideals must be shown by the resolute efficiency with which we apply those ideals to present day needs working in a surely progressive spirit, not being misled into following wild experiments any more than Lincoln was misled, but being equally resolute to follow Lincoln's course in refusing to put our destiny in the hands of the Bourbon and the reactionary. Much alarm—some of it sincere, some of it entirely insincere —has been exposed about the new nationalism. The new nationalism really means nothing but the efficient application to new conditions of the old and fundamental moralities; in accordance with which our forefathers worked in the days when they founded this republic; in accordance with which our fathers worked in the days when they saved the republic. We are trying to apply to the economic and social conditions of the twentieth century the doctrine which Abraham Lincoln enunciated fifty-one years ago when he said: "Our opponents held the liberty of one man to be absolute; nothing when in conflict with another man's right of property; we, on the contrary, are for both the man and the dollar; but in case of conflict, the man before the dollar." In other words, as I said in my Osawatimie speech, and as I repeated in New York, the new nationalism represents the struggle of freedom to gain and to hold the right of self-government as against the special interests, who twist the methods of free government into machinery for defeating the popular will. At every stage and under all circumstances the essence of the struggle is to equalize opportunity, to destroy privilege, and to give to the life and citizenship of every individual to the highest possible value both to himself and to the commonwealth. Honest, timid men who are neither honest nor timid, into misinterpreting our purpose; but as certain as I stand here, the American people will in the end, overwhelmingly and decisively declare themselves for the principles and the purpose as set forth. Our intention is to extend the genuine principles of democracy into our industrial and economic, as well as our political life. We hold that a great democracy must be progressive, for if it ceases to be either great or democratic, we believe in efficiency in government, we stand for fact and not formulas. We are for the efficient exercise of popular rights; we wish to see the efficiency shown alike.

Aldrich's Record Clean.

David City, Neb., Nov. 7.—Special to The News: The following circular was issued here Saturday by a self-appointed committee of representative citizens of all shades of political opinion and religious creed, showing that C. H. Aldrich, the republican candidate for governor, is highly esteemed by those who know him, and denying the slanderous charges that have been made against him for political purposes:

David City, Neb., Nov. 5.—A self-appointed committee of the citizens of David City would like to clear the atmosphere a little from the dust and smoke of this political campaign. We believe the people of the state want to know the truth, and then vote their convictions. This committee, composed of democrats, republicans and populists, of Germans and Bohemians, Catholics and Protestants, proceeded to investigate the stories and slanders made against Mr. Aldrich, and to report on the effort made to discredit the recent findings of the Ministerial union of this city in regard to the same. This committee desires to make a fair report to the people of Nebraska.

After making what we believe to be a fair and sufficient investigation, which included interrogations of members of the democratic committee, committee, and others as to the falseness of these stories, together with a personal acquaintance with Mr. Aldrich of from fifteen to twenty-five years, upon the part of most of this investigating committee, report as follows:

That, we confirm the findings of the Ministerial union as previously published:

That, the effort to discredit that report and to spread the slanders are merely political tactics to deceive voters.

(Signed) A. M. Walling, Daniel Sanley, E. A. Cram, Anton Ptacek, W. H. Taylor, Dr. E. D. Banghart.

Heavy Betting on Election.

Wisner, Neb., Nov. 7.—Special to The News: More betting is being done in this community on the forthcoming Nebraska election than in many years. It is estimated that about $5,000 has been wagered, even money, on the governorship. One Wisner woman is said to have bet $500 Saturday on Aldrich's election. Any amount of money offered, on either side, is quickly covered.

What is true at Wisner is true of the entire state. A great deal of money will change hands on the election result.

WHAT IS "CONSPIRACY"?

Uncle Sam Asks His Supreme Court to Decide the Question.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The federal government through the department of justice has concurred in a movement to procure from the supreme court of the United States an authentic decision of "what is conspiracy" as it relates to the offenses against the government?

The desire for more light on the subject has arisen, it is said, out of the repeated success of the statute of limitation as a defense against charges of conspiracy against the United States.

The supreme court of the United States seemed never to have considered the application of the statute of limitations to conspiracy. A test case will be made.

Mine Explosion Kills Sixteen.

Seattle, Nov. 7.—Two explosions occurring within a few minutes of each other resulted in the death of sixteen in the Lawson mine at Black Diamond thirty miles southeast of Seattle. Eleven men going down on shift and five coming up were caught between the first and sixth levels and it is al most certain they all perished. Natural gas combustion is assigned as the cause. All the men were foreigners.

RUN FROM OFFICE.

Hoosier Nominees for Justice Make Stump Speeches for Each Other.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 7.—The office is seeking the men out in Albany, Delaware township, ten miles northeast of this city. If it catches him and pins to his coat lapel the insignia of rank, justice of the peace, the magisterial functions of the community will be discharged by an indignant citizen.

Isaiah Duddleston, republican, and Joseph Zehner, democrat, are the two candidates for justice, and each nominee has business interests which will suffer if he is elected. Therefore each is making stump speeches several times a day setting forth the virtues of his opponent and declaring his own unfitness to hold the office.

Zehner was the first to take the stump for his opponent, but Duddleston followed so closely on his heels that it was a perfect start.

"I did not wish the nomination, but it was forced on me by my fellow democrats," Zehner said in his "keynote" speech. "I am here tonight to urge the election of my opponent, Isaiah Duddleston. I haven't any use for the republicans myself, and I think the office of justice of the peace in this township would be a fit punishment for any one belonging to that party. If Isaiah Duddleston is elected to this office, the democrats will gain one more vote the next election. I have voted the democratic ticket all my life, but this is where I stop, and this election will find me voting for one republican at least.

"I am not fitted for the office, and have not the time to give to it or to take care of the money that I would get out of it. Since my party nominated me for this office it ought to be beaten and beaten hard. The only punishment fit for the convention that named me for the office is the election of my dear opponent, who does not desire the office, Isaiah Duddleston."

A few nights later Duddleston appeared before a meeting of his fellow townsmen for an address. The audience was one of the largest that a political meeting ever attracted, as the curiosity of the voters had been sharpened by the remarks of Zehner.

"What would I know about administering the law?" Duddleston asked. "The answer is 'Nothing.' I am against democrats as such, but in this instance I desire to say that I am ready to leave my party and vote for a democrat. Any goldarned party that didn't have any more sense than to nominate me for the position of justice ought to be beaten by a man like Zehner, even if he is a democrat."

The two candidates have started noon meetings, speaking to any sized audience they can draw, and railing against themselves and extolling their opponents.

DIES ON STREET CAR.

Great English Traction Line Builder, Succumbs in New York.

New York, Nov. 7.—Sir Clifton Robinson, managing director and engineer of the London United Electric trams, and director of the underground railways of London, died last night on a Lexington avenue car. Sir Clifton was born in 1848 and his professional life has been largely associated with transportation problems. He built the tramway at Birkenhead, the first in Europe, and later was a pioneer builder of cable and electric traction lines in London, Bristol and Los Angeles, Calif. He designed and constructed the London United Electric tramway system and later was concerned in the promotion of the great London tube system. He registered at a hotel here Saturday. None of his family was with him.

BALLINGER BLAMES ENEMIES.

Says Agitation has Held Back Alaskan Case Settlements.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Blaming the agitation since the withdrawal of all Alaskan coal lands in 1906 as the cause of keeping the question unsettled and also for the inaction of congress, Secretary of Interior Ballinger made public a statement in which he assails those charging with him being an opponent of conservation and blames them for the unsettled condition in Alaska.

The statement was brought out by the recent indictments in Washington against Alaska coal claimants, in which connection the secretary says that these "are but further steps in the effort being made by the sovereign to clear it up and settle the whole question."

Cabinet Members, Returning from Campaign, Bring Good Reports.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Returning cabinet campaigners brought news to the white house today that it was stated officially, was quite encouraging as to republican prospects in various parts of the country.

Attorney General Wickersham, Secretary Nagel and Secretary Wilson all spent an hour with the president. They have been out in the campaign during the last week, and declared that the republican cause had grown during the last fortnight. Messrs. Nagel and Wilson both saw duty in New York. Secretary Wilson also was in Ohio. Mr. Wickersham confined his efforts to Ohio, where Secretary Knox also spoke. All of the cabinet officers who are in the city will receive the election returns at the white house tomorrow evening.

"Tony" Neno Now Bandit.

Tony Neno, the star shortstop on the 1909 Norfolk baseball team, is behind the bars of the Omaha city jail and will receive a sentence for many robberies and hold-ups to which he has confessed. Neno's real name is Pasha and he has confessed to having been associated with Frank ("Monk") Trummer, who was at one time scheduled to come to Norfolk to fight Kid Jensen. Pasha had tried out on the Omaha Western League team but failed. He played with Roy Bovee on the Columbus state team and had also played with Wayne.

List of Omaha "Jobs."

October 16.—Trummer and Pasha held up and robbed Thomas Lee, 1105 Pacific street, on Eleventh street, between Mason and Pacific, taking $1.65 of which a nickel was returned for the victim's carfare.

October 18.—Pasha and Trummer held up and robbed E. M. Cerny, a tailor, between Twelfth and Thirtieth streets on Atlas, securing a watch, charm and $5.

October 19.—Held up an unknown man on South Ninth street. Took watch and fountain pen. Trummer and Pasha did the job.

October 19.—Trummer, Pasha and Sledge held up and robbed L. F. Walthill of Viewfield, S. D., at Tenth and William streets. Walthill was on his way to Iowa and was on his way to the depot when he was carried by. He alighted and was walking back when held up. A watch, fountain pen and $45 was taken.

October 22.—Trummer and Trimble held up and robbed Conductor J. W. Seuter of the street railway company at Twelfth and Howard streets, taking $43.

October 22.—Trummer and Pasha held up and robbed John Loub at Thirtieth and Dorcas streets, taking $1.35.

October 22.—Trummer, Pasha, Sledge and Trimble held up a man in Riverview park, but he had nothing.

Other Confessions Expected.

Other "jobs" are expected to develop and the suspects evince a desire to confess all. On October 17, there was a veritable carnival of robbery, all of which is laid at their door.

It is alleged by Pasha that Trummer "held out" on the spoils of the hold-ups and that this caused dissension in the ranks, resulting in the confession. Pasha always held the revolver in the holdups, while Trummer did the searching.

Ralph Beveridge of Norfolk Has This Distinction.

R. L. Beveridge, a prominent Norfolk saloon keeper and a strong supporter of James C. Dahlgren, four years ago saved the life of the young son of Chester H. Aldrich, Dahlgren's opponent for the governorship of Nebraska.

Mr. Beveridge was proprietor of a saloon at David City and had promised the three young sons of the republican candidate that he would some day take them with him on his fishing expeditions. The fishing day arrived and a trip was made to the Platte river where the party enjoyed fine fishing. Suddenly Mr. Beveridge heard the crying of one of the boys, the youngest of Mr. Aldrich's sons. The youngster fell into very deep water and it is said had gone down for the third time. Mr. Beveridge jumped into the water and saved the boy's life, bringing him to the shore.

Although Mr. Beveridge will vote for Dahlgren, he has great respect for Aldrich as a man and citizen.
